White Is Convicted By Alabama Jury Of Negro Slaying

First In Modern Southern History; Will Appeal 10-Year Prison Term

COMBINED AP & UPI

ANNISTON, Ala.—Hubert Damon Strange, the first white man in modern southern history to be convicted of murder in a racial slaying, was formally sentenced today to 10 years in prison.

Strange, 25, stood motionless as Circuit Court Judge Robert Parker imposed the 10 year sentence handed down yesterday by an all-white jury.

HUBERT DAMON STRANGE
Caught by surprise

The jury found Strange guilty of second degree murder in the nightrider slaying last July of Willie Brewster, a Negro. Two other white men, Lewis Blevins, 26, and Johnny Ira Defries, 25, are to be tried later.

A $10,000 appeals bond was set by Parker and Strange had 30 days in which to file for an appeal.

Strange was escorted to the Calhoun County jail by Sheriff Roy Snead. The prisoner was not in handcuffs.

The jury returned its verdict yesterday afternoon after more than 10 hours of actual deliberation. Twenty ballots were taken by the panel which received the case Wednesday afternoon.

ATTORNEY WEEPS

The verdict caught Strange, his attorney, and Negro civil rights leaders by surprise.

Strange was speechless, a look of dismay and disbelief on his face. His lawyer, J.B. Stoner, wept and denounced the [illegible] "whit[illegible]

Civil rights leaders, certain Strange would be acquitted, had printed protest leaflets for distribution and planned a demonstration for Saturday.

MILD OBJECTION

There was mild objection by a few Negroes to Strange's conviction for second degree murder instead of first degree murder as asked by the state. But Brewster's widow said she wasn't "too disappointed" with the verdict.

There have been at least two manslaughter convictions of whites in modern Southern history for the slaying of Negroes in cases linked to recent racial tension.

Johnnie Mae Chappel, 35, Negro, was shot and killed in Jacksonville, Fla., during racial demonstrations on March 23, 1963. J.W. Rich, 22, a white man, was sentenced to 10 years for manslaughter.

Virgil Ware, 13, a Negro, was shot to death Sept. 15, 1963, in the aftermath of a Negro church bombing which killed four girls in Birmingham, Ala. Two white youths were convicted of second-degree manslaughter and released on probation.

Peace Parley Hopes Fading In Moscow

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The possibility of a multination peace offensive on Viet Nam became doubtful today.

The hope was triggered yesterday when British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart proposed that his country and the Soviet Union take the initiative in setting up a conference aimed at achieving a cease-fire.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, fresh from a four-hour conference with President Johnson, then announced that the United States is prepared to attend almost any Southeast Asia peace conference.

This was the Johnson administration's direct response to the Stewart suggestion, voiced over live television in Moscow and thus interpreted as possibly indicative that the Soviets were interested.

Troops Beat Jungles But Find No Action

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — U.S. and Vietnamese troops beat through the jungles of South Viet Nam today without bringing the Communists into major action for the third successive day. But American planes kept up their attacks on North and South Viet Nam with undiminished fury.

Communist snipers shot down a U.S. Marine helicopter carrying a crew of four Americans and nine Vietnamese troops south of the big U.S. air base at Da Nang, 380 miles north of Saigon. All aboard were presumed dead. The 'copter was in a flight of eight seeking out the Viet Cong.

U.S. spokesmen also reported that a propeller-driven Skyraider from the carrier Bon Homme Richard was hit yesterday over North Viet Nam and crashed into a peak 40 miles northest of Dong Hoi, a railhead near the 17th Parallel frontier. The pilot as listed as missing.

The nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise sent up 118 planes on her second day of combat. The Big E's planes dropped 102 tons of bombs on suspected Viet Cong troop concentrations and supply dumps in South Viet Nam. Spokesmen said 60 structures were destroyed and 65 damaged.

Of the pause in the ground action, a U.S. spokesman said: "We've had these lulls before. We're beating the bushes for the Viet Cong. When they want to start it up again, they can."

The only ground action reported was a minor clash involving patrolling U.S. Marines near Da Nang. Spokesmen said there were no Marine casualties.

Guam-based B-52s roared over South Viet Nam again during the night, hitting three battle-scarred targets with their heavy bomb loads.

Windows shook in Saigon as the eight-engine Strategic Air Command bombers dropped their explosives.

In Washington, the Defense Department announced that the toll of U.S. combat dead as of last Monday night was 1,356 since Jan. 1, 1961, up 377 since last week's report. The list of missing in action went up four,

San Rafael Meter Worker Nabbed With Coin Hoard

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

As city employee Charles R. Herren walked from meter to meter in the pre-dawn hours on the streets of San Rafael, emptying them, not all the money tumbled down the chute into a locked box, police and district attorney's investigators charged late yesterday.

CHARLES R. HERREN
Sacks of coins in his closet

Herren, 61, of 3 Bayview Street, San Rafael, an 18-year employee of the city, was arrested on a charge of embezzling public money, after police found cigar boxes and sacks bulging with coins at his home.

Herren told City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen he had been taking about $7 a day, five days a week, for about a year, to save up for his retirement, Andersen reported.

But the city manager said probably no one will ever know exactly how much was taken. He estimated that almost $1,000 in coins were discovered. The money was being counted today.

Herren was arraigned late yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and released on a $1,100 bail. He was due to appear again today with an attorney to plead. The felony charge carries a possible maximum prison sentence of 10 years.

Andersen said City Finance Officer Orrin Wending and public accountant Halvor D. Klinker, who made the city's annual audit, alerted him that something was wrong in the parking meter collections. They said revenue from the meters was too low, even considering that parking lots had been closed two months while second decks were constructed.

PRIVATE EYE

Andersen quietly hired a private detective. Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa was informed, but the rest of the police department was not.

"I was investigating a city employee," Andersen said. "I didn't want other city employees to know one was suspected because it might be a false alarm."

Marked coins were put in some of the meters, and not all of them came back. The pattern of the missing coins cleared the other collector and the part-time relief man, the city manager reported.

NOT SOONER

An arrest would have come sooner, had it not been for a thief who started rifling more than 100 meters on a weekly basis, according to Andersen. Robert Earl Williams, 30, of San Francisco, was arrested in a stake-out of a parking lot Nov. 27 and charged with those thefts.

SAW HIM

About 3 a.m. yesterday, investigator Donald E. Midyett of the district attorney's office and Chiesa watched Herren during his collection. They said they saw him put some money into his car.

Midyett, Chiesa, Andersen and District Attorney Bruce B. Bales, then questioned the man, finally going to his home.

"He finally broke down and admitted it," Andersen said. "There was a cigar box with coins in it. Don Midyett asked if he could search the house and Herren said, 'Sure, go ahead.'

ANOTHER CIGAR

"Then Don found another cigar box and I said, 'Do you want to show us the rest of it?' He went to his closet and started pulling out sacks of money."

Herren is a fulltime city employee earning $565 a month. His job includes both collecting money from the meters and repairing them. He was fired from the job on his arrest.

ANOTHER SNIPER BULLET STRIKES

Third Attack Of Its Kind In Month Against Marin Sheriff Patrol Cars

A Marin City sniper continued warfare on sheriff's officers last night, firing a single shot from a gun of higher caliber than a .22 at a cruising patrol car.

The slug struck but did not penetrate the left door beside the driver, Deputy Sheriff Dennis Shine. The attack was the third of its kind in 25 days in Marin City and the second night in succession.

Wednesday night, three shots were fired at a patrol car driven by Sgt. Wade Powell. Only one slug struck the vehicle, cracking but not penetrating the windshield on the driver's side. Officers said it was believed to be from a .22 caliber gun.

No injury resulted from any of the three attacks. The sniper has not been found.

Last night's shooting occurred at 6:45 p.m. while Deputies Shine and Charles T. Prandi were in their patrol car in the 200 block of Drake Avenue. The officers said they heard the slug strike the car, then heard the loud report.

Because of the earlier attacks, the deputies kept their vehicle moving, then halted at some distance and sought to determine the source of the shot. They said the slug struck the car's metal door about 3½ inches beneath the glass, making a half-inch indentation. The slub was not found.

Capt. Sidney Stinson said the caliber was more than a .22.

Sheriff's offcers also reported a threat by a Marin City youth arrested four hours later for disturbing the peace and delaying an officer in his duties. They said Willie Edward Grayson, 19, of 89 Cole Drive, was halted on Drake Avenue by Deputies Shine and Prandi after they noticed his car's tail light blinking erratically.

Grayson allegedly used profane language and refused to leave the vehicle. The deputies said he struck Captain Stinson

With stipulation by both defense and the attorney general's office that no guilt or fault was admitted, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner issued the permanent injunction. He then dismissed without prejudice a false advertising suit brought by the state against Holiday Magic Co. and Zolene, Inc., both headed by Patrick.

The injunction specifically prohibits the companies from representing that their cosmetics are made entirely from fruits, nuts, herbs and vegetables when they also contain alcohol and/or mineral oil. Blackout Plunges Southwest Cities, Bases Into Dark

Johnson Dispatches Expert To Investigate, Tell Him Why

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A power failure that momentarily blacked out four key military bases and plunged a million persons into darkness in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico has brought a federal investigation on orders of President Johnson.

The power failure, triggered in El Paso, was a small-scale version of the blackout that left 30 million persons in the Northeastern United States and Canada without power for up to 10 hours Nov. 9.

All four military bases reported they switched almost immediately to auxiliary power. But many civilian population areas were without power for more than two hours.

Authorities of El Paso Electric Co. said the trouble was traced to failure of a device which regulated flow of natural gas to the two units of the company's Newman Plant near New Mexico's border with Mexico.

An area extending from El Paso to Socorro, N.M., 175 miles to the north, and to Van Horn, Tex., 120 miles to the east, was affected.

And most of the lights of Juarez, Mexico, a nightlife city of about 300,000 population just across the border from El Paso, also went out.

Much of the area affected, including Juarez, is not serviced by El Paso Electric. Spokesmen said, however, that a sudden surge to these areas because of the trouble with El Paso knocked them out.

Public Service Co. of New Mexico, headquartered in Albuquerque, and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation pitched in to assist.

A Public Service Co. spokesman said the company was feeding up to 113,000 kilowatts of power to the south at one point. The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation began speeding water through Elephant Butte Dam near Truth Or Consequences, N.M., to increase power production.

Ironically, the president of El Paso Electric Co., Ray Lockhart, had been quoted in an El Paso newspaper as saying that a power outage such as occurred in the Northeastern United States probably couldn't occur in this area.

El Paso, with a population of about 350,000, was the most populous city affected. Police said only minor looting and burglaries were reported here. Off-duty officers were rushed to patrols of the downtown area and shopping centers.

Legion Rules Out Rabbi's Award Over His Anti-Viet War Stand

BOSTON (UPI)—An American Legion post revealed today that it cancelled plans to give a prominent rabbi a good government award after learning he was one of 58 sponsors of last Saturday's Washington demonstration against U. S. policy in Viet Nam.

William B. Curran, commander of the Crosscup-Pishop Post 281, said the post had planned to present the award to Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn Jan. 26 along with awards to Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, and Episcopal Bishop Anson Phelps Stokes Jr.

Rabbi Gittelsohn, who delivered a sermon on the brotherhood of man at the dedication of the cemetery at Iwo Jima March 22, 1945, is a former national chaplain of the Jewish War Veterans. He now is the religious leader of Temple Israel here.

"We couldn't give him an award when he was doing something opposite to the American Legion position. When Rabbi Gittelsohn took part in the march on Washington, which is opposite to the legion's stand, there was nothing else we could do," Curran said.

Only Weather Could Cancel Gemini Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Weather, the bugaboo which has plagued many U.S. man-in-space shots, remained the only question mark today as Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. made final preparations to start off tomorrow on man's longest space venture.

Weatherman E. A. Amman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported last night he was concerned about a fast-moving trough of rainy weather going across the Southern United States toward Florida.

Amman said he hoped the trough would pass through before Saturday's scheduled 2:30 p.m. (EST) blastoff of the Titan 2 rocket and the Gemini spacecraft.

Borman, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, and Lovell, a Navy commander, are scheduled to circle the globe for a record 14 days.

On the ninth day, Dec. 13, the Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, are to blast off from the same launch pad and attempt to rendezvous and fly in formation with Gemini 7.

Brazilian Tycoon Charters Jetliner

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —The last plane for Tel Aviv had already left when Brazilian exporter Yeheskel Juri arrived at Rome airport last night on his way to see his seriously ill father.

He chartered an Italian jetliner for $7,000 and completed the trip as the only passenger in the 95-seat plane. Doctors told Juri when he arrived that his 85-year-old father was a little better.

Only Weather Could Cancel Gemini Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Weather, the bugaboo which has plagued many U.S. man-in-space shots, remained the only question mark today as Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. made final preparations to start off tomorrow on man's longest space venture.

Weatherman E. A. Amman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported last night he was concerned about a fast-moving trough of rainy weather going across the Southern United States toward Florida.

Amman said he hoped the trough would pass through before Saturday's scheduled 2:30 p.m. (EST) blastoff of the Titan 2 rocket and the Gemini spacecraft.

Borman, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, and Lovell, a Navy commander, are scheduled to circle the globe for a record 14 days.

On the ninth day, Dec. 13, the Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, are to blast off from the same launch pad and attempt to rendezvous and fly in formation with Gemini 7.

Brazilian Tycoon Charters Jetliner

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —The last plane for Tel Aviv had already left when Brazilian exporter Yeheskel Juri arrived at Rome airport last night on his way to see his seriously ill father.

He chartered an Italian jetliner for $7,000 and completed the trip as the only passenger in the 95-seat plane. Doctors told Juri when he arrived that his 85-year-old father was a little better.

Soviet Raps U.S. Viet Nam Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Soviet Union today condemned U.S. "aggression" in Viet Nam and pledged political, economic and military support to 'the Vietnamese people."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko delivered the Kremlin's reply to the latest Western peace overtures in the 117-nation Main Political Committee of the General Assembly.

He said Russia "fully supports" the four points laid down by North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh for peace in the country, which include an end to U.S. bombing and the withdrawal of all American troops from Viet Nam.

A second youth, David Barrows, 21, of 25 Burgess Court, Marin City, was also arrested by the officers about three hours after the shooting for three alleged traffic violations and interfering with the duties of an officer.

Deputies said his car was stopped at Cole Drive and Drake Avenue for having no license plate visible. He was also cited for speeding and having no driver's license.

The arresting officers quoted him as saying, "I'm going to get you, Prandi."

He was free today on $550 bail.

The first shooting, four shots on Nov. 7, broke a revolving dome light atop a patrol car, also driven by Sergeant Powell.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said he met yesterday with all Marin City sub-station personnel and every attempt will be made to apprehend the shooter or shooters. He said he believed his present patrol units and manpower to be adequate.

His office would welcome any information from Marin City residents leading to arrest of the culprits, he added.

Nam "does not, at present, seem to open a door" toward settlement.

Asked if Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reacted sympathetically to the suggestion, Stewart said: "No, I don't think he did. Stewart said, "he simply insisted that the Soviet Union has no authority to negotiate."

There was no immediate U.S. reaction to the latest Stewart statement.

The earlier glimmer of hope for peace talks followed by scant hours Johnson's own first significant pronouncement on Viet Nam since his Oct. 8 surgery.

Addressing by telephone top business leaders in Washington, Johnson said: "I have said it before. I say it again now. This nation is ready to talk, unconditionally, anywhere, with peace as our agenda. Peace will come because it must come."

Rusk flew to St. Louis after his meeting with Johnson and, addressing a press club dinner, bespoke administration determination by saying "somebody's going to be hurt" if the Hanoi government doesn't turn toward the path of peaceful settlement.

Stewart's Moscow suggestion as that the Soviet Union and Britain, as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that worked out a soon-shattered settlement in Viet Nam, join in setting up a new conference ith the hope of arranging a quick cease-fire.

Reports from Tokyo say Communist North Viet Nam admitted today that American air raids have hurt its economy and caused a cutback in industrial development.

The admission was contained in a brief report by the official Communist Chinese New China News Agency on a top-level meeting in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

The report quoted North Vietnamese Vice Premier Le Thanh Nghi as saying the American air attacks made it necessary to "carry out an on-the-spot supply policy making full use of local materials and ensuring local production and consumption."

Men's Suits, Camera Taken

Men's suits, a camera, radio, guns and a $500 new mink stole were missing last night when Ray H. Follett and his wife returned to their San Rafael home from work. Total loss was set at $1,670.

Police said a burglar entered the home at 15 Sorrento Way by prying open a crank-type kitchen window during the day.

Strange, 30, was shot to death in a parking lot here while walking to his car with his wife.

OBITUARIES

Meat Dealer James Biagini Succumbs

James Biagini, a meat dealer in San Anselmo for 35 years, collapsed, apparently from a heart attack, at his San Rafael home today and was dead on arrival at Ross General Hospital. He was 69.

Biagini retired recently as proprietor of the meat market at San Anselmo Super Market.

Biagini collapsed as he was making his way along a hallway at his home at 43 Leafwood Circle, and his wife, Josephine, called their daughter and son-in-law who are neighbors.

His daughter, Mrs. Glendine James tried to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but he was pronounced dead when the ambulance arrived at the hospital at 6:05 a.m.

He had suffered from a heart condition for about 10 years, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley, and had also undergone surgery for a lung ailment recently.

A native of Italy, Biagini was a U.S. Army veteran of World War I and a member of San Anselmo Post 179 of the American Legion.

A native of Ohio, Lee had lived in Marin County 14 years. His home was at 406 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera.

He was drinking a cup of coffee before starting work at 7:30 a.m. when he collapsed with pain in his chest, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

His wife, Marie Lee, who also works as a potter at the factory, said her husband had suffered from a heart condition for five years.

Reports from Tokyo say Communist North Viet Nam admitted today that American air raids have hurt its economy and caused a cutback in industrial development.

The admission was contained in a brief report by the official Communist Chinese New China News Agency on a top-level meeting in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

The report quoted North Vietnamese Vice Premier Le Thanh Nghi as saying the American air attacks made it necessary to "carry out an on-the-spot supply policy making full use of local materials and ensuring local production and consumption."

Meat Dealer James Biagini Succumbs

James Biagini, a meat dealer in San Anselmo for 35 years, collapsed, apparently from a heart attack, at his San Rafael home today and was dead on arrival at Ross General Hospital. He was 69.

Biagini retired recently as proprietor of the meat market at San Anselmo Super Market.

Biagini collapsed as he was making his way along a hallway at his home at 43 Leafwood Circle, and his wife, Josephine, called their daughter and son-in-law who are neighbors.

His daughter, Mrs. Glendine James tried to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but he was pronounced dead when the ambulance arrived at the hospital at 6:05 a.m.

He had suffered from a heart condition for about 10 years, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley, and had also undergone surgery for a lung ailment recently.

A native of Italy, Biagini was a U.S. Army veteran of World War I and a member of San Anselmo Post 179 of the American Legion.

He was also a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church at Ross, Marin Rod and Cun Club, and Marin County Retail Meat Dealers Assn.

Survivors are his wife; his daughter; two sisters, Mrs. Louise Garbarino and Mrs. Clorinda D'Aquisto of San Francisco, and four grandchildren.

He was drinking a cup of coffee before starting work at 7:30 a.m. when he collapsed with pain in his chest, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

Appointments Policy On Education Agenda

The Marin County Board of Education Monday will discuss policy on appointments to fill vacancies on district school boards. The meeting is to begin at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

In past appointments, the board has ruled that names under consideration not be made public, even though the post being filled is an elective position with names highly publicized during the regular elective process.

Some, but not all county board members have argued that a better panel of candidates can be had in a mid-term appointment if the names are not made known and embarrassment for those not selected is avoided.

The county board is also to discuss a claim against Standard School Supplies arising because of an erratic delivery schedule, a minority employment clause for school construction contracts, employment of a home teacher for educationally handicapped.

Castro Lashes U.S. On Viet Nam

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said today many Cubans would be willing to fight against the United States in Viet Nam.

"There are many in this country who would gladly enlist to fight there against the criminal soldiers of Yankee Imperialism," Castro said. "The day volunteers are asked, there will be thousands — millions from all parts of the world."

Castro's statement in a speech to a teachers' graduating class seemed no more an indication that he intends to send men to Viet Nam than similar previous declarations.

The 39-year-old former model had gone to court in an attempt to gain custody of the child her husband accuses her of kidnaping.

A FIRST FOR MARLENE

German-born actress Marlene Dietrich displays the Medallion of Honor awarded her by the nation of Israel at a dinner in Los Angeles last night, "in recognition of her courageous adherence to principle and long friendship for the people of Israel." She is the first woman ever to receive the award. (UPI Telephoto)

Someone Cuts Trees At Billboard Areas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state claims stealthy midnight woodsmen, using power saws that make Paul Bunyan seem a piker, are felling the trees lining Southern California's freeways —usually leaving clear, unobstructed views of billboards.

And the state has an ax to grind with the phantom woodcutters.

"It's irritating," said Edward T. Telford, district engineer for the state division of highways.

"We used to have only one case of this a year. Lately we've been getting a rash — an epidemic," he said yesterday.

Telford said that four out of five times, "the obvious beneficiary was a billboard company."

The billboard companies, however, disagree.

Retorted one executive: "We have never cut down any trees. Occasionally, with permission, we have topped some trees. We feel the trees have been cut with the intent to cause problems for us."

Asked whom he had in mind, he replied: "Individuals who absolutely hate us, a minority with a lot of idiosyncracies who will do anything to create a disturbance and have the papers come out and blast the billboard companies."

What type individuals?

"Garden clubbers, do-gooders with a platform of 'down with the billboards'."

Telford said the tree-cutting epidemic started last May 17.

The severed trees are left at the scene, the engineer said.

"We're not quit sure what to do," he said. "Obviously we can't stake out crews at night to try to catch these gremlins. They ought to be ashamed of this."

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Strawberry Center Due Another Restaurant–Chinese This Time

Some shopping centers are fortunate if they have one restaurant. Rapidly growing Strawberry Town and Country Village eventually will have at least three.

Besides Cherish Inn and Hick'ry Pit of Marin there now, come next March or April there will be another one serving Chinese fare and called Kubla Khan—a project of Stanley Toy of San Francisco, a restaurant man of many years standing.

Toy has leased 2,500 square feet next to Milford's of the Palace Beauty Salon and will undertake something different in the way of a combined restaurant and take-home food operation. He's planning on quite an elaborate dining room and kitchen.

I talked to him several months ago when he was considering several Marin locations. It speaks well for Town and Country Village that he finally settled on this spot as one of the best in the county.

DECEMBER is anniversary month for several restaurants, and I know of at least three that are having special celebrations.

Rubini's in Fairfax has its seventh birthday on Dec. 16, but is generously celebrating throughout the entire month with champagne for every dinner Wednesday through Friday evenings.

Perhaps to go with this you should try the filet of sole which Gordon Jones now has on the menu — both Mornaise and Florentine. Or perhaps the Alaskan crab legs. All fit in nicely with champagne.

But whatever you decide and before you do—check the a la carte side of the menu. There are some entrees not shown among the complete dinners—but which you can expand by adding only 75 cents more to the price. It gives you much more of a selection.

TIBURON TOMMIE'S MAI TAI also has a seventh birthday affair scheduled for Dec. 13—a week from Monday. If you know Tommie Cox at all you know what this means—an open house for the evening, starting at 5 p.m.

This year he has added reason to celebrate—completion of his new Destination South Pacific Room upstairs. Completed, that is, except for the permanent South Sea decorations which are coming from New Zealand.

ANOTHER DECEMBER CELEBRANT is Ethel Barrie at Lin Fa Gardens in the Northgate Shopping Center. Next Friday night, the 10th, will be her second anniversary and she, too, has pinpointed the date for a special party and some extra favors.

First of all, Hal Shutz will return to the organ in the Mai Tai Room for that night, while organist Bill McCoy and ensemble move into the banquet room to feature dance music from 8:30 to 1:30 a.m.

You never have to worry about parking at Northgate.

ONE - YEAR ANNIVERSARIES this month for: Courthouse Creamery, San Rafael—it was just a year ago that the Tobins moved into their new quarters at Fourth and A Streets. . . . Restaurant and bar and Hi-Ho Motel of Chuck Mowers on the 101 Highway, Mill Valley. . . . Berkeley Farms opened its restaurant and coffee shop in Novato by the dairy depot. It's been doing real well, too. . . . George and Madeleine Dumont went into that Spaulding Avenue dinery, San Anselmo (which isn't as hard to find as you might think), now known as Chez Dumont.

NOW AT THE ARK—Chris Ibanez and his three piece orchestra is a featured attraction at Sausalito's newest dinery and night spot on Sunday evenings.

HERE'S A NEW dining suggestion for food connoisseurs: Alfred Roblin's Dover sole au Chambertin at Ondine, Sausalito — prepared with a heavy-bodied Chambertin burgundy. Whoever said red wine wasn't for fish?

Also on the Ondine menu is another bell-ringer — squab flambe.

FRIDAY NIGHT seafood menu at Franchini's Chateau at 101 Highway and Lucas Valley Road is filled with pieces de resistance hard to resist — no less than 14 of them. Among the favorites are the seafood plate with frog legs, crab legs, prawns, oysters and sole—also the frog legs meunier, lobster tails, brochettes or steak, and the mahi mahi, which is also served other nights besides Friday. And here's place that knows how to prepare abalone steak.

I'M SORRY TO REPORT that Bill Dennis, owner of Country Boy Restaurants in San Rafael, El Cerrito and Concord, was killed in an automobile accident last Friday night in Martinez. His widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Dennis, will continue to operate the chain. Local restaurant at Bermuda Palms will continue to be under the management of Joe Satterfield.

MARY HARKINS of El Paseo Restaurant in Mill Valley informs me that her extracurricular business in frozen popovers is going so well it's keeping her going night and day.

She now has an outlet for these in central Marin that's bound to take a large percentage of her output — Petrini's Market in Greenbrae. You'll find Mary's popovers in the frozen bread and rolls section —and well represented.

REMEMBER THAT freckle-faced Englishman, George Tucker, who used to play at the Office in Mill Valley—and also at San Rafael Joe's?

He's now featured Friday and Saturday nights at the Lodge in Novato. For the past three weeks he's been playing piano, but starting tonight those active fingers of his were to start working out on the organ again.

AT THE ARK in Sausalito, they are now serving crab cioppino on Fridays — both at lunch and dinner times.

And I have it from headquarters that the upper deck is completed and ready to take on private parties. It has its own bar and will handle about 80 people. But it's divided into sections so that more than one group can be accommodated. If you have a real large party —say 150 to 200 and can date for a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, you can arrange to take over the entire lower deck.

Ark entertainment Friday and Saturday nights is now provided by Gilbert Cardona and his foursome. Featured on Sunday is Chris Ibanez and his three-piece ensemble.

RIB-EYE STEAKS and do-it-yourself broilers are popular at McKee's in San Rafael. There's room for seven or eight self-appointed chefs to work at the same time, and if you should have to wait a minute you can use the interval to mix your own salad. This is on daily 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. except Fridays and Saturdays when the hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Marin Dining And Wining

Reason for the latter, of course, is the Sir Vincent Plus Four—new group playing for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday eves.

VERY HONORABLE MENTIONABLES: The beef Wellington at La Petite Auberge, San Rafael. . . . Moravian klobasa with sauerkraut at Drake's Arms, Inverness. . . . Mushroom omelet at Le Chalet Basque, Santa Venetia—or any of the other lunchtime omelets. . . . Chinese sea food dinner Friday nights at Black Point Inn.

New Mining Group To Meet, Recruit

The new Redwood Chapter of the Western Mining Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Novato Chamber of Commerce office, 867 Sweetzer Avenue, Novato.

Officers of the new chapter, which will seek members from Marin and Sonoma counties, are C. Guy Collins of Novato, president; Albert Mitchell of Novato, vice president; and Ronald Timm of Rohnert Park, secretary-treasurer.

Wages in the United States are highest in the Pacific Coast states, says Encyclopedia International.

Hamburger and CHAMPAGNE?

Well, not for everybody.

You have to be 21 and come over to Sam's in Tiburon to get it.

And, if you find fulfillment in the works of Edgar Guest, Paul Harvey, Daddy Warbucks, Jane Addams, Norman Rockwell, and Henry Doelger... you might prefer to stick with Sam's tried and true Burger & Beer.

But if a spark of the bon vivant burns in your soul, your taste will be abundantly rewarded with this bizarre combination.

Sam's Anchor Cafe has even bottled its own champagne for the occasion.

That would be Sam's in Tiburon.

He's now featured Friday and Saturday nights at the Lodge in Novato. For the past three weeks he's been playing piano, but starting tonight those active fingers of his were to start working out on the organ again.

AT THE ARK in Sausalito, they are now serving crab cioppino on Fridays — both at lunch and dinner times.

And I have it from headquarters that the upper deck is completed and ready to take on private parties. It has its own bar and will handle about 80 people. But it's divided into sections so that more than one group can be accommodated. If you have a real large party —say 150 to 200 and can date for a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, you can arrange to take over the entire lower deck.

Ark entertainment Friday and Saturday nights is now provided by Gilbert Cardona and his foursome. Featured on Sunday is Chris Ibanez and his three-piece ensemble.

RIB-EYE STEAKS and do-it-yourself broilers are popular at McKee's in San Rafael. There's room for seven or eight self-appointed chefs to work at the same time, and if you should have to wait a minute you can use the interval to mix your own salad. This is on daily 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. except Fridays and Saturdays when the hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Marin Dining And Wining

Reason for the latter, of course, is the Sir Vincent Plus Four—new group playing for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday eves.

VERY HONORABLE MENTIONABLES: The beef Wellington at La Petite Auberge, San Rafael. . . . Moravian klobasa with sauerkraut at Drake's Arms, Inverness. . . . Mushroom omelet at Le Chalet Basque, Santa Venetia—or any of the other lunchtime omelets. . . . Chinese sea food dinner Friday nights at Black Point Inn.

New Mining Group To Meet, Recruit

The new Redwood Chapter of the Western Mining Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Novato Chamber of Commerce office, 867 Sweetzer Avenue, Novato.

Officers of the new chapter, which will seek members from Marin and Sonoma counties, are C. Guy Collins of Novato, president; Albert Mitchell of Novato, vice president; and Ronald Timm of Rohnert Park, secretary-treasurer.

Wages in the United States are highest in the Pacific Coast states, says Encyclopedia International.

Hamburger and CHAMPAGNE?

Well, not for *every*body.

You have to be 21 and come over to Sam's in Tiburon to get it.

And, if you find fulfillment in the works of Edgar Guest, Paul Harvey, Daddy Warbucks, Jane Addams, Norman Rockwell, and Henry Doelger... you might prefer to stick with Sam's tried and true Burger & Beer.

But if a spark of the bon vivant burns in your soul, your taste will be abundantly rewarded with this bizarre combination.

Sam's Anchor Cafe has even bottled its own champagne for the occasion.

That would be Sam's in Tiburon.

CAL STUDENTS DISAGREE

On the anniversary of last year's Free Speech Movement sit-in at the Berkeley campus' Sproul Hall, thousands of University of California students gathered yesterday for a commemorative rally which featured a variety of speeches and entertainment including a puppet show. When biology student Daniel Teodoru (right), a native of Rumania, criticized FSM demonstrators as being like the puppets, he was berated by this unidentified coed. The students then held an orderly march through Sproul Hall. (AP Wirephoto)

Commission Approves Novato Annexation

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night approved annexation of 1,280 acres along Highway 37 to the City of Novato.

The major portion of the annexation area is between the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks and Atherton Avenue, from the highway north to Olive Avenue.

It also includes an area south of the highway which is bordered on the west and south by Novato Creek and does not extend so far east as Atherton Avenue.

John F. Barrows, executive officer, said the area includes a population of four, one dwelling unit and Deer Island. The area is now zoned for agriculture, but there are plans for 590 homes near Atherton Avenue and Highway 37, Barrows said.

There was no protest at the hearing, but Barrows reported the county planning staff recommended the area south of the highway be excluded because "of lack of proper access."

Novato Planning Director Robert Lagle explained the property south of the highway was included because "there is one ownership on both sides of the highway."

Annexation was approved by a 3-0 vote, with Larkspur Mayor Neil R. Brixon sitting in for Novato Councilman Wayne Womack. Commissioners Byron W. Leydecker and Hugh C. Marchant were absent.

Commissioners were ready to adjourn when Barrows introduced a new item, one he said could be acted on without a hearing under the new LAFC law.

It was a request by the Novato Sanitary District to annex seven acres east of its present plant site, east of the end of Davidson Street.

When there is 100 per cent consent from property owners in the area to be annexed, a hearing is not necessary, Barrows said. In this case the district both owned the property and requested the annexation.

Commissioners approved the annexation by 3-0 vote.

Light Stolen

Mrs. Sammie P. Rickson, an Angel Island housewife, complained to Tiburon sheriff's substation deputies yesterday that sometime Tuesday night the right headlight was stolen from her Volkswagen. She said the car was parked in the merchants' parking lot on Tiburon Boulevard.

The Gobi desert is 500,000 square miles in area.

New Proposals To Be Heard For Two Parks

Two proposals for new state parks in Marin County—at Marin Headlands and on Mount Tamalpais—will be among the 90 park projects discussed by the California State Park Commission in San Francisco next week.

The commission has to decide how many of the 90 projects the state should undertake with the last $44.4 million of its acquisition funds from the $150 million state park and recreation bond act of 1964.

Projects selected will go to the State Administrator of Resources for possible inclusion in the 1966-67 budget bill.

The new state parks will be determined during the last two days of a three-day public meeting Wednesday through Friday at the Division of Highways building at 150 Oak Street. Sessions start at 2 p.m. Wednesday and 9:30 a.m. the other days.

First Snow And Seeds Make Life Endurable

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Green onions and radishes and carrots, and, maybe, a picture of the first snow back home — these are some of the things that help make life endurable in Viet Nam.

Three weeks ago, Mickie Gill of Port Huron received a letter from her husband, Marine S. Sgt. John H. Gill Jr. It was written in a humid, hot tent at Plei Me.

Gill had just gone through hand-to-hand combat with the Viet Cong.

"Send me some seeds so that I can plant them," Gill wrote. "We want fresh vegetables to make a salad. Green onions, carrots, head lettuce, radishes, anything that will grow."

Mrs. Gill tried to buy seeds at local stores, but in winter it's hard to buy seeds of any kind.

A reporter of the Port Huron Times Herald heard of her plight, wrote about it and the Port Huron Junior Chamber of Commerce picked up the ball.

Mrs. Gill said the response from people who wanted to help was overwhelming.

"They came to the door, all kinds of people, friends and relatives, and people I didn't know," she said.

There were other things Gill wrote home about.

"My darling, I want a picture of the first snow, just so I'll know that somewhere in the world there's a place without steam, mud, slush and stink.

"It's only 9:45 a.m., and the temperature is already 104 degrees. The humidity is 97 per cent. I've lost 22 pounds. We sweat 24 hours a day."

Water Lands Annexation Runs Into Oppositiion

Perhaps the largest land annexation in Marin's history ran into unexpected opposition last night before the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

It was the North Marin Water District's proposal to annex 28,480 along the east shore of Tomales Bay, from the bay to the ridgeline.

As soon as commissioners opened the hearing, Atty. Leland H. Jordan, representing property owners in the area who oppose annexation, asked for a one-month continuance.

Jordan said he did not want "to draw the battle lines" last night, but wanted time to confer with water district officials about the issue.

Jerome B. Gilbert, manager of the North Marin Water District, noted that other property owners in the area have urged the district "to get on" with the annexation, but said he would be willing to meet with the protesting property owners.

Commissioners continued the hearing until Dec. 20 with the understanding that the hearing would be canceled if the water district decided to withdraw its application and then re-submit next month.

Passenger Hurt As Car Crashes

A passenger in a car driven by Frances R. Whiting, 50, of 51 Mercury Avenue, Belvedere, complained of back pains after a two-car crash on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley at 12:25 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the Whiting car was northbound and had just slowed to make a left turn into Ash Street when it was hit from behind by a car driven by John I. Terrell, 18, of 538 Pinecrest Road, Tamalpais Valley.

The passenger, George Glassey, 32, of the Whiting address, was to see his own doctor.

Veteran Postal Official Readies For Career's Last Christmas Rush

"I've gone to about a dozen retirement parties and each time I wondered how the man up front felt as he left 20 or 30 years of post office work behind him. I'll be feeling it myself pretty soon, I guess."

So spoke 67-year-old Thomas C. Falvey, who will retire as assistant San Rafael postmaster on Dec. 31 after almost 36 years of work in the San Rafael post office.

Falvey began his career in 1931 as a substitute clerk in the post office, then in a tiny office at 931 Fourth Street where San Rafael Joe's restaurant is now located.

His pay during his first four years was a meager 65 cents an hour. Base pay in the position as assistant postmaster, to which he was appointed in January, 1956, is $11,936 a year.

"I was glad to get work then. Those were the depression years and a post office job was a great thing to get because of the security it offered. We have a lot harder time getting employees now," said the chipper, grey-haired assistant postmaster.

The post office moved to its present location on D Street in 1937. "The new building seemed so spacious we felt like we'd have to wear roller skates to get around it. We were a little civic center housing the armed services recruitment offices, the Farm Bureau, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue," he recalled.

"I don't know where all that space went, but we certainly did lose it. We've been trying to get a bigger building now for four years. We're going to move into a new place two and a half times as big as this one, but I'm afraid I won't be here for the move," said Falvey.

The post office will be moved to a new $800,000 building at 40 Bellam Boulevard next fall. The D Street office will remain as a branch.

"I'd have had a plush office all to myself with a nice desk and a soft chair, but that alone isn't worth sticking around for," said Falvey.

"I'll be putting more time into work for the heart association and church work, and I'll certainly be glad to spend more time with my family as well as doing the usual amount of hunting, fishing, and traveling," he said.

"The biggest changes I've seen since I started post office work haven't been in mechanization, they've been in working conditions and handling systems. Mechanization still lies ahead for post offices."

Falvey lives at 7 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae. He has been chosen chairman of the heart association campaign to be held in February.

Falvey has one more Christmas rush ahead of him before retirement. "We sort of look forward to the rush because its a challenge, but we certainly aren't sorry to see it end," he said with a tired smile.

At least 40 Marin Democrats will attend tonight's $100-a-plate dinner at Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco to hear Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Marinites have reserved four tables for the dinner, with the following serving as hosts and hostesses: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gotav of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kent of Kentfield, Mrs. Joseph Guthrie of Ross, and Robert D. Carrow of Novato.

Intruder Leaves As Door Slams

When Conrad Knudsen of San Anselmo entered the Festival Theater building at 2 Kensington Road, San Anselmo, this morning to pick up some of his belonging, he heard a door slam in the back of the building.

Knudsen called police, who searched the building and its grounds but found no trace of the intruder. They did find a filing cabinet which had been pried open and a discarded crowbar nearby.

Knudsen, who is a member of the theater company, told police nothing appeared to be missing. The theater's money, he said, is kept in another part of the building.

Citizen Solicits Others' Opinion Of Supervisor

Robert Parker of Larkspur said today too many people in Marin County do not take the trouble to tell members of the Marin County Board of Supervisors what they think of them.

Designating himself chairman of the "Public Opinion Board," Parker, former owner of Marin Ambulance Service, asked opinions be sent him for a survey.

Parker, who lives at 7 Ward Street, Larkspur, said he discussed the idea with Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who was in favor of having more people go to supervisors' meetings to give their opinions.

The idea for a survey came to him, Parker added, when he and other ambulance operators were trying to induce the county to set up regulations on ambulances in the county.

He said the problem had been turned over to County Administrator Alan Bruce, but that no report has yet come back, and the ambulance men have tried, without success, to speed action.

The question he wants answered follows:

1. What particular member of the board of supervisors do you either agree or disagree with?
2. What action have the supervisors taken in the last six months that you disagree with?
3. Do you approve of one-man rule in the county administrator's office?
4. In your opinion, what can be done to lower Marin County taxes?
5. Do you attend board of supervisors meetings?

Parker, who last year ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Marin Hospital District Board, said he was interested in both good and bad opinions of the county government.

"I'm trying to get a large group together so we can all go up to a board meeting and tell them what we think of them," he said.

Rights Commission Due More Meetings

Members of the Marin County Human Rights Commission last night agreed to increase the commission's meeting schedule from one to two sessions a month, meeting on the third as well as the first Thursday.

Walter Bremond, county community relations coordinator, said the commission spent a good deal of time laying final plans for the human rights symposium at Marin City Dec. 11.

Ex-Tenant Booked For Trespass On Landlord Charge

San Anselmo police last night booked Clifford Stanley Ray, 47, of 807-A Fourth Street, San Rafael, in county jail on a charge of entering private property without the owner's consent.

On Nov. 25, according to Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani, police were called to 27 Buena Vista Avenue, San Anselmo, where George B. Geramoni, owner of the house, asked them to stop Ray from removing his belongings from the garage.

Geramoni, who lives at 5 Winship Avenue, Ross, said Ray owed him some back rent and he was going to keep his property until the money was paid.

Three hours later, Geramoni complained to police that Ray returned and took his property.

Waterfront Bandits Flee With $15,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pair of well - dressed gunmen took between $15,000 and $20,000 today from Riordan's Tavern, 22 Embarcadero.

John W. Riordan said he had just opened at 7 a.m. when two men appeared, waved guns and took the money. He had it to cash paychecks.

Tam Valley Club Considers Recreation District Need

Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club members last night held a "spirited discussion" on how to finance a recreation facility on 11.4 acres at the entrance to Tennessee Valley, and decided formation of a recreation district is perhaps the best course. No action was taken.

Formation of a recreation district, private financing, and amalgamating with one of the two existing districts were discussed.

Club president Joe Allen said purchase of the land from Goheen Enterprises for a total price of $19,123 was to be recorded in the county recorder's office today.

Members said they oppose lot sizes of a proposed single-family development of Taylor-Fisher Co. off Wellesley Avenue at Median Way. The company seeks 7,500-square foot lots, while the master plan calls for 10,000 square foot lots. Club members wish the latter size to be adhered to and the approach to the subdivision be improved.

Scoutmaster Leendert Hyna said additional adults are needed for the scout committee.

Panes Vandalized

Vandals with a sharp instrument scratched obscene words on several windows at Oliver Hartzell School, San Rafael city school officials told police yesterday. They said the windows will have to be replaced, but did not know how much they would cost.

Bob Hope Preparing Annual Yule Journey

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and a troupe of entertainers will leave Dec. 18 for a 12-day tour of the Orient, including combat zones in Viet Nam, a spokesman announced.

It will be Hope's second Christmas tour to Viet Nam, and his 14th annual Christmas tour to U.S. military bases, under joint sponsorship of the U.S. Department of Defense and the U.S.O.

Women Jurors Get Prison Slaying Case

Case of Armando G. Sanchez, 33-year-old San Quentin inmate, went to an all-woman jury at 11:20 a.m. today in a 12-day trial for the April 23 slaying of Ralph Canning, 54, civilian prison shop foreman.

Sanchez, charged with assault by a lifer, is being tried before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

Novato Chamber Favors Brochure

Directors of the Novato Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized D'Carlin Publishing Co. of 2030 Center Road, Novato, to publish a brochure about the city.

David Lindsey of the firm said he would complete the brochure in about six months. Its cost will be paid for by advertising.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) will address a chamber luncheon Jan. 6 at Nero's Restaurant. Annual installation dinner has been scheduled for June 11 at the Marin Golf and Country Club.

To Hospital

Curtis Coburn, 28, of 805 Fourth Street, Apt. 16, San Rafael, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital yesterday for an apparent overdose of drugs, then transferred to Napa State Hospital.

Cash Register Cleaned Out For Third Time

Three times since last Friday the cash register at the Hobby Raceway, 1560 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was cleaned out, San Rafael police learned yesterday.

Co-owner Allen H. Weinroth, of 7 Brown Court, Novato, told police several employees and a clean-up boy had keys to the building, and that there was no sign of forced entry or anything else missing. He said $463.17 in all was taken.

Money was left in the cash register each night and was missing the following morning, Weinroth said. A door connecting the shop with the one next door, R&R Automatic Transmissions Repair, was believed to have been locked, he said. But police said they found the padlock missing from the door inside the R&R shop, and surmised a thief may have entered that way.

Tam Valley Club Considers Recreation District Need

Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club members last night held a "spirited discussion" on how to finance a recreation facility on 11.4 acres at the entrance to Tennessee Valley, and decided formation of a recreation district is perhaps the best course. No action was taken.

Formation of a recreation district, private financing, and amalgamating with one of the two existing districts were discussed.

Club president Joe Allen said purchase of the land from Goheen Enterprises for a total price of $19,123 was to be recorded in the county recorder's office today.

Members said they oppose lot sizes of a proposed single-family development of Taylor-Fisher Co. off Wellesley Avenue at Median Way. The company seeks 7,500-square foot lots, while the master plan calls for 10,000 square foot lots. Club members wish the latter size to be adhered to and the approach to the subdivision be improved.

Scoutmaster Leendert Hyna said additional adults are needed for the scout committee.

Panes Vandalized

Vandals with a sharp instrument scratched obscene words on several windows at Oliver Hartzell School, San Rafael city school officials told police yesterday. They said the windows will have to be replaced, but did not know how much they would cost.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and a troupe of entertainers will leave Dec. 18 for a 12-day tour of the Orient, including combat zones in Viet Nam, a spokesman announced.

It will be Hope's second Christmas tour to Viet Nam, and his 14th annual Christmas tour to U.S. military bases, under joint sponsorship of the U.S. Department of Defense and the U.S.O.

Women Jurors Get Prison Slaying Case

Case of Armando G. Sanchez, 33-year-old San Quentin inmate, went to an all-woman jury at 11:20 a.m. today in a 12-day trial for the April 23 slaying of Ralph Canning, 54, civilian prison shop foreman.

Sanchez, charged with assault by a lifer, is being tried before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

Citizen Solicits Others' Opinion Of Supervisor

Robert Parker of Larkspur said today too many people in Marin County do not take the trouble to tell members of the Marin County Board of Supervisors what they think of them.

Designating himself chairman of the "Public Opinion Board," Parker, former owner of Marin Ambulance Service, asked opinions be sent him for a survey.

Parker, who lives at 7 Ward Street, Larkspur, said he discussed the idea with Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who was in favor of having more people go to supervisors' meetings to give their opinions.

The idea for a survey came to him, Parker added, when he and other ambulance operators were trying to induce the county to set up regulations on ambulances in the county.

He said the problem had been turned over to County Administrator Alan Bruce, but that no report has yet come back, and the ambulance men have tried, without success, to speed action.

The question he wants answered follows:

1. What particular member of the board of supervisors do you either agree or disagree with?
2. What action have the supervisors taken in the last six months that you disagree with?
3. Do you approve of one-man rule in the county administrator's office?
4. In your opinion, what can be done to lower Marin County taxes?
5. Do you attend board of supervisors meetings?

Parker, who last year ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Marin Hospital District Board, said he was interested in both good and bad opinions of the county government.

"I'm trying to get a large group together so we can all go up to a board meeting and tell them what we think of them," he said.

Novato Chamber Favors Brochure

Directors of the Novato Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized D'Carlin Publishing Co. of 2030 Center Road, Novato, to publish a brochure about the city.

David Lindsey of the firm said he would complete the brochure in about six months. Its cost will be paid for by advertising.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) will address a chamber luncheon Jan. 6 at Nero's Restaurant. Annual installation dinner has been scheduled for June 11 at the Marin Golf and Country Club.

Cash Register Cleaned Out For Third Time

Three times since last Friday the cash register at the Hobby Raceway, 1560 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was cleaned out, San Rafael police learned yesterday.

Co-owner Allen H. Weinroth, of 7 Brown Court, Novato, told police several employees and a clean-up boy had keys to the building, and that there was no sign of forced entry or anything else missing. He said $463.17 in all was taken.

Money was left in the cash register each night and was missing the following morning, Weinroth said. A door connecting the shop with the one next door, R&R Automatic Transmissions Repair, was believed to have been locked, he said. But police said they found the padlock missing from the door inside the R&R shop, and surmised a thief may have entered that way.

Rights Commission Due More Meetings

Members of the Marin County Human Rights Commission last night agreed to increase the commission's meeting schedule from one to two sessions a month, meeting on the third as well as the first Thursday.

Walter Bremond, county community relations coordinator, said the commission spent a good deal of time laying final plans for the human rights symposium at Marin City Dec. 11.

Battery Stolen

A thief stole a $37.74 battery from a truck parked at the rear of 35 Jordan Street, San Rafael, police were told yesterday. The truck belonged to Pacific Motor Trucking Co.

BIKE-RIDING BOY BANDIT IS AT LARGE

TORRANCE (AP) — A red-bicycle bandit is at large in this Los Angeles suburb, police said.

Officers said a young boy riding a red bicycle held up a drive-in milk store last night and escaped into the darkness with $167 in cash.

An attendant at the store, Danny York, 17, told police the boy, about 12 years old, pedaled up to the drive-in, drew a revolver from his black trench coat and demanded money.

York told police the boy took a paper bag containing the cash and rode off into a city park. Police said the bandit is still at large.

Fire Board Asks Flood Control Area

Tiburon Fire District Commissioners last night asked the county counsel's office to demand the City of Tiburon begin action to create a Tiburon Boulevard flood control district.

The main fire station at 1679 Tiburon Boulevard is troubled by flooding during the rainy season.

An offer from the volunteer firemen's association to donate $522 in drill pay to the district was taken under study. The money would go toward purchase of furniture for the meeting room at the main fire station.

Commissioners agreed to purchase 200 seedlings trees from the State Division of Forestry for landscaping at fire station No. 2, Trestle Glen Boulevard and Paradise Drive. No decision on the types of trees was reached. Cost was estimated at $50.

A resolution to annex Mercury Avenue in Belveron Gardens to the district was adopted.

Tree Lovers Call For Park Annex

DEL MAR (AP) — A statewide "call-in" and "wire-in" has started in an attempt to protect 3,000 rare Torrey pines by adding 260 acres to the state Torrey pines reserve.

The campaign, launched yesterday by the Torrey Pines Wild Life Assn., calls for the public to telephone or telegram Gov. Edmund G. Brown's representative at the Sacramento state office building.

Association Co-chairman Robert Bates said the drive resulted from the State Division of Beaches and Parks Comission's recent failure to recommend that the land be added.

Retroactive Hospital Rate Increase Set

State auditors have agreed to allow a retroactive increase in rates charged by San Rafael General Hospital for county patients.

The hospital had been getting $44 a day for county patients. It sought an increase to $54 to cover costs, hospital administrator Arthur G. Burns said.

State auditors in October said they would allow an increase only to $48.17. Hospital trustees held this was not adequate.

An appeal to the state department of finance succeeded in getting a new schedule. The hospital, state auditors said, can either levy $52.90 a day or make a charge of $48.76 for non-surgical cases and $71.49 for surgery cases.

Burns said today that either of these appears acceptable, but the $52.90 rate will probably be adopted.

The new rates will be retroactive to August, causing an increase in county expenditures both for indigent cases and medical aid for the aged cases.

Old Profession Snags Prisoner

Eual Leon Stone, 27-year-old walkaway prisoner from San Quentin, was sitting it out in a Bakersfield jail today because he reverted to his old profession.

He was arrested on a charge of burglary by Kern County Sheriff L. F. Galyen yesterday, 22 days after he was reported missing from a San Quentin minimum security work party.

Serving two years at the prison for burglary and car theft, Stone was the subject of a widespread search in the San Quentin area by 50 guards assisted by California Highway Patrol, sheriff's officers and other law enforcement agencies.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today Stone, from Los Angeles County, will be returned to San Quentin after he has faced the latest burglary charge.

Meeting Day Changed

The Sausalito Citizens Council has changed its meeting schedule to hold board meetings on the third Monday of each month instead of the first Thursday. The board, which did not meet last night, will next meet Dec. 20, according to Carl W. Spring, corresponding secretary. It meets at the homes of members.

Burglar Grabs Loot Worth $973

Tax records, 10 shares of stocks valued at $600, jewelry and a camera were taken in a daylight burglary yesterday in Mill Valley while the woman of the house was shopping.

Robert Klein reported to police that, while his wife was shopping between 11:20 a.m. and 2:35 p.m., someone pried open the front door of their two-story home at 38 Shelly Drive and removed $973 in belongings. Several rooms showed signs of search.

The stocks, non-negotiable, tax records, and pink slips for the Klein's two cars were stolen in a fireproof metal box. Also taken were an alexanderite ring in gold setting, valued at $150, two radios and a $117 camera.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER DESIGN

This is an architect's model of the design for the planned community mental health center at Marin General Hospital, some features of which were criticized in a report prepared for the county by Dr. J. M. Stubblebine. The center, being planned jointly by the county and the Marin Hospital District, will be attached to the hospital at its northwest corner. Architects for the firm are Kaplan and McLaughlin. Estimated cost of the building is $1.25 million, with two-thirds of the funds coming from the state and federal governments.

Democrats To Participate In First District Caucus

Marin Democrats will participate in the First Congressional District caucus of the State Democratic Central Committee at Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa on Sunday.

State Chairman Robert L. Coates will be principal speaker at the luncheon.

Co-chairmen Cheryl Petersen of Santa Rosa announced that the 1966 Congressional race will be among the topics to be discussed.

Among Democrats mentioned in the Congressional race are Supervisor Thomas T. Storer of Point Reyes Station, Dr. George E. McCabe of Sonoma State College, and State Sen. Frank Peterson of Ukiah.

"Thomas Skornia, Ross attorney, is not expected to have opposition in obtaining the Democratic nomination to run against Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, even though Mr. Skornia has not yet made a public announcement of his candidacy," Dr. Petersen noted.

She said that Marin Central Committee Chairman Robert D. Carrow and Napa Chairman John Dunlap are both widely discussed as possible candidates to try to win the Democratic nomination from incumbent State Sen. Luther Gibson of Vallejo. The winner will face State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, in November.

District Set To Build Sewers In Bret Harte

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night formed an assessment district which will replace septic tanks with sewer lines in the Bret Harte area.

Board members and most of the 37 area residents in the audience appeared convinced by county sanitarian William L. Desmond's declaration that a definite health hazard will exist in the neighborhood as long as septic tanks are allowed to remain.

Greatest doubts voiced by residents were over the fairness of the assessment distribution as it was estimated more than a month ago by engineer Daniel P. Coleman. Board members said the estimates were still in rough form and promised they would make sure of a fair assessment when it was actually levied.

In October, residents of the "upper end" of the area asked for proof that a sewer system was needed as badly there as in the rest of the proposed district. Last night, Desmond showed them a map of the area and pointed to lots where a series of surveys had turned up septic tank failures.

Of 83 properties checked, he said, 15—or 18 per cent—were found to have failing tanks.

"We believe anything over 10 to 12 per cent indicates something should be done and should be done soon," Desmond declared.

While there were fewer outright failures in the "upper end," Desmond said, the surveys found several tanks which appeared certain to fail soon.

"It would be a mistake, in my opinion," he said, "to leave any part of the Bret Harte area out of the district."

Even when tanks are well maintained, Desmond added, such factors as soil quality and amount of rainfall make it impossible to guarantee against sewage oozing out of the ground and winding up in gutters.

At this point, he said, "there is an extremely good likelihood that pets and children playing in this area may contract disease," and the gutters will become a haven for rats.

The assessment question was raised by John Burdesono of 83 Bret Harte Road, who said he feared he was to be levied a double assessment on a lot where he could never build a second house. He insisted that the board go on record with a promise to equalize the assessments fairly.

"I mean no reflection whatever on this board," he said, "but it has been my experience elsewhere that what government agencies say they will do and what they do are not always the same."

Board members agreed to record the promise in the minutes, although assessment attorney Edwin N. Ness insisted any talk of assessment was "a premature discussion."

Legally, Ness said, the assessment will not be made until after the work is finished, but he predicted Coleman would be able to estimate the cost spread so residents "will know what your assessment is before the project starts."

Board members passed five resolutions, including one authorizing Coleman to do the engineering for a fee of 10 per cent of the project cost.

Former city engineer Dominic J. Selmi, now employed by Coleman, appeared on behalf of the firm because Coleman was ill.

Aides Acquitted In Dam Tragedy

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—Three high officials of hydroelectric power companies were acquitted today of charges of improperly operating the Vaiont Dam before the 1963 disaster there wiped out towns and took 2,000 lives.

A huge landslide from Mount Toc crashed into the dam's reservoir and splashed half the lake over the world's third highest dam onto Longarone and other north Italian towns.

The officials were charged with operating the power system at Vaiont without proper authorization at intervals between Nov. 17, 1962, and the day of the disaster, Oct. 9, 1963. They said the power plant had only been operated for brief periods to test equipment.

Dues Hike Idea Talked, Tabled By Hub Chamber

Directors of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce yesterday discussed briefly a suggested 50 per cent increase in their annual dues, then tabled the matter.

Chamber Secretary-Manager Mrs. Harriet Haly reported that research of chambers in cities the same size as San Anselmo "indicated their dues are a great deal more than ours." She promised a more complete report on her findings later.

Dues of the San Anselmo chamber are $24 per year for most members, with large businesses such as banks paying $48 per year. Associate members pay $18 per year.

Mrs. Haly also reported the chamber's annual installation dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. Jan. 7 at the Meadow Club.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER DESIGN

This is an architect's model of the design for the planned community mental health center at Marin General Hospital, some features of which were criticized in a report prepared for the county by Dr. J. M. Stubblebine. The center, being planned jointly by the county and the Marin Hospital District, will be attached to the hospital at its northwest corner. Architects for the firm are Kaplan and McLaughlin. Estimated cost of the building is $1.25 million, with two-thirds of the funds coming from the state and federal governments.

Democrats To Participate In First District Caucus

Marin Democrats will participate in the First Congressional District caucus of the State Democratic Central Committee at Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa on Sunday.

State Chairman Robert L. Coates will be principal speaker at the luncheon.

Co-chairmen Cheryl Petersen of Santa Rosa announced that the 1966 Congressional race will be among the topics to be discussed.

Among Democrats mentioned in the Congressional race are Supervisor Thomas T. Storer of Point Reyes Station, Dr. George E. McCabe of Sonoma State College, and State Sen. Frank Peterson of Ukiah.

"Thomas Skornia, Ross attorney, is not expected to have opposition in obtaining the Democratic nomination to run against Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, even though Mr. Skornia has not yet made a public announcement of his candidacy," Dr. Petersen noted.

She said that Marin Central Committee Chairman Robert D. Carrow and Napa Chairman John Dunlap are both widely discussed as possible candidates to try to win the Democratic nomination from incumbent State Sen. Luther Gibson of Vallejo. The winner will face State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, in November.

District Set To Build Sewers In Bret Harte

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night formed an assessment district which will replace septic tanks with sewer lines in the Bret Harte area.

Board members and most of the 37 area residents in the audience appeared convinced by county sanitarian William L. Desmond's declaration that a definite health hazard will exist in the neighborhood as long as septic tanks are allowed to remain.

Greatest doubts voiced by residents were over the fairness of the assessment distribution as it was estimated more than a month ago by engineer Daniel P. Coleman. Board members said the estimates were still in rough form and promised they would make sure of a fair assessment when it was actually levied.

In October, residents of the "upper end" of the area asked for proof that a sewer system was needed as badly there as in the rest of the proposed district. Last night, Desmond showed them a map of the area and pointed to lots where a series of surveys had turned up septic tank failures.

Of 83 properties checked, he said, 15—or 18 per cent—were found to have failing tanks.

"We believe anything over 10 to 12 per cent indicates something should be done and should be done soon," Desmond declared.

While there were fewer outright failures in the "upper end," Desmond said, the surveys found several tanks which appeared certain to fail soon.

"It would be a mistake, in my opinion," he said, "to leave any part of the Bret Harte area out of the district."

Even when tanks are well maintained, Desmond added, such factors as soil quality and amount of rainfall make it impossible to guarantee against sewage oozing out of the ground and winding up in gutters.

At this point, he said, "there is an extremely good likelihood that pets and children playing in this area may contract disease," and the gutters will become a haven for rats.

The assessment question was raised by John Burdesono of 83 Bret Harte Road, who said he feared he was to be levied a double assessment on a lot where he could never build a second house. He insisted that the board go on record with a promise to equalize the assessments fairly.

"I mean no reflection whatever on this board," he said, "but it has been my experience elsewhere that what government agencies say they will do and what they do are not always the same."

Board members agreed to record the promise in the minutes, although assessment attorney Edwin N. Ness insisted any talk of assessment was "a premature discussion."

Legally, Ness said, the assessment will not be made until after the work is finished, but he predicted Coleman would be able to estimate the cost spread so residents "will know what your assessment is before the project starts."

Board members passed five resolutions, including one authorizing Coleman to do the engineering for a fee of 10 per cent of the project cost.

Former city engineer Dominic J. Selmi, now employed by Coleman, appeared on behalf of the firm because Coleman was ill.

Aides Acquitted In Dam Tragedy

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—Three high officials of hydroelectric power companies were acquitted today of charges of improperly operating the Vaiont Dam before the 1963 disaster there wiped out towns and took 2,000 lives.

A huge landslide from Mount Toc crashed into the dam's reservoir and splashed half the lake over the world's third highest dam onto Longarone and other north Italian towns.

The officials were charged with operating the power system at Vaiont without proper authorization at intervals between Nov. 17, 1962, and the day of the disaster, Oct. 9, 1963. They said the power plant had only been operated for brief periods to test equipment.

Dues Hike Idea Talked, Tabled By Hub Chamber

Directors of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce yesterday discussed briefly a suggested 50 per cent increase in their annual dues, then tabled the matter.

Chamber Secretary-Manager Mrs. Harriet Haly reported that research of chambers in cities the same size as San Anselmo "indicated their dues are a great deal more than ours." She promised a more complete report on her findings later.

Dues of the San Anselmo chamber are $24 per year for most members, with large businesses such as banks paying $48 per year. Associate members pay $18 per year.

College Aides Still Oppose Tobacco Sale

College of Marin administrators have told student government leaders they will oppose a request that the Marin Junior College board again allow sale of cigarettes on the Kentfield campus.

Donna Ryan, campus center commissioner and initiator of the student request that cigarettes be sold in the new campus center, told the student executive committee yesterday that College President Stephen E. Epler and Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond both said they would oppose the sale.

'This is a health issue," Dean Diamond said today. 'Dr. Epler and I feel that since this is an educational institution, we have the responsibility to interpret the surgeon general's report on smoking and take appropriate action. We don't deny the students right to smoke."

The college board banned the sale of cigarettes on campus in the fall of 1964, following the report of the United States Surgeon General's blue-ribbon committee, which linked smoking and lung cancer.

Last month, the student campus center commission adopted a resolution asking for the sale of cigarettes. The position was endorsed by the executive council. This week, the executive council asked for action at next Thursday's board of trustees meeting.

LBJ Urges New Curbs On Foreign Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration finance experts, seeking to ease the nation's balance of payments deficit, were busy today filling in the blank spaces for a complete set of specific guidelines for business spending abroad.

The aim of the Cabinet committee on balance of payments is to achieve President Johnson's newly announced goal of limiting the dollar outflow to less than $250 million a year. The outgo is running now at five times that rate.

Treasury and Commerce Department officials emphasized in advance there would be no deviation from the government's voluntary approach to overseas spending, inaugurated last February.

No further restrictions on spending by U.S. tourists were anticipated, although Americans are expected to spend $1.8 billion more overseas this year than visitors will spend here.

For the first nine months this year, the payments deficit ran at the annual rate of $1.25 billion. In 1964 the outflow totaled $2.8 billion, and in 1963 it was $2.7 billion.

The new guidelines were prompted, officials said, by continued heavy foreign investments by American firms.

Last month, officials announced that the continuing poor balance-of-payments deficit had triggered new studies of overseas investments and travel. The nation's third-quarter deficit, announced Nov. 17, was $485 million.

It was revealed then, however, that Great Britain has sold an estimated $500 million worth of U.S. stocks and bonds so far in 1965 in an effort to bolster its sagging currency. The sales are registered as part of the U.S. deficit.

Britain still holds an estimated $750 million in U.S. securities, Treasury officials said. But the pound has strengthened in recent months and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said, "We do not expect this (the British sale) to be a recurring factor."

Two motorists complained of neck pains after a two-car crash on Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue, Novato, at 5:20 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Pliny W. Hunt, 26, of 60 Jackson Drive, Novato, had just slowed in the fast line to make a left turn into Lamont when his car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Frank S. Yee Jr., 17, of 1321 Olive Street, Novato. Both drivers were to see their own physicians.

Jury Convicts Figure In Los Angeles Rioting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Rena Frye, convicted of interfering with police at the outset of the South Los Angeles riots last August, has been fined $250 and placed on probation for two years.

A 30-day jail term was suspended when sentence was passed yesterday.

Her counsel said an appeal will be filed, on the contention that jurors were prejudiced by prosecution assertions that Mrs. Frye's actions precipitated the riots.

Mrs. Frye, 49, was arrested last Aug. 11 for interfering with officers as they arrested her sons, Marquette, 21, and Ronald, 22, as drunk-driving suspects.

Bystanders began throwing rocks, and rioting broke out, lasting six days.

Jury Convicts Figure In Los Angeles Rioting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Rena Frye, convicted of interfering with police at the outset of the South Los Angeles riots last August, has been fined $250 and placed on probation for two years.

A 30-day jail term was suspended when sentence was passed yesterday.

Her counsel said an appeal will be filed, on the contention that jurors were prejudiced by prosecution assertions that Mrs. Frye's actions precipitated the riots.

Mrs. Frye, 49, was arrested last Aug. 11 for interfering with officers as they arrested her sons, Marquette, 21, and Ronald, 22, as drunk-driving suspects.

Bystanders began throwing rocks, and rioting broke out, lasting six days.

Mill Valley's branch of the American Assn. of University Women will honor three new members and prospective members at a Christmas tea to be given Dec. 8 from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Harold Thomas Rogers, Portofina-Riviera Apartments, Sausalito. The new members are Mesdames George Stevens, David Valente and John Crane.

Chairman for the tea is membership chairman Mrs. Charles Murphy, who is being assisted by Mesdames Paul Geerling, William Broderick, Charles Fauvre, Frederick Zulch and John Crane.

Special invitations have been extended to Mrs. Edward Moraes, state membership of the AAUW, and to the new teachers in the Mill Valley school district.

In addition to its social purpose the tea will give new members an orientation in the organization's aims and accomplishments, as well as acquaint them with activities of the branch. The branch has study sections in education, law and citizen, lively arts, Marin planning and world affairs. Two bridge groups meet in the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Murphy has anounced that 13 colleges and universities have been added to the list of institutions meeting requirements for membership in the AAUW and that their graduates are eligible for membership.

The meeting will open at 10:30 a.m., and continue until 2 p.m., with luncheon at noon.

All federated women's clubs are eligible to enter the program—and no matter how large or small a city, how prosperous or poor, it is the initiating of a plan by the club and securing the cooperation of others as to what the club can accomplish in this activity, according to Mrs. Barca.

The key to a successful community improvement project is education. Therefore, the workshop will help clubs in planning the techniques of examining their own communities and planning productive projects as sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Boat Trip On The Dnieper

One of a series of articles on a just-completed trip through Russia and India.

By BARBARA HOSMER

From a seat on the deck in the stern of a riverboat one can relax for a few hours and enjoy across the wide, calm expanse of the Dnieper in the late fall afternoon. The scene would have put a Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn at ease — broad placid-seeming waters flowing quietly below the city of Kiev and along the tree-lined embankments.

The boat casts off every two hours from the Kiev waterfront below a stonework embankment of the riverside drive leading down the hills from the city center. A hardy, boot-clad woman, wrapped against the late afternoon air in wool kerchief and thick jacket, hauled in the gangplank and strode forward to let go the bow hawser as the craft pulled away from the pier. Aboard were a small number of lone passengers returning from work and a few teen-aged boys carrying school books and wearing woolen caps with visors.

Swinging into the width of the main channel, we were quickly left in the wake of a hydrofoil skimming southward from the city, a jarring note in an otherwise dreamy Ukrainian evening. Off to the right on the wooded hills of the city a few gold onion-domes of ancient churches glowed faintly with the setting sun above the mists of the river.

From somewhere below deck a radio was tuned to the crucial football match (actually soccer) being played between Kiev and Odessa teams, as an English-speaking passenger was eager to explain. A few small rowboats or motor launches plied the water along the banks carrying some anglers and others could be seen with fishing lines on the sandy edges.

AS THE PASSENGER craft wheeled over to enter one of many winding inlets off of the main river, a group of hardy young men and women in cotton clothes appeared besides us, paddling their kyaks with apparent enjoyment, oblivious to the chill of the fading afternoon.

The craft wound its way along the bends of the smaller river between banks lined with poplars and other lacy trees making a colorful autumnal show before fall gave way to winter snows. Packed-dirt paths led along the low banks and through tall grasses, and here and there a bulldozer or other construction equipment was visible in a clearing, signs of the massive and vigorous building going on on the banks of the Dnieper across from the city of Kiev and of the development program underway in various places along the 1400 mile length of the historic river.

Finally, with a hoot of the horn, the skipper slowed the engines and moved the 70 foot craft to a small wooden landing where a couple stood talking with another man. Some 50 feet up the bank stood an unpainted planked cottage, likely the home of the couple who were on hand to assist the ferry on its rural route. A passenger boarded, some packages were left, the distaff crew of one exchanged a few shouted words with the skipper, hauled in the line, and we were on to the next landing up the bend of the river which narrowed with each turn.

Passengers, a few each landing, came and went on the commuter craft, which was often met by an excited barking dog, which had to be silenced with a few friendly pats from the owner or his neighbors. The men wore the thick overcoats and scarves with caps or the more countrified costume of heavy long jackets with wide trousers tucked into boots halfway to the knee. The women favor the trousers and boots for heavy outdoor work, but most wear the thick woolen overcoats and short boots for general non-city wear in the cold months.

AT THE END of the line the craft was turned and repeated its calls along the banks, each marked with a blast from the horn to summon the passengers. The deep yellows and reds of the stands of forest along the way began to fade deeper into the twilight haze and as we turned to the main river again we could barely make out a swimmer at the edge of one of the wide sandy beaches having an invigorating dip at the end of a day. The kyakers and fishermen were no longer in sight.

CROSSING under one main bridge linking the city side with the miles of newly constructed apartment blocks on the other side, the boat pushed across the channel upstream toward where the other main bridge spanning the Dnieper at Kiev was just visible.

One final whistle from the wheelhouse, the deck hand pulled the gangplank across to the pier and she bid the passengers 'dos fedanya" for another day.

UP ON the cobblestone street they began the climb toward the trolley line leading into the city on the hills above, where with luck, a hot supper would be waiting.

CERTAIN SECURITY

Many Factors Enter Into Buying Gifts For Children

By DAVID NYDICK
(UPI) Education Specialist

Millions of dollars will be spent on gifts for children during the next several weeks. Unfortunately, part of this money will have been wasted because the gifts were not chosen properly. Gifts that are carefully chosen are usually appreciated more and provide greater enjoyment.

An ideal gift should be chosen after careful consideration of the child's age, ability, interests and personality. If these factors are satisfied, the gift is more likely to become a favorite plaything.

You surely have heard of cases when an expensive doll has been discarded and an old ragdoll continued as the favorite. Disappointing? It shouldn't be. Adults do similar things. There is a certain security in familiar items.

DON'T ALWAYS try to replace something which the child has enjoyed and has grown old. Try to find out something about the child's personality and present interests. Don't purchase a quiet game for an extremely active child who spends most of his time on the ballfield. It would also be wrong to buy a baseball glove for a child who dislikes the game or may have no opportunity to play it.

A gift is more appropriate when it is proper for the age level and reasonable for the particular home. A toy or game which is too difficult for the child to understand or too simple to hold his interest will surely end up on the shelf. A 12-year-old girl may not be interested in a play stove if her mother allows her to participate in actual cooking. Double runner ice skates are not appropriate for the child who is already skilled with single runner skates.

Many people feel that a gift should be useful. They realize that usefulness often creates interest. A pull toy can be most valuable for a child learning to walk. A model kit which is not too difficult will help to develop a child's muscle control as well as his ability to follow instructions.

MANY EDUCATIONAL toys aid in the development of academic skills. You may notice that many items are marked for particular age levels. The only caution is to consider the individual child's development which may or may not be average for his age.

Books are excellent gifts for some children. Books are available for all reading levels and on all topics. A personal library can be a treasure for many youngsters.

THE CORRECT equipment will often encourage participation in various activities. The boy who plays first base would surely benefit from a first baseman's glove. The teen-ager who enjoys golf would enjoy a properly fitted set of clubs.

A well chosen gift will be appreciated. Its value is not necessarily related to its cost. An inexpensive gift can bring many hours of pleasure and enjoyment. There is nothing wrong with a useful gift but every gift does not have to provide an education.

Remember that a little investigation will increase the value and sincerity of any gift.

Americans Becoming Conspicuous Renters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Housewives within the next decade will shop for furniture without leaving their homes, and will probably give up their bridge clubs in favor of civic activities.

The rush to the suburbs will subside, with a return to attractive living units in the city near work, and more investments in weekend retreats to "get away from it all."

FEWER FAMILIES will own their own homes, and the emphasis on family and home life will be innovation and change, rather than tradition and stability.

The Stanford Research Institute reported these and other findings in a study of trends through 1975 for the first All-Industry Home Furnishings Conference recently.

The report predicted an end to the era of "conspicuous consumption" with private ownership of homes and other costly durables.

"Americans are becoming conspicuous renters," the report said.

BY 1975 ONE-FIFTH of the entire population will move from one residence to another each year, and about 85 per cent of all Americans will live at some time in a foreign country. Less than 5 per cent of the population will spend their entire lifetime in their home town.

BECAUSE of this mobility, the research report said, most houses would be owned and furnished by contractor-builder-managers, and families will treasure and travel with accessories such as lamps, objects of art and paintings, which take up little space.

Housewives will prefer to rent the larger pieces of furniture rather than cart private belongings from one place to another.

Much shopping will be done from the home via color television. Innovations in furniture retailing will allow the shopper to rent pieces or even whole rooms of furniture which have been finished or upholstered to her preference. There will be more individuality in home decorating.

MOBILE AMERICANS will have less understanding of local governmental delays in satisfying their needs and, while deploring the trend, will look to the federal government to support and control the community.

Few people will hold one job, or even one type of job all their lives, so there will be frequent retraining and education will be a lifelong process. It will be an era of social problem-solving, with most Americans participating. The woman especially, aware of science's ability to control the universe, will be impatient to help bring about more enlightened social control in her community, the report predicted.

ALTHOUGH the days of the "rugged individualist" are nearly over, the trend shows buyers will be treated more on an individual basis than as part of a market.

Women will value spare time and enjoyment more than ownership of things, and the report predicts "the woman of 1975 will be more demanding and more powerful than ever before in history, as she makes herself at home in a world of change."

CERTAIN SECURITY

Many Factors Enter Into Buying Gifts For Children

By DAVID NYDICK
(UPI) Education Specialist

Millions of dollars will be spent on gifts for children during the next several weeks. Unfortunately, part of this money will have been wasted because the gifts were not chosen properly. Gifts that are carefully chosen are usually appreciated more and provide greater enjoyment.

An ideal gift should be chosen after careful consideration of the child's age, ability, interests and personality. If these factors are satisfied, the gift is more likely to become a favorite plaything.

You surely have heard of cases when an expensive doll has been discarded and an old ragdoll continued as the favorite. Disappointing? It shouldn't be. Adults do similar things. There is a certain security in familiar items.

DON'T ALWAYS try to replace something which the child has enjoyed and has grown old. Try to find out something about the child's personality and present interests. Don't purchase a quiet game for an extremely active child who spends most of his time on the ballfield. It would also be wrong to buy a baseball glove for a child who dislikes the game or may have no opportunity to play it.

A gift is more appropriate when it is proper for the age level and reasonable for the particular home. A toy or game which is too difficult for the child to understand or too simple to hold his interest will surely end up on the shelf. Some Men Don't Know How To Wear A Hat

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —A woman at Texas A&M University thinks men don't know how to wear hats.

"There's more to wearing a hat than just grabbing it off some hook and jamming it on your head," said Fannie Brown Eaton, University clothing specialist.

"THE RIGHT hat style, correctly worn, will do as much to enhance a man's appearance as any other item in his wardrobe," she said. "Unfortunately, some men don't know how to wear a hat correctly."

She offered these suggestions:

Hats should be worn down to the hump on the back of the head and up near the hairline in the front.

Exceptions to this rule are Homburgs, derbies and western hats, which must be worn lower in front

Snap-brim hats should be tilted to one side. Let the brim touch the ear on one side and clear the other ear by one-half to three-quarters of an inch.

Christmas In Marin Dinner Dance Is Scheduled Dec. 11

The fifth annual Christmas in Marin dinner dance for the county's young married set, will be held Dec. 11 at Peacock Gap Country Club. The party begins at 7:30 p.m., with dinner to be served at 9:30 p.m.

Former sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tilt, who lived in San Anselmo, will miss the dinner-dance this year as they have left for a two year stay in Greece.

Carrying on a tradition of the event, guests are asked to bring a Christmas gift for patients at the Sonoma State Hospital.

Mrs. Douglass is decorations chairman; Mrs. Sanderson, assistant decorations chairman; Mrs. Robinson, reservation; Mrs. Crittenden, publicity; and Mrs. Mer Riman, arranged for the orchestra.

Cookbooks Now Written For Milkman Too

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) —If on your Christmas list there is a fireman, a sports fan or a tenderfoot gone West, we know just the gift for each.

A cookbook.

We can think of only a few specialists for whom there is—at this writing—no particular culinary guide. But do not despair. There are several shopping days until Christmas in which to look for a cookbook written especially for the milkman, the doorman, the elevator operator and the newspaper delivery boy.

Meanwhile, here are brief comments on recent publications as gift possibilities:

"San Francisco Firehouse Favorites" by Tony Calvello, Bruce Harlow, Georgia Sackett and Shirley Sarvis (Bobbs Merrill)—If the fire laddies eat like this on $1 a day per person, we're off to California to become a volunteer fireman.

"The All-Star Athletes Cook Book" by Oscar Fraley and David Huntley (Centaur Hawthorn)—If these recipes represent a typical cross-section of the nation's athletes, they're not the steak-and-potatoes fraternity.

"Rattlesnake Under Glass" by Martha Eastlake (Simon and Schuster) is a collection of Southwest recipes, ranging from such familiar foods as chile and tamales to less well known soppaillas (Fried bread that puffs like sofa pillows), porcupine in clay and bear roast.

Starnes-McCallum Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Moore of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lavonne McCallum, to Riley Kenneth Starnes of San Rafael.

The bride-elect was graduated from San Rafael High School and San Francisco State College. She is a teacher at the Belvedere Nursery School. Brooke Moore of Yellow Springs, Ohio, is her brother.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Starnes of Grant, Ala., is serving with the U. S. Air Force in Germany. A. J. Dart, Robert and Roy Starnes and Mrs. Harold Keller of Grant are his sisters and brother.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 19.

ENGAGED TO WED are Diana Joan Winters of Hillsborough and Terrance Palmer Witzel of Novato.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

The gay decorations of the holiday season are brightening the homes of Marin once again. Behind these decorative pieces are the traditions and customs of many lands and many peoples. No one knows this better than the women of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center. Each year, for their Greens Sale, they fashion beautiful decorations with roots in many cultures. They show you some of them—and tell you about them—in tomorrow's Marin Magazine.

Young Marin likes action. Sixteen-year-old Mark Brelsford finds his on the motorcycle racing tracks of Northern California. Already he is a veteran of cycle racing and the winner of many trophies. Tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement tells you how Mark got involved in this hobby. And why he thinks it the most exciting sport of all. You will learn that young Mark and his fellow racing riders are a far different breed than "the wild ones" sometimes associated with motorcycling.

Some Men Don't Know How To Wear A Hat

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —A woman at Texas A&M University thinks men don't know how to wear hats.

"There's more to wearing a hat than just grabbing it off some hook and jamming it on your head," said Fannie Brown Eaton, University clothing specialist.

"THE RIGHT hat style, correctly worn, will do as much to enhance a man's appearance as any other item in his wardrobe," she said. "Unfortunately, some men don't know how to wear a hat correctly."

She offered these suggestions:

Hats should be worn down to the hump on the back of the head and up near the hairline in the front.

Exceptions to this rule are Homburgs, derbies and western hats, which must be worn lower in front

Snap-brim hats should be tilted to one side. Let the brim touch the ear on one side and clear the other ear by one-half to three-quarters of an inch.

Christmas In Marin Dinner Dance Is Scheduled Dec. 11

The fifth annual Christmas in Marin dinner dance for the county's young married set, will be held Dec. 11 at Peacock Gap Country Club. The party begins at 7:30 p.m., with dinner to be served at 9:30 p.m.

Sponsors of the black tie subscription party are Messrs. and Mesdames Harvey Black, Mill Valley; James Crittenden, Belvedere; Don Douglass, Ross; Dwight Merriman Jr., Kentfield; John Raisin, Tiburon; John Robinson, Ross; and Henry Sanderson of San Rafael.

Former sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tilt, who lived in San Anselmo, will miss the dinner-dance this year as they have left for a two year stay in Greece.

Carrying on a tradition of the event, guests are asked to bring a Christmas gift for patients at the Sonoma State Hospital.

Mrs. Douglass is decorations chairman; Mrs. Sanderson, assistant decorations chairman; Mrs. Robinson, reservation; Mrs. Crittenden, publicity; and Mrs. Mer Riman, arranged for the orchestra.

School P-TA Sets Ski Swap, Sale

The San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Assn. will hold a rummage sale and ski swap on Dec. 11, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the school cafeteria.

Pickup chairmen for the event, which will offer assorted items, are Mesdames H. L. Pascoe, C. A. Gallivan, and A. N. Thompson.

Mrs. E. E. DeGraff is in charge of items for ths ski swap. All swap items are to be brought to the cafeteria between 8:30 and 9 a.m.

Cookbooks Now Written For Milkman Too

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) —If on your Christmas list there is a fireman, a sports fan or a tenderfoot gone West, we know just the gift for each.

A cookbook.

We can think of only a few specialists for whom there is—at this writing—no particular culinary guide. But do not despair. There are several shopping days until Christmas in which to look for a cookbook written especially for the milkman, the doorman, the elevator operator and the newspaper delivery boy.

Meanwhile, here are brief comments on recent publications as gift possibilities:

"San Francisco Firehouse Favorites" by Tony Calvello, Bruce Harlow, Georgia Sackett and Shirley Sarvis (Bobbs Merrill)—If the fire laddies eat like this on $1 a day per person, we're off to California to become a volunteer fireman.

"The All-Star Athletes Cook Book" by Oscar Fraley and David Huntley (Centaur Hawthorn)—If these recipes represent a typical cross-section of the nation's athletes, they're not the steak - and - potatoes fraternity.

"Rattlesnake Under Glass" by Martha Eastlake (Simon and Schuster) is a collection of Southwest recipes, ranging from such familiar foods as chile and tamales to less well known soppaillas (Fried bread that puffs like sofa pillows), porcupine in clay and bear roast.

Starnes-McCallum Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Moore of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lavonne McCallum, to Riley Kenneth Starnes of San Rafael.

The bride-elect was graduated from San Rafael High School and San Francisco State College. She is a teacher at the Belvedere Nursery School. Brooke Moore of Yellow Springs, Ohio, is her brother.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Starnes of Grant, Ala., is serving with the U. S. Air Force in Germany. A. J. Dart, Robert and Roy Starnes and Mrs. Harold Keller of Grant are his sisters and brother.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 19.

ENGAGED TO WED are Diana Joan Winters of Hillsborough and Terrance Palmer Witzel of Novato.

Bagpipe Skirl May Launch Memorial Hike For Kennedy

Pipers from the San Francisco Pipers Band may play some tunes for participants in the Kennedy Memorial Hike tomorrow. The hike is to start at 9:30 a.m. from the parking lot at Mountain Home Inn, 810 Panoramic Highway, and proceed to the top of the mountain.

Ex-Marine W. E. Luckey, leading the hike, said the Marine Corps color guard from Treasure Island has agreed to turn out "to give us a boost" on the first leg of the trek. He said he is attempting to get some help from the four-piper band.

Luckey, who lives in San Leandro, hikes on Mount Tamalpais every other weekend. He plans to lead the hikers via the Throckmorton Trail, also called the Hog Back.

"It takes me about 45 minutes to get to the top," the light-footed Luckey said, "But I think it might take the group about an hour." He said he has suggested that persons wishing to, bring lunches.

The hike is to pay a tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy for his role in development of the physical fitness program about three years ago.

Luckey, 53, a salesman of marine goods, sead he plans to say a few words before the hike begins. The pipers if secured, will play and the trip will begin.

Novato High Slates Concert Of Band, Chorus

The fall concert of the Novato High School Band and Chorus will be given at 3 p.m. Sunday in the new gymnasium at the school.

The 60-voice mixed chorus and the 80-member band will perform under direction of John Yardas, head of the music department.

Donald Carr, head of the English department, will narrate the program.

The chorus will be heard in such selections a "Lazy River" by Grant, "If I Forget You" by Caeser, "To Our Little Town," a French carol by Malin, and a novelty arrangement of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Among numbers to be played by the band are "Beguine for Band" by Eymann and "Athletic Festival" by Prokofiev. The flute section will be featured in "Andantino" by Mozart.

Civil Rights Backers Sponsor Film Showing

The College of Marin Friends of SNCC (Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee) will show four films Dec. 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. in the college's Olney Hall to benefit the voter registration drive in Carroll County, Miss.

The films are "The Quiet One," award winner at the Venice and Edinburgh film festivals; "The Hole," academy award winner narrated by Dizzy Gillespie; "Neighbors," another academy award winner, and "Case of The Mukkinees Battlehorn," starring Peter Sellers.

Shakespeare Fete Tickets On Sale

Memberships for the sixth annual season of the Marin Shakespeare Festival are now being accepted, Mrs. Robert Corlett, membership chairman, announced today.

Memberships entitle a member's family to two tickets for each performance of the season, which will include productions of "Julius Caesar," "Richard III," and "The Merchant of Venice."

Memberships may be obtained by writing the Marin Shakespeare Festival, Box 472, Ross. Performances are given at the Marin Art and Garden Center Amphitheater in Ross.

MARIN FILM FARE

Bette Davis In Another Chilly Role

By LES DARD

Here's what's happening around Marin area movie houses:

RAFAEL THEATER

Bette Davis takes the intriguing title role of "The Nanny," now on screen, a brand new British mystery-suspense entry.

Bickering, emotional upsets and hints of tragedy disturb the tranquil exterior of the home where Miss Davis is employed.

The daughter of her employers is drowned in a bathtub. Newcomer William Dix, the crafty 10-year-old son is sent away for therapy. When he returns, things start popping.

The boy's mother is mysteriously poisoned and hospitalized. She is temporarily replaced by an aunt, who rather quickly succumbs to heart failure.

Suspicion flits between the incorrigible boy and the nanny. The viewer, after having seen Miss Davis in her last few films, has a pretty fair idea who is the culprit; nevertheless, the suspense is high, and the "what's-going-to-happen-next" atmosphere is kept taut. An admirable achievement.

This one will be enjoyed by the younger set almost as much as by the adults.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

One of Hollywood's brightest stars—the platinum blonde sex symbol of the thirties — is brought to life in Joseph E. Levine's production of "Harlow," now playing.

This is the second filming of Jean Harlow's life in recent months, and is by far the better entry.

Playing the title role is one of today's young sex symbols—they're a more numerous breed now—Caroll Baker. Surrounding her is a big cast, including Red Buttons, Arthur Landau, Peter Lawford, Paul Bern, Angela Lansbury, and Raf Vallone.

Fine escapist fare.

Co-featured is the memorable "Becket," starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole.

101 DRIVE-IN

An off-beat war drama with a personalized view of D-Day in Normandy, "Up From the Beach" is now on screen.

It has some moving moments, but is particularly notable for putting over the point that war is confusion — unbelievable confusion.

The incident is a minor one. It is D-Day plus one, and a group of 23 French civilians, driven from their little village by artillery fire, arrive at Utah Beach to welcome Allied forces.

Infantry Sergeant Cliff Robertson is assigned to conduct the civilians, including men, women and children, to safety. Seems simple, but it turns out otherwise.

Red Buttons co-stars as a Pfc. from the Bronx and pretty Irina Demick as a French resistance leader. Broderick Crawford, James Robertson Justice and Slim Pickens have important roles.

NOVATO THEATER

On screen for tonight and the weekend is "Tickle Me," an Elvis Presley favorite — and if you've enjoyed him before, you won't be disappointed here.

This time our boy plays a rodeo rider who drifts into a beauty ranch, where the ladies go to lose pounds. Except in this case there seems to be no excess poundage visible, just the right amount on the likes of Jocelyn Lane, Julie Adams and Merry Anders.

Jackie Gleason plays an old pro sergeant in "Soldier in the Rain," the co-feature. It's a closeup of the peacetime Army with a blend of humor and pathos. Steve McQueen is also featured.

Waters Belittles State Split Idea

ANAHEIM (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Laughlin E. Waters has criticized a proposal to split California into two separate states, saying family squabbles are normal but "divorce is not the answer."

Waters, in a speech prepared for delivery before a luncheon meeting of the Orange County First Friday Friars Club, said the proposal for two Californias advanced by State Sen. Richard Dolwig, R-Redwood City, was "absurd."

"I don't want to make it more absurd than it is," he said. "But this idea is like walking up to Siamese twins and saying 'let's you and him fight.'"

Waters said he seriously doubted that such a split will materialize.

Prints Display On

Block-print cards by artist William D. Latshaw, of 385 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, will be on display at the "Surprise Shop" in Tiburon through Dec. 31. Paintings by Latshaw will also be shown at the art show scheduled for the Jewish Community Center in San Rafael tomorrow and Sunday.

Donald Carr, head of the English department, will narrate the program.

The chorus will be heard in such selections a "Lazy River" by Grant, "If I Forget You" by Caeser, "To Our Little Town," a French carol by Malin, and a novelty arrangement of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Among numbers to be played by the band are "Beguine for Band" by Eymann and "Athletic Festival" by Prokofiev. The flute section will be featured in "Andantino" by Mozart.

MARIN FILM FARE

Bette Davis In Another Chilly Role

By LES DARD

Here's what's happening around Marin area movie houses:

RAFAEL THEATER

Bette Davis takes the intriguing title role of "The Nanny," now on screen, a brand new British mystery-suspense entry.

Bickering, emotional upsets and hints of tragedy disturb the tranquil exterior of the home where Miss Davis is employed.

The daughter of her employers is drowned in a bathtub. Newcomer William Dix, the crafty 10-year-old son is sent away for therapy. When he returns, things start popping.

The boy's mother is mysteriously poisoned and hospitalized. She is temporarily replaced by an aunt, who rather quickly succumbs to heart failure.

Suspicion flits between the incorrigible boy and the nanny. The viewer, after having seen Miss Davis in her last few films, has a pretty fair idea who is the culprit; nevertheless, the suspense is high, and the "what's-going-to-happen-next" atmosphere is kept taut. An admirable achievement.

This one will be enjoyed by the younger set almost as much as by the adults.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

One of Hollywood's brightest stars—the platinum blonde sex symbol of the thirties — is brought to life in Joseph E. Levine's production of "Harlow," now playing.

This is the second filming of Jean Harlow's life in recent months, and is by far the better entry.

Playing the title role is one of today's young sex symbols—they're a more numerous breed now—Caroll Baker. Surrounding her is a big cast, including Red Buttons, Arthur Landau, Peter Lawford, Paul Bern, Angela Lansbury, and Raf Vallone.

Fine escapist fare.

Co-featured is the memorable "Becket," starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole.

101 DRIVE-IN

An off-beat war drama with a personalized view of D-Day in Normandy, "Up From the Beach" is now on screen.

It has some moving moments, but is particularly notable for putting over the point that war is confusion — unbelievable confusion.

The incident is a minor one. It is D-Day plus one, and a group of 23 French civilians, driven from their little village by artillery fire, arrive at Utah Beach to welcome Allied forces.

Infantry Sergeant Cliff Robertson is assigned to conduct the civilians, including men, women and children, to safety. Seems simple, but it turns out otherwise.

Red Buttons co-stars as a Pfc. from the Bronx and pretty Irina Demick as a French resistance leader. Broderick Crawford, James Robertson Justice and Slim Pickens have important roles.

NOVATO THEATER

On screen for tonight and the weekend is "Tickle Me," an Elvis Presley favorite — and if you've enjoyed him before, you won't be disappointed here.

This time our boy plays a rodeo rider who drifts into a beauty ranch, where the ladies go to lose pounds. Except in this case there seems to be no excess poundage visible, just the right amount on the likes of Jocelyn Lane, Julie Adams and Merry Anders.

Jackie Gleason plays an old pro sergeant in "Soldier in the Rain," the co-feature. It's a closeup of the peacetime Army with a blend of humor and pathos. Steve McQueen is also featured.

Waters Belittles State Split Idea

ANAHEIM (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Laughlin E. Waters has criticized a proposal to split California into two separate states, saying family squabbles are normal but "divorce is not the answer."

Waters, in a speech prepared for delivery before a luncheon meeting of the Orange County First Friday Friars Club, said the proposal for two Californias advanced by State Sen. Richard Dolwig, R-Redwood City, was "absurd."

"I don't want to make it more absurd than it is," he said. "But this idea is like walking up to Siamese twins and saying 'let's you and him fight.' "

Waters said he seriously doubted that such a split will materialize.

Prints Display On

Block-print cards by artist William D. Latshaw, of 385 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, will be on display at the "Surprise Shop" in Tiburon through Dec. 31. Paintings by Latshaw will also be shown at the art show scheduled for the Jewish Community Center in San Rafael tomorrow and Sunday.

U.S. Studies Public Fear Of Food Idea

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission predicts that fresh fish preserved by radiation will soon be available to Americans everywhere.

But officials concede that the consumers' "acquired fears of radiation and fallout" may cripple the plan, even though the fish is safe to eat and contains no radioactivity.

The AEC is expecting Food and Drug Administration approval of an application to process the fish for human consumption. If it comes through, it will be a big victory in a prolonged research effort.

The only food item approved so far as radiaion sterilized bacon. Packaged in cans, it is designed to last for months. It is precooked and sterilized with large doses of radiation in a technique developed by the Army.

The Army is trying to get industrial food processors interested in sterilizing other meats so that it can "serve a steak to a G I. in a foxhole," says one scientist.

The AEC's aim is more modest. In the technique it has been developing at its Gloucester, Mass., marine products irradiator, 90 to 99 per cent of the spoilage bacteria are destroyed. This is a form of pasteurizing, keeping the fish for two weeks to 20 days.

Irradiated fish requires refrigerated storage just as other fresh fish do, but it stays fresh much longer.

Sterilization, on the other hand, kills all spoilage-causing bacteria and products so processed need not be refrigerated. But sterilization demands a radiation dose about 20 times as large as used in pasteurization.

The AEC feels that technical progress has been so great that private companies can now take over commercial radiation of at least six fish varieties: Cod, haddock, ocean perch, pollack, flounder, and sole. Within a few months, the commission also plans to seek a consumption permit for irradiated shrimp.

The AEC would like to avoid using the term "radiation" in labeling the fish. its scientists insist the process is similar to simple heating, with the radiant energy passing through the fish killing bacteria enroute.

However, "some people have reluctance to touch anything handled by radiation," says George Dietz, an AEC specialist. Radiation doses to which fish are exposed for about an hour are carefully perscribed by the Food and Drug Administration. These doses are well below the level which could make the fish radioactive, he said.

Convincing consumers, however, is something else again. "Some people say 'the government tells us to be careful of radiation and now it has put radiation into fish'—but there's no radiation in the fish," says Dietz.

Already in wide use in this country are radiation-strengthened plastics, often used in food stores to pack oranges and other fruit. Consumers have never objected to the use of radiation in non-food items, notes Dietz—possibly because many don't know radiation was involved in their manufacturer.

Since last April, the AEC has pasteurized more than 10,000 pounds of fish at Gloucester, working with private food processors who are interested in the technique.

Large-scale teste panels have sampled the product. Irridation produced no detectable taste changes in the fish, Dietz says.

Thanks to technical improvements, ham, pork, chicken, and beef sterilized by the Army in a test program "today are terrific products," says Dietz. A few years ago, however, people said these irradiated items tasted like "burnt feathers" or "wet dog."

The AEC soon will install portable irradiation units aboard two government research vessels to pasteurize fish as soon as it is caught. One ship will operate out of Gloucester and the other from Pascagoula, Miss., concentrating on shrimp irradiation.

While this would keep fish even fresher, commission scientists say they really don't expect owners of small fishing boats to install irradiators.

"I don't think radiation will knock out canning, freezing, or other processes, but certainly it will take a place alongside," says Dietz. The AEC's hope is to make fresh marine products available to people far from costal areas.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minimize Tension, Anxiety To Cut Distress Of Ulcer

VAN DELLEN

Gastric acidity is the bugaboo of all peptic ulcer victims. Many have an inherent disposition to over-react to ordinary stress and anxiety. The end result for these individuals is an excessive amount of acid in the stomach.

It is now possible to determine when a person is dreaming by studying the brain waves and eye movement. During these periods, ulcer victims have from three to 20 times more gastric acidity than do normal individuals. Testing the secretions at the same time usually reveals a marked increase of gastric acidity. This does not occur to normal people.

A GROUP of Los Angeles physicians demonstrated that not all dreams were accompanied with this increase. They believed that the offenders were only those stressful to the ulcer victim. Eating also increases acidity and several volunteers recalled dreaming about food.

It is impossible to determine how much this contributes to the over-all ulcer picture. Statistics show that healing occurs in 90 per cent with rest, diet, and antacid drugs.

Relief is not always permanent and the rate of recurrence is high. Almost 65 per cent of the duodenal ulcers reappear within two and one-half years and 80 per cent within five years.

ULCER DISTRESS usually returns during trying times and the recurrence rate can be reduced by minimizing tension and anxiety. Tobacco, caffeine, alcohol, and dietary indiscretion often are blamed unnecessarily. Most sufferers resort to these vices when the going gets tough and excessive smoking, drinking, or eating becomes an excellent excuse.

The usual antacids act by neutralizing stomach acidity which relieves pain and promotes healing. The anti-cholingeric drugs, such as Pro-Banthine, accomplish the same by quieting the nerves that govern the churning movements and the acid-producing cells.

Sedatives tend to shorten dream time and may be of value when ulcer discomfort is difficult to control.

EXERCISES

Mrs. B. writes: Can anything be done to strengthen a child's feet and ankles?

REPLY

Nonspecific exercises consist of walking, running, jumping, and skating. Specific exercises for arch development include walking on the toes and the outer aspect of the feet as well as picking up marbles with the toes.

SHOT TIME

Mrs. M. M. writes: When is the best time for babies to be vaccinated?

REPLY

During the first six months of life. When done early, there are fewer reactions, and if they should occur, they are less severe. Furthermore, protection seems to last longer than if the procedures are done at school age.

TITLE OF PHYSICIAN

H. H. writes: How long have physicians been called doctors in this country?

REPLY

For at least 300 years, according to Veits. The word physician was used among the more learned from about 1650, but the earliest recorded instance is said to be found in the 1668 archives of the Roxbury church in Massachusetts.

IT'S AN OPERATION

Mrs. F. writes: Is the removal of hemorrhoids considered surgery?

REPLY

Yes, as anyone who has undergone the procedure will testify.

New Glue May Prove A Boon To Surgeons

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—A new tissue "glue" that could lead to vastly simplified artery surgery has been developed by federal scientists.

In animal experiments the cement has eliminated the need for troublesome sutures. The substance is not ready for human use, but with further refinement the process may work out as an important new surgical tool.

Adhesive materials have been tried before — with uneven results. Either the stuff loosens up in the presence of body moisture or it is toxic to the tissue it is supposed to fuse.

According to the noted woman heart surgeon, Dr. Nina S. Braunwald, and her partner in the experiments, Dr. Constantine J. Tatooles, the new substance is superior to cements currently available. They are associated with the National Heart Institute.

They have used the glue—a mixture of gelatin, resorcinol and formaldehyde—to seal off bleeding from deep surgical incisions in the livers and kidneys of animals. Follow-up tests over six months showed mild short-lived inflammation around the cement, but this was no more intense than tissue reaction to catgut sutures.

Afterward, healing was complete with little scarring.

The successful tests suggest the possibility of applying the glue, or some refined version of it, to repair the tiny arteries and veins of the body. Presently, repair of smaller diseased blood vessels is hampered by the lack of a substantial surface to attach sutures. A workable cement, substituting for sutures, could get around this roadblock, the animal tests indicate.

The adhesive was developed in collaboration with the polymer research division of Batelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio. The adhesive uses gelatin as a starting material. This seems to work well because it is derived from collagen, the natural connective-tissue cement that binds cells and tissues together in the body.

By itself it is only a fairly good sticking agent. However, when it is treated with formaldehyde and resorcinol, an alcohol chemically similar to benzene, the combination turns into a good glue.

Moreover, it appears to be less toxic than anything tried to date. But there are still bugs to be worked out. Formaldehyde and resorcinol can irritate tissue. This is not a great problem in regions well supplied by blood. But it becomes troublesome when used on arterial wall tissues, which are composed of elastic and connective-tissue fibers poorly supplied by blood.

Drs. Braunwald and Tatooles are now alternating mixtures of the glue's ingredients with a chemical they hope will neutralize this tissue-irritating quality. The investigation is being pushed on a hopeful note.

If Columbus had been born earlier, he probably could not have made his voyage to America. Boats were small; seamen could not sail into the wind and so stayed close to land. The compass was not available, and the stars had not been charted accurately. It was not until the mid-15th Century that ocean navigation was established as a science.

U.S. Studies Public Fear Of Food Idea

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission predicts that fresh fish preserved by radiation will soon be available to Americans everywhere.

But officials concede that the consumers' "acquired fears of radiation and fallout" may cripple the plan, even though the fish is safe to eat and contains no radioactivity.

The AEC is expecting Food and Drug Administration approval of an application to process the fish for human consumption. If it comes through, it will be a big victory in a prolonged research effort.

The only food item approved so far as radiaion sterilized bacon. Packaged in cans, it is designed to last for months. It is precooked and sterilized with large doses of radiation in a technique developed by the Army.

The Army is trying to get industrial food processors interested in sterilizing other meats so that it can "serve a steak to a G I. in a foxhole," says one scientist.

The AEC's aim is more modest. In the technique it has been developing at its Gloucester, Mass., marine products irradiator, 90 to 99 per cent of the spoilage bacteria are destroyed. This is a form of pasteurizing, keeping the fish for two weeks to 20 days.

Irradiated fish requires refrigerated storage just as other fresh fish do, but it stays fresh much longer.

Sterilization, on the other hand, kills all spoilage-causing bacteria and products so processed need not be refrigerated. But sterilization demands a radiation dose about 20 times as large as used in pasteurization.

The AEC feels that technical progress has been so great that private companies can now take over commercial radiation of at least six fish varieties: Cod, haddock, ocean perch, pollack, flounder, and sole. Within a few months, the commission also plans to seek a consumption permit for irradiated shrimp.

The AEC would like to avoid using the term "radiation" in labeling the fish, its scientists insist the process is similar to simple heating, with the radiant energy passing through the fish killing bacteria enroute.

However, "some people have reluctance to touch anything handled by radiation," says George Dietz, an AEC specialist. Radiation doses to which fish are exposed for about an hour are carefully perscribed by the Food and Drug Administration. These doses are well below the level which could make the fish radioactive, he said.

Convincing consumers, however, is something else again. "Some people say 'the government tells us to be careful of radiation and now it has put radiation into fish'—but there's no radiation in the fish," says Dietz.

Already in wide use in this country are radiation-strengthened plastics, often used in food stores to pack oranges and other fruit. Consumers have never objected to the use of radiation in non-food items, notes Dietz—possibly because many don't know radiation was involved in their manufacturer.

Since last April, the AEC has pasteurized more than 10,000 pounds of fish at Gloucester, working with private food processors who are interested in the technique.

Large-scale teste panels have sampled the product. Irridation produced no detectable taste changes in the fish, Dietz says.

Thanks to technical improvements, ham, pork, chicken, and beef sterilized by the Army in a test program "today are terrific products," says Dietz. A few years ago, however, people said these irradiated items tasted like "burnt feathers" or "wet dog."

The AEC soon will install portable irradiation units aboard two government research vessels to pasteurize fish as soon as it is caught. One ship will operate out of Gloucester and the other from Pascagoula, Miss., concentrating on shrimp irradiation.

While this would keep fish even fresher, commission scientists say they really don't expect owners of small fishing boats to install irradiators.

"I don't think radiation will knock out canning, freezing, or other processes, but certainly it will take a place alongside," says Dietz. The AEC's hope is to make fresh marine products available to people far from costal areas.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minimize Tension, Anxiety To Cut Distress Of Ulcer

VAN DELLEN

Gastric acidity is the bugaboo of all peptic ulcer victims. Many have an inherent disposition to over-react to ordinary stress and anxiety. The end result for these individuals is an excessive amount of acid in the stomach.

It is now possible to determine when a person is dreaming by studying the brain waves and eye movement. During these periods, ulcer victims have from three to 20 times more gastric acidity than do normal individuals. Testing the secretions at the same time usually reveals a marked increase of gastric acidity. This does not occur to normal people.

A GROUP of Los Angeles physicians demonstrated that not all dreams were accompanied with this increase. They believed that the offenders were only those stressful to the ulcer victim. Eating also increases acidity and several volunteers recalled dreaming about food.

It is impossible to determine how much this contributes to the over-all ulcer picture. Statistics show that healing occurs in 90 per cent with rest, diet, and antacid drugs.

Relief is not always permanent and the rate of recurrence is high. Almost 65 per cent of the duodenal ulcers reappear within two and one-half years and 80 per cent within five years.

ULCER DISTRESS usually returns during trying times and the recurrence rate can be reduced by minimizing tension and anxiety. Tobacco, caffeine, alcohol, and dietary indiscretion often are blamed unnecessarily. Most sufferers resort to these vices when the going gets tough and excessive smoking, drinking, or eating becomes an excellent excuse.

The usual antacids act by neutralizing stomach acidity which relieves pain and promotes healing. The anti-cholingeric drugs, such as Pro-Banthine, accomplish the same by quieting the nerves that govern the churning movements and the acid-producing cells.

Sedatives tend to shorten dream time and may be of value when ulcer discomfort is difficult to control.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

EXERCISES

Mrs. B. writes: Can anything be done to strengthen a child's feet and ankles?

REPLY

Nonspecific exercises consist of walking, running, jumping, and skating. Specific exercises for arch development include walking on the toes and the outer aspect of the feet as well as picking up marbles with the toes.

SHOT TIME

Mrs. M. M. writes: When is the best time for babies to be vaccinated?

REPLY

During the first six months of life. When done early, there are fewer reactions, and if they should occur, they are less severe. Furthermore, protection seems to last longer than if the procedures are done at school age.

TITLE OF PHYSICIAN

H. H. writes: How long have physicians been called doctors in this country?

REPLY

For at least 300 years, according to Veits. The word physician was used among the more learned from about 1650, but the earliest recorded instance is said to be found in the 1668 archives of the Roxbury church in Massachusetts.

IT'S AN OPERATION

Mrs. F. writes: Is the removal of hemorrhoids considered surgery?

REPLY

Yes, as anyone who has undergone the procedure will testify.

New Glue May Prove A Boon To Surgeons

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—A new tissue "glue" that could lead to vastly simplified artery surgery has been developed by federal scientists.

In animal experiments the cement has eliminated the need for troublesome sutures. The substance is not ready for human use, but with further refinement the process may work out as an important new surgical tool.

Adhesive materials have been tried before — with uneven results. Either the stuff loosens up in the presence of body moisture or it is toxic to the tissue it is supposed to fuse.

According to the noted woman heart surgeon, Dr. Nina S. Braunwald, and her partner in the experiments, Dr. Constantine J. Tatooles, the new substance is superior to cements currently available. They are associated with the National Heart Institute.

They have used the glue—a mixture of gelatin, resorcinol and formaldehyde—to seal off bleeding from deep surgical incisions in the livers and kidneys of animals. Follow-up tests over six months showed mild short-lived inflammation around the cement, but this was no more intense than tissue reaction to catgut sutures.

Afterward, healing was complete with little scarring.

The successful tests suggest the possibility of applying the glue, or some refined version of it, to repair the tiny arteries and veins of the body. Presently, repair of smaller diseased blood vessels is hampered by the lack of a substantial surface to attach sutures. A workable cement, substituting for sutures, could get around this roadblock, the animal tests indicate.

The adhesive was developed in collaboration with the polymer research division of Batelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio. The adhesive uses gelatin as a starting material. This seems to work well because it is derived from collagen, the natural connective-tissue cement that binds cells and tissues together in the body.

By itself it is only a fairly good sticking agent. However, when it is treated with formaldehyde and resorcinol, an alcohol chemically similar to benzene, the combination turns into a good glue.

Moreover, it appears to be less toxic than anything tried to date. But there are still bugs to be worked out. Formaldehyde and resorcinol can irritate tissue. This is not a great problem in regions well supplied by blood. But it becomes troublesome when used on arterial wall tissues, which are composed of elastic and connective-tissue fibers poorly supplied by blood.

Drs. Braunwald and Tatooles are now alternating mixtures of the glue's ingredients with a chemical they hope will neutralize this tissue - irritating quality. The investigation is being pushed on a hopeful note.

If Columbus had been born earlier, he probably could not have made his voyage to America. Boats were small; seamen could not sail into the wind and so stayed close to land. The compass was not available, and the stars had not been charted accurately. It was not until the mid-15th Century that ocean navigation was established as a science.

More Study Urged On Park Proposals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After long discussion of proposals for a national redwood park, the state Board of Forestry recommended yesterday further study before any action is taken.

The board commended Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Hugo Fisher, administrator of the resources agency, for appointing the task force studying economic, tax and employment factors concerned.

The motion said the study should be continued so that the interests of California would not be subject to emotionalism.

In other actions, the board:

1. Approved a revised $2,516,153 state fire prevention budget for next year. The board previously had approved in principle a $3,019,015 budget request but this figure subsequently was reduced. The board was told that reduction of the budget would not seriously handicap the fire prevention effort and that the state would get the same number of fire fighters it did this year.

2. Approved a plan of forest practices applicable to slightly more than 4,000 acres of Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. land in Humboldt County. The board was informed by a Division of Forestry officer who checked the plan that the land is covered with groups of old trees, intermixed with thick young growth.

He said that if any more than a light thinning is done, it would be necessary to cut all the timber or it would blow down in a storm. Weyerhaeuser proposed to cut it all and reforest, as it has done in its successful tree farming programs elsewhere.

The board's policy is to keep private timberlands under private ownership.

DeWitt Nelson, director of the Department of Conservation, said that of the nine redwood park proposals, all would put the Rellim Lumber Co. out of business. Some proposals woud hurt other lumbering companies.

The proposals, varying from $37 to $120 million for timberland acquisition, would involve lands varying from 37,000 to 97,000 acres. Nelson said he could find no data as to how such a park would affect employment or tax base in the Northern California counties concerned.

Bridge District Meetings Slated

Six committees of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will meet in varying combinations Wednesday morning at the administration building next to the bridge toll plaza.

The district's finance committee will sit in on each of the five sessions.

After meeting alone at 10:30 a.m., finance committee members will meet with the new San Francisco - Marin - crossing committee and commuters affairs committee at 10:45 a.m.; with the building and operating committee at 11 a.m., with the rules and policy committee at 11:15 a.m.; and again with the new crossing committee at 11:30 a.m.

CARPENTER IN SPACE CAPSULE—This is Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who went from Navy test pilot into the space program, as he inserted himself through the hatch into the Aurora-7 space capsule on May 24, 1962, for his three-orbit space tour around the earth. Carpenter more recently became an explorer of the ocean depths in the Navy's Sealab 2. He'll be in Marin on Dec. 17 for appearances at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley on behalf of Christmas seals. (National Aeronautics and Space Administration photo from United Press International)

Maguire School Awaiting Astronaut-Aquanaut Visit

Malcolm Scott Carpenter, the only man ever to both orbit the earth in space and explore the depths of the sea, will be in Marin County on Dec. 17 on a tour in behalf of the sale of Christmas seals.

The Colorado-born astronaut will visit Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley for informal question and answer sessions with pupils from 9 to 11 a.m. Because the school's largest room will not accommodate the whole student body, there will be two one-hour sessions, each for half of the pupils. High school news bureau representatives will also be invited to attend, announced the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn., which is sponsoring Carpenter's appearance.

It is highly questionable whether Carpenter will be asked many questions about Christmas seals. The school children, doubtless, will want to talk about flights in space and descents into the ocean's depths.

Carpenter became the second American to circle the earth in a space vehicle when he made three orbits in the Aurora-7 capsule at 17,532 miles per hour on May 24, 1962. This was three months after John H. Glenn became America's first astronaut.

This year, Carpenter changed from astronaut to acquaraut to spend a record 30 days 205 feet below thes urface of the Pacific in the Sealab 2 mission.

But Christmas seals are important to Carpenter, who is the 1965 seal sale chairman of the National Tuberculosis Assn.

"My family is strong for Christmas seals," he says. "They helped my mother stage a comeback from tuberculosis. As a result of medical research and education financed by Christmas seals, she became an arrested case and was able to live a normal and happy life for years, although she finally died of the disease in 1962."

Edna Maguire School was selected for Carpenter's public appearance in Marin because it is the seventh-eighth grade school of Mill Valley School District, where the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. and county health department will conduct district-wide tuberculin testing in February.

Marin Citizens Score Well In National Test

A spot sampling of persons taking the recent National Citizenship Test showed scores of Marin County residents well above average. In fact, the national average of 63 per cent was topped by Marin's overall 83 per cent.

The sampling, done by the Marin Leagues of Women Voters, compared favorably with the nationally selected groups of congressmen and their wives, political party workers and high school honor students. The leagues collected data regarding the telecast of government, law and citizens' obligations and tabulated the following local results to compare with those given on the program.

Eight league telephone committees, made calls in Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Corte Madera, Larkspur, Kentfield, Ross, Terra Linda and Novato.

Of those called, 99 per cent were able to name at least one of their senators and 86 per cent could name both. Nationally, only 60 per cent could name one senator and 41 per cent could not name either one.

Marin voters were most knowledgeable on questions concerning citizenship rights, "you and your government," and voting. Most missed were questions on legal rights in the field of free speech and the obligation to answer census questions.

Another question which gave trouble was "help or call" in the case of an injured robbery victim. Many persons felt this could not be answered generally. One out of three felt they would prefer to offer assistance before telephoning police.

The series of questions requiring specific details while witnessing the commission of a crime scored lowest. Only 57 per cent of all questions needing accurate recall were answered correctly and only 38 per cent could identify the kind of car used in the getaway. In New York the scores were 72 and 17 per cent respectively.

Marin thinking on opinion questions followed closely that of the senators, high school students and political party workers. Nine out of 10 persons contacted preferred to make no change in the Fifth Amendment. A great majority felt there should be a change in the nomination of party candidates for president. Two out of five preferred state primaries; one out of two wanted a national primary; only one person in 20 felt the present system was best; one in 10 had no opinion.

Sausalito Kindergarten Has Key Role In Integration Try

By BRUCE COLEMAN
(Last of three articles)

"This is the age they have ants in their pants," said Mrs. Thelma Whittington.

Mrs. Whittington is lead kindergarten teacher at Sausalito School District's sole kindergarten school—Manzanita, in Marin City.

It was a rainy day and the pupils—Orientals, Negroes and Caucasians, completely homogenized on the floor — were squirming.

Peggy Jo Shaw, kindergarten teacher, was at the piano. The children leaped up to begin circle games where they had to choose partners, and Miss Shaw played a lively "Doing the Hokey Pokey."

Teachers and administrators believe that this, the kindergarten age, is the telling one and therefore the real hope of the district, which was completely integrated Sept. 13. They say at this age there is no discrimination, or practically none.

"Mr. (Ralph) Magnussen (principal of Manzanita and Bayside Schools) says we're the guiding light," said Mrs. Whittington. "There's nothing showing here. These children are not prejudiced. They don't discriminate unless it comes from the home. Just once "did I have any remark about color."

She said integration is thrown off a little bit due to the fact that all children from the Army forts must attend school in the morning.

I.Q.'s, she said, are high, medium and low in any nationality. Mrs. Whittington said there are six kindergarten classes, the largest containing 27 pupils.

"The future of the Sausalito district is strictly unpredictable in terms of specifics," according to Supt. Charles Lavaroni.

Lavaroni, new in his post following the resignation of Supt. Marcus F. Davis late in June, cancelled all appointments on the first day of rain this season to witness how pupils get along at schools during this more trying time.

Working toward the future, said Lavaroni, are the building study committee and an interdistrict committee working with Mill Valley on inter-group relations.

The personable superintendent cites keen parent interest in the schools, with large numbers of people turning out for board meetings and large numbers of volunteers.

The board, he said, had the nerve to ask for a committee of 100 for the building study committee when there are fewer than 1,000 children in the district. Almost that many showed up.

Droves of people have turned out as volunteers, he added. There are now 92 volunteers helping in libraries, classrooms and playgrounds.

"Right here (Sausalito) is the beginning and the real climax of the anti-poverty program," declares Robert Rogers.

Rogers, who headed the Sausalito citizen committee which urged integration, says it "will, of necessity, bring parents of Sausalito and Marin City in closer into a united effort of understanding. This will be a side benefit of the total program." He also mentioned that whereas there were once three Parent-Teacher Associations, there is now one unified one.

Desegragation alone does not make Sausalito School District exceptional.

The district is the richest elementary school district in Marin County outside of one and two-schoolroom districts. Sausalito is $6,000 richer per child than the next richest district, Reed, which has $25,000 per pupil.

Yet the district is poor in that 98 per cent of its assessed valuation is from the City of Sausalito, whereas 49 per cent of the enrollment is from Marin City.

The district has more federal and state-aided special programs than any other district in the county, and is seeking still another, a six-year San Francisco State College teacher training program.

Federal and state aid programs include the pre-school program, the tutoring program for pupils from third grade through high school, the hot lunch program, and the National Defense Education Act elementary school guidance program. Sausalito also is believed to be only district in California where the county is partially supporting a capital outlay program for building.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, in an unusual move, became superintendent of the Sausalito district this summer while a replacement was sought for Davis who resigned.

He said the district has one of the lowest teacher-pupil ratios in the county — 24 pupils to one teacher; is one of the few districts where "cluster grouping" is used; the only district in California to hold a boycott commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Supreme Court's desegregation order. On May 18, last year, 200 Negroes boycotted schools and attended a "freedom school."

"They said, if you desegregate, you will end up losing 250 to 300 kids. We started school with more pupils in Sausalito than we ended up with last June —not counting Mill Valley," said Hollis.

"Sure, we have problems. But even in the established systems such as San Rafael and Mill Valley you have problems. But every day we're trying to improve. The people have confidence. They have confidence we are making progress."

Drake Students Get Ready To Paint Town—For Santa

An army of 40 Sir Francis Drake High School students, armed with paint and brushes, will set out at 8:30 a.m. Saturday to paint Christmas decorations on the doors and windows of 22 downtown San Anselmo business houses.

The youths, all members of the Drake High School Art Club, have taken the project on through an agreement with the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce. The chamber will donate $100 to the school scholarship fund in return for the work of the young artists, said Joseph Rooney, art teacher at the high school.

The students have been preparing window designs after school for more than three weeks, said Rooney.

A free pass to the Tamalpais Theater will be given to each participating student, and the young artist whose window design is judged best of the group will have a painting framed free at the Patrick Bros. art supply store, Rooney said.

The students will be divided into five groups headed by Richard Miller, Suzanne Gottschalk, Philip Homer, Cynthia Dyer, and Trudy Owen.

Amateur Radio Club To Install

Marin Amateur Radio Club officers for 1966 will be installed at a dinner meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Deer Park Villa on Bolinas Road in Fairfax.

Fred Laubscher will replace Steve Cerwin as president, Stuart MacDonald will replace Paul Steinmetz as vice president, Gary Grant will replace James E. French as secretary, and Ernest Cavestri will remain treasurer.

The "Marin Ham of the Year" award will be presented to the member judged the greatest contributor to amateur radio during the year.

Heaviest-Yet Agenda Confronts County Planning Commissioners

The Marin County Planning Commission will be faced with one of the heaviest agendas in its history.

The meeting is to begin at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center. It could continue into the wee hours of Tuesday morning.

Included on the agenda are consideration of the West Marin master plan, amendments to the Marincello master plan, discussion of the alignment of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening, proposed rezoning on Grandview Avenue at Black Point, proposed deletion of the interim zoning ordinance, and 30 other probably less controversial items.

Consideration of the Dias Ranch master plan is also on the agenda, but planning commissioners have already agreed this should be postponed until Jan. 17.

Commission Chairman Felix M. Warburg said today that he is concerned about the agenda.

First item is further debate on the architectural supervision asked by Loyal Davis for a 12-unit apartment at 548 Miller Avenue near Mill Valley. This has been the topic of lengthy discussion the past. The commission has promised to act on the application Monday.

Number six on the agenda is the application of Philip Rosenberg for rezoning from manufacturing to residential, either single-family or apartment, on Grandview Avenue, west of Manzanita Avenue, at Black Point. Subdivision of the 10-acre site is proposed.

The West Marin master plan, along with a lengthy committee report, will be number eight on the agenda. Road locations and residential density have been at issue in the plan and could bring lengthy discussion.

Number 15 on the agenda is the move to reclassify interim areas in the county, putting them under the provisions of the detailed county zoning ordinance. This move has been strongly protested by residents of rural areas now in the "interim D" zone.

Number 17 on the agenda is the order by the board of supervisors to amend the Marincello master plan to make the Tennessee Valley portion conform with the Tennessee Valley master plan, thus deleting multiple housing in that part of Marincello, to explore covenants or deed restrictions as a means of assuring that the plan will be carried out as proposed, and to study access by way of Bunker Hill (Tunnel) Road or other possible routes in that vicinity.

Report from the County Department of Public Works on three plans for widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Laurel Grove Avenue and Ross town limits is number 19 on the agenda.

Generally, the three choices are, taking 40 feet on the east, taking 40 feet on the west, or taking 20 feet on either side of the existing right of way.

Siemens Appointed To New Committee

Dr. John C. Siemens of 10 Turnagain Road, Kentfield, administrator of Ross General Hospital, has been appointed to the newly established California Hospitals and Related Health Facilities and Services Planning Committee.

The 24-member committee authorized by the latest session of the state legislature, will assist with regional planning of community hospitals. Dr. Siemens is one of two non-governmental hospital administrators on the committee.

Shoplifting Reported

S. W. Schneider reported to Mill Valley police yesterday that during the day someone stole an electric screwdriver from his store, Varney's Hardware, at 57 Throckmorton, Mill Valley. It was the second shoplift there within a week, Schneider reporting that a $40 electric blender had been stolen last Saturday.

Marin Men Pledge

Two Marin County youths have pledged fraternities at University of Denver in Denver, Colo. Keith C. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Muirison K. Taylor of 30 Via Belardo, Greenbrae, pledged Pi Kappa Alpha. Bruce R. Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Crawford of 210 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley, pledged Phi Kappa Sigma.

Fine, Jail Given In Battery Case

A 10-day county jail sentence and $56 dollar fine were given Robert Lee Edney, 22, of 21 Park Road, Fairfax, in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for battery of a Santa Clara motorist. He had pleaded guilty.

He struck George C. Jennings in the face following a driving and horn-honking dispute in San Anselmo last Sept. 25. A second count, malicious property damage, had been dismissed with his other plea.

Minority Job Drive Opens In Marin

Marin County employers this week were asked to help find jobs for Negroes and members of other minority groups.

Questionnaires, accompanied by a letter from Peter H. Behr, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, were mailed by the employment task force committee of the county's Human Rights Commission.

"On-the-job training is an important way to improve employment opportunities," said Behr in the letter. He further explained that the state's Department of Industrial Relations has agreed to supply consultants from its apprenticeship standards division to help employers set up training programs.

Actual training costs, Behr said, may be repaid by federal funds.

"We understand that up to $520 per trainee is available for this project," he said.

The questionnaires are designed to show where openings might exist for "skilled or trainable Negroes or other minorities."

Information from the returns will be used by the committee to place Negroes and to help set up placement procedures and job training projects. Similar questionnaires were sent earlier to public agencies.

CARPENTER IN SPACE CAPSULE—This is Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who went from Navy test pilot into the space program, as he inserted himself through the hatch into the Aurora-7 space capsule on May 24, 1962, for his three-orbit space tour around the earth. Carpenter more recently became an explorer of the ocean depths in the Navy's Sealab 2. He'll be in Marin on Dec. 17 for appearances at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley on behalf of Christmas seals. (National Aeronautics and Space Administration photo from United Press International)

Maguire School Awaiting Astronaut-Aquanaut Visit

Malcolm Scott Carpenter, the only man ever to both orbit the earth in space and explore the depths of the sea, will be in Marin County on Dec. 17 on a tour in behalf of the sale of Christmas seals.

The Colorado-born astronaut will visit Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley for informal question and answer sessions with pupils from 9 to 11 a.m. Because the school's largest room will not accommodate the whole student body, there will be two one-hour sessions, each for half of the pupils. High school news bureau representatives will also be invited to attend, announced the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn., which is sponsoring Carpenter's appearance.

It is highly questionable whether Carpenter will be asked many questions about Christmas seals. The school children, doubtless, will want to talk about flights in space and descents into the ocean's depths.

Carpenter became the second American to circle the earth in a space vehicle when he made three orbits in the Aurora-7 capsule at 17,532 miles per hour on May 24, 1962. This was three months after John H. Glenn became America's first astronaut.

This year, Carpenter changed from astronaut to acquaraut to spend a record 30 days 205 feet below thes urface of the Pacific in the Sealab 2 mission.

But Christmas seals are important to Carpenter, who is the 1965 seal sale chairman of the National Tuberculosis Assn.

"My family is strong for Christmas seals," he says. "They helped my mother stage a comeback from tuberculosis. As a result of medical research and education financed by Christmas seals, she became an arrested case and was able to live a normal and happy life for years, although she finally died of the disease in 1962."

Edna Maguire School was selected for Carpenter's public appearance in Marin because it is the seventh-eighth grade school of Mill Valley School District, where the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. and county health department will conduct district-wide tuberculin testing in February.

Marin Citizens Score Well In National Test

A spot sampling of persons taking the recent National Citizenship Test showed scores of Marin County residents well above average. In fact, the national average of 63 per cent was topped by Marin's overall 83 per cent.

The sampling, done by the Marin Leagues of Women Voters, compared favorably with the nationally selected groups of congressmen and their wives, political party workers and high school honor students. The leagues collected data regarding the telecast of government, law and citizens' obligations and tabulated the following local results to compare with those given on the program.

Eight league telephone committees, made calls in Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Corte Madera, Larkspur, Kentfield, Ross, Terra Linda and Novato.

Of those called, 99 per cent were able to name at least one of their senators and 86 per cent could name both. Nationally, only 60 per cent could name one senator and 41 per cent could not name either one.

Marin voters were most knowledgeable on questions concerning citizenship rights, "you and your government," and voting. Most missed were questions on legal rights in the field of free speech and the obligation to answer census questions.

Another question which gave trouble was "help or call" in the case of an injured robbery victim. Many persons felt this could not be answered generally. One out of three felt they would prefer to offer assistance before telephoning police.

The series of questions requiring specific details while witnessing the commission of a crime scored lowest. Only 57 per cent of all questions needing accurate recall were answered correctly and only 38 per cent could identify the kind of car used in the getaway. In New York the scores were 72 and 17 per cent respectively.

Marin thinking on opinion questions followed closely that of the senators, high school students and political party workers. Nine out of 10 persons contacted preferred to make no change in the Fifth Amendment. A great majority felt there should be a change in the nomination of party candidates for president. Two out of five preferred state primaries; one out of two wanted a national primary; only one person in 20 felt the present system was best; one in 10 had no opinion.

Sausalito Kindergarten Has Key Role In Integration Try

By BRUCE COLEMAN
(Last of three articles)

"This is the age they have ants in their pants," said Mrs. Thelma Whittington.

Mrs. Whittington is lead kindergarten teacher at Sausalito School District's sole kindergarten school—Manzanita, in Marin City.

It was a rainy day and the pupils—Orientals, Negroes and Caucasians, completely homogenized on the floor — were squirming.

Peggy Jo Shaw, kindergarten teacher, was at the piano. The children leaped up to begin circle games where they had to choose partners, and Miss Shaw played a lively "Doing the Hokey Pokey."

Teachers and administrators believe that this, the kindergarten age, is the telling one and therefore the real hope of the district, which was completely integrated Sept. 13. They say at this age there is no discrimination, or practically none.

"Mr. (Ralph) Magnussen (principal of Manzanita and Bayside Schools) says we're the guiding light," said Mrs. Whittington. "There's nothing showing here. These children are not prejudiced. They don't discriminate unless it comes from the home. Just once "did I have any remark about color."

She said integration is thrown off a little bit due to the fact that all children from the Army forts must attend school in the morning.

I.Q.'s, she said, are high, medium and low in any nationality. Mrs. Whittington said there are six kindergarten classes, the largest containing 27 pupils.

"The future of the Sausalito district is strictly unpredictable in terms of specifics," according to Supt. Charles Lavaroni.

Lavaroni, new in his post following the resignation of Supt. Marcus F. Davis late in June, cancelled all appointments on the first day of rain this season to witness how pupils get along at schools during this more trying time.

Working toward the future, said Lavaroni, are the building study committee and an inter-district committee working with Mill Valley on inter-group relations.

The personable superintendent cites keen parent interest in the schools, with large numbers of people turning out for board meetings and large numbers of volunteers.

The board, he said, had the nerve to ask for a committee of 100 for the building study committee when there are fewer than 1,000 children in the district. Almost that many showed up.

Droves of people have turned out as volunteers, he added. There are now 92 volunteers helping in libraries, classrooms and playgrounds.

"Right here (Sausalito) is the beginning and the real climax of the anti-poverty program," declares Robert Rogers.

Rogers, who headed the Sausalito citizen committee which urged integration, says it "will, of necessity, bring parents of Sausalito and Marin City in closer into a united effort of understanding. This will be a side benefit of the total program." He also mentioned that whereas there were once three Parent-Teacher Associations, there is now one unified one.

Desegragation alone does not make Sausalito School District exceptional.

The district is the richest elementary school district in Marin County outside of one and two-schoolroom districts. Sausalito is $6,000 richer per child than the next richest district, Reed, which has $25,000 per pupil.

Yet the district is poor in that 98 per cent of its assessed valuation is from the City of Sausalito, whereas 49 per cent of the enrollment is from Marin City.

The district has more federal and state-aided special programs than any other district in the county, and is seeking still another, a six-year San Francisco State College teacher training program.

Federal and state aid programs include the pre-school program, the tutoring program for pupils from third grade through high school, the hot lunch program, and the National Defense Education Act elementary school guidance program. Sausalito also is believed to be only district in California where the county is partially supporting a capital outlay program for building.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, in an unusual move, became superintendent of the Sausalito district this summer while a replacement was sought for Davis who resigned.

European's Brilliant Lead Just Case Of Digging His Own Grave

There's something very heartwarming about seeing a man hard at work digging a pit, especially if he ends up by falling into it.

Kibitzers had this pleasure at the 1948 European Championships in the Sweden-Belgium match.

Opening lead — ♣ 8

The contract was six diamonds at both tables of the match. At the first table, the Swedish expert in the West position led the king of clubs, ruffed by South.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the king and ace, then led a heart to finesse with the jack.

SWEDEN WINS

West ruffed, and South still had to lose a heart trick.

Down one for Belgium, and a score of 100 points for Sweden.

At the second table, West opened the eight of clubs hoping that his partner would win the first trick with the jack.

If this daring maneuver worked, East would surely return a heart, and West would be the toast of the town for his brilliant opening lead.

NO TOAST

Instead of toast, West got egg — over his face.

East played the jack of clubs at the first trick, but South ruffed.

What's more, Dr. Einar Werner, who played the South hand for Sweden, worked out what was going on in clubs — and understood West's reason for the brilliant lead.

Werner therefore drew trumps with the king, queen and ace. Then he led the nine of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

When this held (it would not have helped East to play the ten), Werner continued with the other heart and finessed with the jack.

He gave up only one heart trick, making his slam and scoring 1370 points for Sweden.

"Your lead deserved a better fate," Dr. Werner magnanimously observed to West.

Even the bridge players are polite in Sweden!

European's Brilliant Lead Just Case Of Digging His Own Grave

There's something very heartwarming about seeing a man hard at work digging a pit, especially if he ends up by falling into it.

Kibitzers had this pleasure at the 1948 European Championships in the Sweden-Belgium match.

Opening lead — ♣ 8

The contract was six diamonds at both tables of the match. At the first table, the Swedish expert in the West position led the king of clubs, ruffed by South.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the king and ace, then led a heart to finesse with the jack.

SWEDEN WINS

West ruffed, and South still had to lose a heart trick.

Down one for Belgium, and a score of 100 points for Sweden.

At the second table, West opened the eight of clubs hoping that his partner would win the first trick with the jack.

If this daring maneuver worked, East would surely return a heart, and West would be the toast of the town for his brilliant opening lead.

NO TOAST

Instead of toast, West got egg — over his face.

East played the jack of clubs at the first trick, but South ruffed.

What's more, Dr. Einar Werner, who played the South hand for Sweden, worked out what was going on in clubs — and understood West's reason for the brilliant lead.

Werner therefore drew trumps with the king, queen and ace. Then he led the nine of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

When this held (it would not have helped East to play the ten), Werner continued with the other heart and finessed with the jack.

He gave up only one heart trick, making his slam and scoring 1370 points for Sweden.

"Your lead deserved a better fate," Dr. Werner magnanimously observed to West.

Even the bridge players are polite in Sweden!

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. This shows strong trump support with a singleton or void in a side suit, but not more than nine points in high cards.

The Most Up-To-Date Method Of Buying And Selling Real Estate

MULTIPLE LISTING

- IT GETS FASTER RESULTS!
- IT COSTS NO MORE!

Thousands of homes have been sold by Marin REALTORS through the efficiency of the Marin County Multiple Listing Service.

This modern cooperative system has conclusively proved to property owners its value as a sales asset.

Unlike the "old days" you do not have to shop around from office to office to list your house. Today you sign one agreement with one MARIN REALTOR, and your listing—with photograph and giving complete details—is broadcast from the Real Estate Board office to its entire membership. Automatically the property you wish to sell is called to the attention of a Sales Force of more than 994 realty experts. Any Marin REALTOR will multiple list your home. Whether he or a fellow REALTOR sells it, only one commission is paid.

Phone your nearest Marin REALTOR, ask him to put your name on Multiple Listing.

The Most Up-To-Date Method Of Buying And Selling Real Estate

MULTIPLE LISTING

- IT GETS FASTER RESULTS!
- IT COSTS NO MORE!

Thousands of homes have been sold by Marin REALTORS through the efficiency of the Marin County Multiple Listing Service.

This modern cooperative system has conclusively proved to property owners its value as a sales asset.

Unlike the "old days" you do not have to shop around from office to office to list your house. Today you sign one agreement with one MARIN REALTOR, and your listing—with photograph and giving complete details—is broadcast from the Real Estate Board office to its entire membership. Automatically the property you wish to sell is called to the attention of a Sales Force of more than 994 realty experts. Any Marin REALTOR will multiple list your home. Whether he or a fellow REALTOR sells it, only one commission is paid.

Phone your nearest Marin REALTOR, ask him to put your name on Multiple Listing.

FBI Chief's Probable Heir Gets Promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cartha D. De Loach, 45, an FBI agent since 1942, has been appointed assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The promotion, disclosed yesterday increased speculation that the 70 year old Hoover was grooming De Loach to possibly succeed him when he retires. Although the attorney general will name Hoover's replacement, the FBI chief's recommendation presumably would carry weight.

Little is known of the origin of Great Dane dogs.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Those Phone Calls Mighty Interesting

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —If watching or reading about television has any effect on viewers, it seems often to be of a personal sort: Perhaps because of the home setting, or the surface cameraderie implicit in sharing an instantaneous experience, via broadcasting, with millions of others.

For in addition to the mostly straightforward and sometimes crackpot notes—and other communications — received by this writer from viewers, there have been some that have been a bit unusual, though generally sincere and polite.

On last year's presidential election night, I was working at getting out my article, and the deadline was near. Suddenly the phone rang. It was late at night, and I assumed it was a personal call—but the long-distance operator said she was trying to reach the man who writes about television for UPI. Her party got on, and he was a very nice man calling from either Arizona or New Mexico—I forget which—and he was very upset because all three of the television stations in his town were carrying election results and nothing else.

"Can't you do something about this kind of stuff?" he asked. I told him the story was, after all, pretty important, but that similar complaints had been made from time to time, and that he had an interesting general point, and I would mention it, which I later did.

I then tried to end the conversation, but he kept talking, and I was growing somewhat desperate as the deadline neared. I finally politely cut him short and hung up when I couldn't do anything else. Apparently he immediately tried to place the call serveral more times because the operator rang, but I had to refuse the added talk.

Another time, a gentleman called and said he and his wife ran what I understood to be a sort of health resort, and asked please whether I could put him in contact with Hedy Lamarr so they could invite her to their place. They wouldn't charge her anything—any financial compensation later on would be entirely at her discretion, but it wasn't necessary. And also, by the way, if I heard of anyone else along those theatrical lines, they would make the same kind of agreement.

I told the gentleman, who also seemed a very sincere fellow, that his best procedure would be to call the Screen Actors Guild and get in touch with Miss Lamarr's representatives, but that I certainly couldn't do anything myself, and he said thank you very kindly, and I said you're welcome, and that was that. I don't know what happened, but he never did invite me free to his resort, although that was something that I definitely would have tried to work out.

Auto Industry Bows To Women

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Women drivers will outnumber the men on American highways within a few years—influencing auto makers to stress safety, dependability and ease of handling, say two business specialists.

"Women are more practical-minded about cars, drive less aggressively than men, and have an over-all better accident record," say Dr. Daniel D. Gage of Sacramento State College and Dr. Anne C. Garrison of Michigan State University.

Their report on the history and some future prospects of the auto industry was published by MSU's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Educators Ask More State Aid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Assn. of School Administrators has passed resolutions asking for more state financial aid and less federal controls.

The association ended a week-long meeting in San Francisco yesterday by electing Dr. Norman Scharer of Santa Barbara as its new president. Dr. Scharer has been school superintendent in Santa Barbara for the past 25 years. He succeeds Dr. Robert Jenkins of Pasadena.

The 269 superintendents also passed resolutions calling for per teacher—and for state and federal support for voluntary pre-school programs for youngsters.

FBI Chief's Probable Heir Gets Promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cartha D. De Loach, 45, an FBI agent since 1942, has been appointed assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The promotion, disclosed yesterday increased speculation that the 70 year old Hoover was grooming De Loach to possibly succeed him when he retires. Although the attorney general will name Hoover's replacement, the FBI chief's recommendation presumably would carry weight.

Little is known of the origin of Great Dane dogs.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Those Phone Calls Mighty Interesting

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —If watching or reading about television has any effect on viewers, it seems often to be of a personal sort: Perhaps because of the home setting, or the surface cameraderie implicit in sharing an instantaneous experience, via broadcasting, with millions of others.

For in addition to the mostly straightforward and sometimes crackpot notes—and other communications — received by this writer from viewers, there have been some that have been a bit unusual, though generally sincere and polite.

On last year's presidential election night, I was working at getting out my article, and the deadline was near. Suddenly the phone rang. It was late at night, and I assumed it was a personal call—but the long-distance operator said she was trying to reach the man who writes about television for UPI. Her party got on, and he was a very nice man calling from either Arizona or New Mexico—I forget which—and he was very upset because all three of the television stations in his town were carrying election results and nothing else.

"Can't you do something about this kind of stuff?" he asked. I told him the story was, after all, pretty important, but that similar complaints had been made from time to time, and that he had an interesting general point, and I would mention it, which I later did.

I then tried to end the conversation, but he kept talking, and I was growing somewhat desperate as the deadline neared. I finally politely cut him short and hung up when I couldn't do anything else. Apparently he immediately tried to place the call serveral more times because the operator rang, but I had to refuse the added talk.

Another time, a gentleman called and said he and his wife ran what I understood to be a sort of health resort, and asked please whether I could put him in contact with Hedy Lamarr so they could invite her to their place. They wouldn't charge her anything—any financial compensation later on would be entirely at her discretion, but it wasn't necessary. And also, by the way, if I heard of anyone else along those theatrical lines, they would make the same kind of agreement.

I told the gentleman, who also seemed a very sincere fellow, that his best procedure would be to call the Screen Actors Guild and get in touch with Miss Lamarr's representatives, but that I certainly couldn't do anything myself, and he said thank you very kindly, and I said you're welcome, and that was that. I don't know what happened, but he never did invite me free to his resort, although that was something that I definitely would have tried to work out.

Auto Industry Bows To Women

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Women drivers will outnumber the men on American highways within a few years—influencing auto makers to stress safety, dependability and ease of handling, say two business specialists.

"Women are more practical-minded about cars, drive less aggressively than men, and have an over-all better accident record," say Dr. Daniel D. Gage of Sacramento State College and Dr. Anne C. Garrison of Michigan State University.

Their report on the history and some future prospects of the auto industry was published by MSU's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Schweickert of the New York Jets hasn't caught a pass as a pro football player, but he helped the FBI catch an Army recruiting sergeant who allegedly solicited a $200 bribe from the player to help him beat the draft.

The recruiting sergeant, arrested yesterday, was identified by the FBI as Staff Sgt. Winfred Lewis, an 18-year veteran who won three battle stars in Korea and earned a purple heart as well because of a shrapnel wound in the leg.

John F. Malone, assistant director of the New York office of the FBI, said FBI agents arrested Lewis outside a recruiting station in the Jackson Heights section of Queens after Schweickert handed him the bribe.

The 22-year-old Schweickert, a former star Virginia Tech quarterback who signed for a reported $100,000 bonus and has been turned into a receiver, reported for his Army pre-induction physical about two weeks ago, according to the Jets.

The FBI said Lewis had solicited a sum of money from the player to see that his name would be placed at the top of the waiting list to join the National Guard, enabling Schweickert to serve six months of active duty instead of two years if he were drafted.

According to Sonny Weblin, the Jets' owner, Schweickert was told by the sergeant that the matter could "be properly taken care of — $200 would do the trick."

"Bob told us immediately about the matter," said Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank in San Diego where the team meets the Chargers in an American Football League game Saturday.

"He told us, 'I want to play football and fulfill my military obligation. But I certainly don't want to be part of anything illegal'."

The FBI statement said in part:

"Allegedly Lewis, when contacted by a draft-eligible member of the New York Jets football team, solicited a sum of money and in return, Lewis would see that this individual was put at the top of the list of those desiring to enter the National Guard. . . .

"This information was furnished to the FBI through the cooperation of the New York Jets management after they had been contacted by one of their players who had immediately reported this information."

Lewis, married and the father of one child, faces a maximum penalty, if convicted, of 15 years in prison and a $20,000 fine. He was arraigned before U.S. commissioner Max Schiffman and released in his own recognizance to await grand jury action.

Schweickert, one of college football's glamor boys in 1963 when he led Virginia Tech to the Southern Conference title, set school and conference records for rushing and total offense as a quarterback.

He as a fourth-round draft choice of the Jets, who wanted him primarily as a running back or a flanker despite the fact he was a quarterback in college.

He since has been working as a receiver but has spent most of his time on the taxi, or reserve, squad. Schweickert was activated on Oct. 29 but was returned to the inactive list Nov. 21.

Well-Read Dogmatic Critic Wonders: Who Muzzled Fouts?

Frankly, folks, I'm worried about Bob Fouts. During last Sunday's telecast of the San Francisco-Minnesota game the 49er announcer whistled for his Irish setter only three times. That is to say he used the term "red dog" only thrice, which is far below his usual performance. Why, that's like Wimpy cutting down to three burgers, Cassius Clay to three words, Bing Crosby to a simple boo-boo-boo and the Beatles to a minimum of yeah-yeah-yeah.

I tell ya', a muzzled Fouts has us fans worried. Has he grown tired of his crimson collie and scarlet schnauzer?

I NOTICED the 49er barker relying more and more on the word "blitz" to describe what all those red dogs have been doing for all these years. The pooches are old, but blitz is even older—I remember the World War II, when the red dogs were just pink pups.

Surely, Fouts can do better than blitz, a colorless word. I'd like to hear him stick to the canine kingdom with just a little more variation in shade and breed, wouldn't hue?

TRUE, RED is the 49er color, but so is gold. Why, then, when a 49er linebacker crashes the line, doesn't Fouts say, "Hazeltine is Golden Terrierizing Johnny Unitas!"

Of course, he could work from there, depending on the colors of the other teams. Wouldn't it be fun to hear Fouts describe a Viking linebacker "Purple Poodling quarterbark John Brodie"? And this, "The Packers are unleashing the Green Growlers on this play."

THE BLACK and white telecasts would be brought to you in living growler. Terms like Lavender Labradors, White Woofers, Chartreuse Chihuahuas, Blue Beagles, Gray Hounds, Brown Barkers, Old Yeller, Wine Weimaraners, Darkchunds and Darker Spaniels would be colorful additions to football's nomenclature.

I THINK I'd like that more than the blah blitz or cardinal canine Fouts has been using. Am I asking too much? Is my petty greed showing? Well, just call me the well-read dogmatic critic.

If you also would like to hear Fouts present a dog of a different color, sit right down and write him a long litter. I'm sure he'll give your suggestions every consideration. After all, Bob knows what side his brooder is bred on.

ANATOMY FOR A MERGER: The Chicago Cubs are getting pretty physical this winter. To start with, their roster already includes Marin's Johnny Boccabella whose surname translates from Italian into English as "beautiful mouth."

Then the Cubs went out and hired Leo "The Lip" Durocher.

And yesterday they obtained Bill Hands in a trade with San Francisco.

A second division for years, the Cubs, I am sure, will come up with de-feet next summer, the poor soles.

NOVATO HIGH's football championship team and cross-country runners will be honored at a banquet next Monday at the Hamilton Air Force Base Non-Commissioned Officers' Club and the first wise guy to say they're going to serve NCO pizza on this enchanted evening gets a pie in the face and 10 lashes with a wet noodle.

EX-COLLEGE OF MARIN cage standouts Herb Jotter and George Hall will return to our county Dec. 8-11 as coaches, respectively, of Napa and Lick-Wilmerding high schools. Jotter, by the way, was All-American in 1948 when he and Walt Moreno led the Tars to the National J.C. title.

Indians, USC Led Big 8 Grid Stats

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Southern California Trojans missed going to the Rose Bowl, but they dominate latest Pacific Eight grid statistics.

The Trojans, who piled up a 7-2-1 record, led in total offense, with 375 yards per game, rushing offense at 256, and rushing defense with 122.

Stanford had the best defense, nipping USC 236 to 238. Oregon passed for an average of 202 yards per game and Oregon State allowed 93 yards per contest passing.

With everybody finished with their regular season but Rose Bowl-bound UCLA, Trojans halfback Mike Garrett dominated individual statistics.

The Heisman Trophy winner rushed for 1,440 yards and scored 96 points. Bary Beban of the Bruins is tops in total offense with 1700 yards going into Saturday's game at Tennessee.

Washington State's Tom Roth had 98 completions. Steve Bunker of Oregon made 51 receptions, and Dave Lewis of Stanford had a 44.9 punting average to lead other departments.

PERHAPS the most impressive conference mark was its 27-10-4 mark in non-conference games. Oregon 4-5-1 was the only team below .500 in the Pacific Eight.

SEALS, BLADES MIX TONIGHT AT 'PALACE'

Los Angeles' Blades and San Francisco's Seals meet tonight, 8:15 o'clock, at the Cow Palace in a game that will have little effect on the Western Hockey League lead.

The Blades, in last place, dropped a 5-2 decision last night to the Seattle Totems. The Seals, in fourth place, had the night off after beating Vancouver 5-2.

Saturday night the two clubs meet again, In Los Angeles that time.

Tar Athletes Win Awards

Mike Kemp was named outstanding back and Pete Dornbach the top lineman last night at a banquet honoring the football and cross country teams at College of Marin.

Other football awards went to Kris Barnett, "Mr. Determination," and to Dan Abballo, the trainers award.

Mark Byers was given an award as outstanding runner on the Tars' cross country team and Carl Jensen was named most inspirational runner.

The banquet was held in the special exercise room at the gymnasium complex in Kentfield.

Cincinnati Willing To Trade Robinson

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati is trying to swap off its big gun, slugging outfielder Frank Robinson, for players the Reds think might help them win the 1966 National League pennant.

"This is the biggest news of the week at the baseball meetings, in my opinion," said Bobby Bragan, manager of the Atlanta Braves. "I didn't think the Reds would be willing to let Robinson go."

Bragan was involved in a major deal of his own that would give the Braves a relief pitcher they are seeking. The Braves and the Kansas City Athletics are near agreement on a deal that would send relief ace John Wyatt of Kansas City to Atlanta for outfielder Rico Carty.

Both the A's and the Braves decided at 1:30 a.m., EST, today "to sleep on the deal" before making a final decision.

Baltimore and Houston are the known clubs with which Cincinnati has tried to work out deals for Robinson, but both rejected proposals by the Reds.

Cincinnati wanted veteran pitcher Milt Pappas and a flashy rookie outfielder, Curt Blefary, from Baltimore, but the Orioles refused to give them up. Houston declined to send pitcher Larry Dierker and outfielder Jim Wynn to Cincinnati for the Reds' outfielder.

Robinson had a typical year in 1965 for the Reds, who finished fourth in the National League but were in the running until the final days. The 30-year-old veteran of All-Star games batted .296 and hit 33 home runs.

The slick-fielding slugger's best year was in 1962, when he batted .342, hit 39 home runs and drove in 136 runs.

Wynn, 23, hit .275 for Houston last season and had 22 home runs in his third season with the Astros. Dierker, one of the top young pitching prospects in the league, won seven games and lost eight but he fanned 109 in 147 innings.

Pappas posted a 13-9 pitching record for Baltimore, and Blefary, the A.L. Rookie of the Year, hit .260 and had 22 home runs.

McDaniel Is Newest Addition To Giants

COMBINED AP & UPI

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—You can't tell the players with a scorecard—especially if they are San Francisco Giants or have been.

The Giants sent three players packing off to other National League clubs the past two days and have gotten four in return. Last year's scorecard is beginning to become ancient history.

The latest swap sent rookies Bill Hands, a pitcher, and catcher Randy Hundley to the Chicago Cubs for relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel and outfielder Don Landrum.

This trade yesterday followed by 24 hours the deal that sent outfielder Matty Alou to the Pittsburgh Pirates for left-handed pitcher Joe Gibbon and veteran utility man Ossie Virgil.

The 29-year-old Landrum is expected to vie for Alou's job as backup outfielder. Landrum hit .226 last season in 131 games with six home runs. He's left-handed like Matty.

McDaniel, 29, was a right-handed starter for the St. Louis Cardinals before being traded to the Cubs after the 1962 season. He was 15-9 for the Cards in 1957 and 13-7 in relief for the Cubs in 1963 in his best years.

BILL HANDS
Goes to Cubs

Sharing the relief load with Ted Abernathy in 1965, McDaniel posted a 5-6 record in 71 appearances with a 2.58 earned-run average.

The 25-year-old Hands got two chances last year with the Giants and flopped in both. After compiling an 8-0 record and 0.50 ERA with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, the right-hander was called up on May 29. He went back June 14 with an 0-2 record and 12.50 ERA and ended the season with a 16.50 ERA after being called up after the PCL ended its season.

Hundley, a $90,000 bonus baby for the Giants five years ago, came up in late June after injuries cut down the Giants' catching corps.

Ten days after being called up from Tacoma, the 25-year-old Hundley went back with only one hit— a single— in 15 at-bats.

"I think we made a terrific deal," Manager Herman Franks of the Giants said. "McDaniel will team up with Frank Linzy and should give us the best right-handed bullpen in the league."

Leo Durocher, making his first trade after becoming manager of the Cubs in October, said Chicago needed a catcher "that can keep everybody from running on us." He said Hundley is a "good receiver and a real good thrower and that is what the Cubs needed."

The only other trade yesterday sent 32-year-old first baseman Norm Seibern from Baltimore to the California Angels for 22-year-old rookie outfielder Dick Simpson.

The American League was expected today to consider a bid from three groups for a franchise. The same groups—the Milwaukee Brewers, Milwaukee County and Dallas-Fort Worth — were turned down yesterday by the National League.

National League President Warren Giles met with the Milwaukee delegations for a couple of hours and then issued a terse statement:

"It is the considered judgment of the members of the league that none of the applicants would be able to operate a franchise in 1966 and that league expansion in 1966 is not feasible."

The American League reaction was expected to be the same.

However, Allan H. Selig, president of the Brewers, who were set up by a group of businessmen when the Braves moved to Atlanta, wasn't giving up hope. He pointed out that the National League statement was limited to the 1966 season and did not close the door to future possibilities.

Both leagues met separately in morning and afternoon sessions yesterday and were to convene again today.

The 29-year-old Landrum is expected to vie for Alou's job as backup outfielder. Landrum hit .226 last season in 131 games with six home runs. He's left-handed like Matty.

McDaniel, 29, was a right-handed starter for the St. Louis Cardinals before being traded to the Cubs after the 1962 season. He was 15-9 for the Cards in 1957 and 13-7 in relief for the Cubs in 1963 in his best years.

Sharing the relief load with Ted Abernathy in 1965, McDaniel posted a 5-6 record in 71 appearances with a 2.58 earned-run average.

The 25-year-old Hands got two chances last year with the Giants and flopped in both. After compiling an 8-0 record and 0.50 ERA with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, the right-hander was called up on May 29. He went back June 14 with an 0-2 record and 12.50 ERA and ended the season with a 16.50 ERA after being called up after the PCL ended its season.

Hundley, a $90,000 bonus baby for the Giants five years ago, came up in late June after injuries cut down the Giants' catching corps.

Ten days after being called up from Tacoma, the 25-year-old Hundley went back with only one hit— a single— in 15 at-bats.

"I think we made a terrific deal," Manager Herman Franks of the Giants said. "McDaniel will team up with Frank Linzy and should give us the best right-handed bullpen in the league."

Leo Durocher, making his first trade after becoming manager of the Cubs in October, said Chicago needed a catcher "that can keep everybody from running on us." He said Hundley is a "good receiver and a real good thrower and that is what the Cubs needed."

The only other trade yesterday sent 32-year-old first baseman Norm Seibern from Baltimore to the California Angels for 22-year-old rookie outfielder Dick Simpson.

The American League was expected today to consider a bid from three groups for a franchise. The same groups—the Milwaukee Brewers, Milwaukee County and Dallas-Fort Worth — were turned down yesterday by the National League.

National League President Warren Giles met with the Milwaukee delegations for a couple of hours and then issued a terse statement:

"It is the considered judgment of the members of the league that none of the applicants would be able to operate a franchise in 1966 and that league expansion in 1966 is not feasible."

The American League reaction was expected to be the same.

However, Allan H. Selig, president of the Brewers, who were set up by a group of businessmen when the Braves moved to Atlanta, wasn't giving up hope. He pointed out that the National League statement was limited to the 1966 season and did not close the door to future possibilities.

Both leagues met separately in morning and afternoon sessions yesterday and were to convene again today.

Rams Specialize In Bad Decisions

Back in the winter of 1956, the Los Angeles Rams were faced with a terrible decision. But that's the kind they make best—terrible decisions.

They had to make up their minds between drafting Jon Arnett or Jim Brown. It is to their credit they didn't hesitate. They chose Jon Arnett. This is known, in golf, as "missing them quick."

Because Jon Arnett was a considerable football player, this was not history's worse mistake. But it pushed whatever one was right down to the wire. It was a nose finish.

THE MIND tries to conjure a bigger one. You picture an urchin in Amsterdam in 1660 yelling up the stairs, "Hey, Max, that goofy Rembrandt is here, and he says if you don't buy his picture he's going to go back to house painting. What? OK, I'll tell him, Max, but if you ask me, the painting ain't all that bad."

Or, you get a vision of a landlady saying, "Listen, Leonardo, I said the rent in cash. You come around here with some picture of a dame with a silky smirk on her face. What am I supposed to do with it — paint moustaches on it?" Or, "Hey, Papa, that Beethoven's here again. He said this is the ninth symphony he wrote, and if you don't play this one he's going to have to hock his ear trumpet. What? No, Papa, you can't dance to it. In fact, you can't even play it unless you have a white tie and tails. OK Papa, I'll tell him to come back when he's got a waltz."

OR, "FULTON, for the last time, take that boat and get out of here. I'm putting my money into something safe for the future—like stagecoaches." Or, "I'm sorry, Gen. Grant, Mr. Lincoln is giving the job to one of his generals who doesn't drink."

The point is, anyone who had a chance to sign Jim Brown in 1956 (the price tag was a measly $15,000, which makes him the biggest bargain since the Louisiana Purchase) is like a guy who goes through life remembering the '90s and says, "Now what would I do with Beverly Hills, even saying I did pay $50,000 for it?"

THE RAMS are always quick to capitalize on their mistakes. They parlayed that one into several last place finishes in their division and they more than made up for their oversight to Brown by shipping his team, post-paid, a quarterback to give him all he needed to take over the game of football.

And the Rams are careful never to make the same mistake twice. They prefer to make different ones.

You will notice in the draft this week they didn't draft another USC halfback on the first round. They went for the big man this time. Unfortunately, this big man can never be counted on to duplicate feats of Jim Brown. As a tackle, the only time he can be presumed to get the ball is on a fumble. His own team's fumbles. It is hard to visualize him hanging up a thousand yards a season under that restrictive setup. In fact, the only guy in this year's first round draft with even a chance to be the next Jim Brown is the Illinois fullback, Jim Grabowski. The Rams didn't even send him a questionnaire.

BUT THE real shocker of the 1965 draft was the fact Michael Lockett Garrett, who might just be the best football player in America today (either that or he has been playing on shortmarked fields throughout his career), had to wait one complete NFL round before being picked up. Nine years too late, the Rams learned patience. Either that, or they learned collusion.

The real lunacy was the other league, though. M. L. Garrett had to wait TWENTY rounds to get tapped by that bunch. He barely beat the towel boys, ticket-sellers and guys who clean up the gum-wrappers after the game. USC retired Mike's jersey. The AFL tried to retire Mike period.

SURELY, THERE is the biggest con game going on since Samuel Insull. Either that or these guys in that league really WOULD have Beethoven playing for a barn dance, Rembrandt taking pictures with a box Brownie, or Leonardo da Vinci painting Campbell soup ads. I have a feeling 10 years and 9,000 yards from now Mike Garrett is going to join Jim Brown as just another example of Football's Folly — because I think this little steamboat really can run.

Garrett Valued At $30,000 Per Game

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — If Joe Namath is worth $400,000 to the New York Mets, then Mike Garrett should be worth twice that much to the Los Angeles Rams, says Mike's coach, John McKay.

"I realize such a figure is all out of reason," added the head football coach of the University of Southern California, "but this boy is an idol in Los Angeles—they love him out there.

"If he played for the Rams, he would draw 10,000 extra fans to every game. Multiply that by $3 and you've got him bringing in $30,000 additional every week."

McKay beamed proudly from the dais last night while his All-America halfback, Garrett, received the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player of the year.

Also on hand were Mike's mother; his step-father, William Sigur; Dr. Norman Topping, president of the University of Southern California; Athletic Director Jesse Hill, and a guest of honor, Tommy Harmon, winner of the Heisman Trophy 25 years ago.

McKay described Garrett as the greatest football player he ever saw.

"He was the best from Monday to Friday, as well as on Saturday," the coach added. "If I'd wanted to use him at guard, he would have been the best guard. If I'd made him a linebacker, he'd have been the best linebacker. If I had taught him to pass, he might have been my best quarterback."

Garrett spent a whirlwind day with news, radio and television men, parrying one question: What pro team is he going to play for next fall?

He said he had received no firm offer and that he would wait awhile before making up his mind. He insisted he was ready to grab the best offer.

Most observers believe he will go to the Los Angeles Rams, who chose him on the second round of the National Football League draft. But also interested are the Kansas City Chiefs of the American League, who waited until the 20th round to pick him; the Oakland Raiders of the AFL, and the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team.

Garrett said the Pirates had told him that they plan to compete with the pro gridders in the bidding but the Southern Cal star indicated they would have to come up with a good offer.

"I'd rather play football—I'm better at it," he said.

The Oakland Raiders are reported ready to buy the Garrett rights from Kansas City and are dangling $300,000.

BLASTOFFS AND KICKOFFS

Gridders, Astros To Share Television Tube Tomorrow

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are only a few college football games scheduled around the country this weekend but one of them, Penn State at Maryland, offers staggering possibilities to armchair quarterbacks.

Say Penn State's punter drops back to kick. There's the snap from center and the kick sails high and far. . .right into orbit with America's Gemini 7 astronauts.

Or, there's a handoff in the Maryland backfield. The runner hits the Penn State line and runs smack into. . .a space capsule.

There's a gimmick to all this fantasy, of course.

It just happens that television commitments for the Penn State- Maryland game coincide with this country's most ambitious space venture.

The National Broadcasting Company is solving the problem with a split screen and simultaneous national coverage of both the football game and the Gemini launch.

UCLA BOMBS

So, television viewers will be able to watch space rockets and passing pockets at the same time but for bombs, all the action will be at Memphis, Tenn., where UCLA's quarterback flash, sophomore Gary Beban, leads the fifth-ranked Uclans against Tennssee.

Both teams are bowlbound with UCLA taking on Michigan State in the Rose Bowl and Tennessee heading for a Bluebonnet Bowl date against Tulsa.

Beban led UCLA into the Pasadena classic with a couple of long touchdown passes that beat Southern California two weeks ago. He gained 1,206 yards on his 117 passes this season, an amazing average of 10.3 yards gained every time he threw a pass.

The stingy Volunteer defense, which has allowed an average of less than seven points per game, could put Beban to a stern test.

Tennessee is ranked seventh in the nation and its fleet secondary hasn't surrendered a bomb-type touchdown pass this season. Of the nine touchdown passes Beban has completed, eight have been on bombs between 34 and 89 yards.

Saturday's other games send Oklahoma against Oklahoma State and Morgan State against Florida A&M. The latter is the annual Orange Blossom Classic and will be played in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Giant Killer Beaten In Aussie Net

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Clark Graebner became the sole U.S. hope for the men's single title in the Victorian Tennis Championships today as he won his quarter-final match from the tournament's giant-killer, fellow American Herb FitzGibbon.

Graebner, of Beechwood, Ohio, disposed of FitzGibbon 10-8, 3-6, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 at the rain-soaked Kooyong grass courts. He joins Wimbledon champion Roy Emerson and Australian Davis Cuppers John Newcombe and Fred Stolle in the semifinals.

FitzGibbon, who is unseeded, had gained the quarter-final round by jolting top-seeded foreigner Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., in third round play Thursday.

Newcombe gained the semifinals with a 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 9-7 victory over Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., while Stolle ousted fellow countryman Bill Bowrey 6-8, 6-1, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3 today. Emerson previously had won his quarter-final match.

Graebner will meet Stolle and Emerson opposes Newcombe with the winners clashing in the finals Sunday.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Carol Graebner, Clark's wife, led the women's singles contenders into the semifinals. Miss Richey swept Judy Tegart of Australia 6-1, 6-2 while Mrs. Graebner beat Jan Lehane of Australia 6-4, 6-1.

In the other women's quarterfinals, Gail Sheriff turned back Lesley Turner 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and Margaret Smith downed Madonna Schacht 6-4, 8-6 in matches involving Australians.

S.F. Warriors Beat Oscar-less Royals

OAKLAND (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors took advantage of the absence of Oscar Robertson last night and whipped the Cincinnati Royals 125-119 in a National Basketball Assn. game at the Civic Auditorium.

Robertson, the Royals' top scorer and feeder, came down with a sudden attack of intestinal flu and watched the contest from the Cincinnati bench while dressed in street clothes.

Even without the Big O, Cincinnati made it interesting. The game was tied 16 times and the lead changed hands 22 times.

Nate Thurmond, who led the Warrior scorers with 24 points, started a 14-2 blitz 6½ minutes before the end with a field goal that put San Francisco ahead 105-103. In three minutes, the Warriors had built a 12-point lead.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati led the scorers with 31 points with teammates Jerry Lucas scoring 28 and Tom Hawkins 24.

Guy Rodgers scored 21 points for the Warriors and triggered the San Francisco fast break that eventually broke open the game. His accurate passes and acrobatic baskets had the fans on their feet in the fourth quarter.

Randy Matson In Basketball Debut

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M's Randy Matson, famed as the world's record holder in the shot put, entered a new college role as basketball player last night.

The 6-foot-6½, 244-pounder's debut was, to say the least, impressive. He scored 15 points for the Aggies in their 79-70 victory over Trinity University and was the leading rebounder, pulling down 18.

Matson, who hurled the 16-pound shot 70 feet 7 inches last spring, had to reduce from his track weight of about 260. He last played basketball as a senior in high school at the Texas Panhandle town of Pampa. That was in 1963.

Portland Hires Young Gen. Mgr.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League announced yesterday the signing of Jerry Krause, 27, as general manager of the Triple A baseball team.

Krause, a free lance writer, was publicity director and head scout for the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association until last June.

W. R. Moore, president of the Portland club, said Krause will be one of the youngest general managers in PCL history. He succeeds Dave Steele who resigned to enter business.

Bearded Angels In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trades by the California Angels baseball team to augment its youth movement with oldsters drew a bit of humor in Los Angeles newspapers Thursday.

Newly signed were pitcher Lew Burdette, 39; third baseman Frank Malzone, 35, and first baseman Norm Siebern, 32.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner carried pictures of the three — each sporting a carefully painted-on beard.

Giant Killer Beaten In Aussie Net

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Clark Graebner became the sole U.S. hope for the men's single title in the Victorian Tennis Championships today as he won his quarter-final match from the tournament's giant-killer, fellow American Herb FitzGibbon.

Graebner, of Beechwood, Ohio, disposed of FitzGibbon 10-8, 3-6, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 at the rain-soaked Kooyong grass courts. He joins Wimbledon champion Roy Emerson and Australian Davis Cuppers John Newcombe and Fred Stolle in the semifinals.

FitzGibbon, who is unseeded, had gained the quarter-final round by jolting top-seeded foreigner Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., in third round play Thursday.

Newcombe gained the semifinals with a 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 9-7 victory over Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., while Stolle ousted fellow countryman Bill Bowrey 6-8, 6-1, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3 today. Emerson previously had won his quarter-final match.

Graebner will meet Stolle and Emerson opposes Newcombe with the winners clashing in the finals Sunday.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Carol Graebner, Clark's wife, led the women's singles contenders into the semifinals. Miss Richey swept Judy Tegart of Australia 6-1, 6-2 while Mrs. Graebner beat Jan Lehane of Australia 6-4, 6-1.

In the other women's quarter-finals, Gail Sheriff turned back Lesley Turner 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and Margaret Smith downed Madonna Schacht 6-4, 8-6 in matches involving Australians.

S.F. Warriors Beat Oscar-less Royals

OAKLAND (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors took advantage of the absence of Oscar Robertson last night and whipped the Cincinnati Royals 125-119 in a National Basketball Assn. game at the Civic Auditorium.

Robertson, the Royals' top scorer and feeder, came down with a sudden attack of intestinal flu and watched the contest from the Cincinnati bench while dressed in street clothes.

Even without the Big O, Cincinnati made it interesting. The game was tied 16 times and the lead changed hands 22 times.

Nate Thurmond, who led the Warrior scorers with 24 points, started a 14-2 blitz 6½ minutes before the end with a field goal that put San Francisco ahead 105-103. In three minutes, the Warriors had built a 12-point lead.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati led the scorers with 31 points with teammates Jerry Lucas scoring 28 and Tom Hawkins 24.

Guy Rodgers scored 21 points for the Warriors and triggered the San Francisco fast break that eventually broke open the game. His accurate passes and acrobatic baskets had the fans on their feet in the fourth quarter.

Bearded Angels In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trades by the California Angels baseball team to augment its youth movement with oldsters drew a bit of humor in Los Angeles newspapers Thursday.

Newly signed were pitcher Lew Burdette, 39; third baseman Frank Malzone, 35, and first baseman Norm Siebern, 32.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner carried pictures of the three — each sporting a carefully painted-on beard.

BLASTOFFS AND KICKOFFS

Gridders, Astros To Share Television Tube Tomorrow

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are only a few college football games scheduled around the country this weekend but one of them, Penn State at Maryland, offers staggering possibilities to armchair quarterbacks.

Say Penn State's punter drops back to kick. There's the snap from center and the kick sails high and far. . .right into orbit with America's Gemini 7 astronauts.

Or, there's a handoff in the Maryland backfield. The runner hits the Penn State line and runs smack into. . .a space capsule.

There's a gimmick to all this fantasy, of course.

It just happens that television commitments for the Penn State- Maryland game coincide with this country's most ambitious space venture.

The National Broadcasting Company is solving the problem with a split screen and simultaneous national coverage of both the football game and the Gemini launch.

UCLA BOMBS

So, television viewers will be able to watch space rockets and passing pockets at the same time but for bombs, all the action will be at Memphis, Tenn., where UCLA's quarterback flash, sophomore Gary Beban, leads the fifth-ranked Uclans against Tennssee.

Both teams are bowlbound with UCLA taking on Michigan State in the Rose Bowl and Tennessee heading for a Bluebonnet Bowl date against Tulsa.

Beban led UCLA into the Pasadena classic with a couple of long touchdown passes that beat Southern California two weeks ago. He gained 1,206 yards on his 117 passes this season, an amazing average of 10.3 yards gained every time he threw a pass.

The stingy Volunteer defense, which has allowed an average of less than seven points per game, could put Beban to a stern test.

Tennessee is ranked seventh in the nation and its fleet secondary hasn't surrendered a bomb-type touchdown pass this season. Of the nine touchdown passes Beban has completed, eight have been on bombs between 34 and 89 yards.

Saturday's other games send Oklahoma against Oklahoma State and Morgan State against Florida A&M. The latter is the annual Orange Blossom Classic and will be played in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Earns His Numeral

Rick Edwards, former all-league halfback at Terra Linda High School, was awarded his numeral at Washington State after the freshman team, on which he played, completed its season with a 3-1 record.

Good Shooting In Waterfowl Areas

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Duck and goose hunting is in full swing on California's public waterfowl areas.

Nearly 6,500 hunters tried their luck on state and federal management areas last week. And their luck was pretty good, an average of close to two birds per hunter.

The 13 areas managed by the California Fish and Game Department offer the best, and in some cases the only, opportunity for the "unattached" hunter who doesn't belong to a club or have access to other private hunting areas.

The areas range from Honey Lake in the northeast to Imperial near the Mexican border. That doesn't count the Tule Lake and Lower Klamath refuges, which are managed solely by the federal government.

SEVERAL FUNCTIONS

The waterfowl management areas, like the northern refuges, serve several functions. They serve as feeding and resting areas, cut down raids on farmer's crops by providing food for ducks and geese, offer a sanctuary and also provide public hunting.

Last year 67,306 hunters used the management areas exclusive of Tule Lake and Lower Klamath. They bagged 121,800 birds, an average of 1.8 per hunter for the season.

The statistics this year point to another year of fairly good shooting. As the week opened, 35,959 hunters had bagged 66,442 ducks and geese for a 1.8 bird average so far this year.

The leading area was the state's Mendota Waterfowl Management Area, with an average bag of 2.3 birds. Right behind were the Sacramento National Wildlife Refuge at 2.2 and Imperial and Sutter areas with 2.0.

Daily shooter capacities on the areas ranges from 150 to 550, although one has no limit.

The daily fee for shooting is $3.50. Admission is by reservations, awarded on the basis of free public drawings, and on a first come, first served basis for openings not filled by people with reservations.

JUMP SHOOTING

The writer hunted Gray Lodge State Waterfowl Management Area earlier in the season. After a poor start, our two-man party finally limited out in the afternoon. Jump-shooting proved more profitable than shooting over decoys in a pond.

Gray Lodge, in Butte County, is something of a showpiece for the waterfowl management program.

It's 6,800 acres comprise one of the most intensively developed and managed waterfowl marshlands in the nation.

Sitting in the heart of one of the traditionally top duck areas of the Pacific Flyway, Gray Lodge plays host to up to 1.5 million waterfowl at the height of the birds' southward migration.

TRA AWARDS BANQUET

Watch Moccasin In '66 Kentucky Derby

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Moccasin, the first 2-year-old filly ever named American champion by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn., could in 1966 become the first of her sex to capture the Kentucky Derby since Regret in 1915.

Hailed as the horse of the year at the TRA convention banquet last night, Moccasin had won all eight of her starts as a freshman and next season takes a shot at the classics for 3 year olds.

Although not present at the award ceremony, Moccasin's owner A. B. (Bull) Hancock of Lexington, Ky., sent word that "If she trains up to expectations, watch her in the derby."

Buckpasser won the honors as best 2-year-old colt, another youngster expected to be heard from in the 1966 sophomore races.

Tom Rolfe, winner of the Preakness stakes and second in the Belmont, captured the award as top 3 year old colt of 1965.

What A Treat was the champion 3 year old filly, Roman Brother won honors among older colts, horses and geldings and Old Hat was tops in the older filly or mare category.

Only other 2 year old ever honored with the American champion was the colt Native Dancer in 1952 and he went on to become one of the turf's leading money winners.

Moccasin didn't get to the races until last Aug. 6, at Saratoga. In each of her first two starts she came home a galloping winner by eight lengths and in no race did any opponent finish within two lengths of her.

Lewis Lee Haggin II, who accepted the award for Hancock, declared: "She is a great, great horse . . . how great none of us know."

The year 1965 has been described as that featuring fillies and mares, so many believe that in 1966 if the trend continues, Moccasin must figure prominently in the picture for the triple crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Retired jockey Ralph Neves was honored as one of only eight jockeys ever to ride 3,000 winners. Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego, Calif., Union, won the Bill Corum award for the outstanding turf story, and M. H. VanBerg of Columbus, Nev., received a special award as the first owner ever to have 3,000 winners.

His 3,000th was scored in Toledo, Ohio, on Nov. 20 and on the day his award was presented one of his horses won at New Orleans for victory 3,007.

Now It's Official: Otis Is Novato Hornets' MVP

John Youngs was named most inspirational, Bob Saunders the best lineman, and Bill Sauber most improved.

In other awards, Doug Moore was named most valuable player on the Novato Class C basketball team, and Bob Smith was most valuable on the Novato cross country team.

Wiltfrid van Meer, the first foreign exchange student to receive a varsity letter at Novato High, was named most improved member of the school's cross country team.

Long List Of Catches, Catchers; Fair-Sized Bass At Inverness

STEVENS

It's very easy at times to give an honest report of fishing hither and yon, and still create the wrong impression. An outdoor writer is prone to mention the catches and catchers of limits or near limits, which is, of course, natural and logical; but if he were to list the names of anglers who caught but one, or none, he would need a full page of agate type to cover the subject.

I mention this for the reason that some days it "never rains but it pours." Like yesterday's column. I didn't have enough space to list the rather long list of catches and catchers. Then, a short time after I had mailed my columns, I received a phone call from Rodeo. A quartet of avid anglers had just returned to Rodeo from a trip near Buoy 8. The quartet, Ken Weaver, Bill Curtwright, and the brothers Tom and Joe Griffin unloaded four limits of bass ranging from about 18 to 26 pounds. All taken on Bull heads.

OTHER ANGLERS did exceedingly well on Saturday, the score was less on Sunday, good again on Monday and somewhat slower on Tuesday.

A trio from Alameda, Nish Yamamoto, Al Low and Frank Changhad took limits from the north side of Buoy 9 to over 30 pounds; Mr. and Mrs. Vince Bauer of Hayward came in with six bass from 10 to 26 pounds; Bob O'Connor boated a 21 and 22 pound striper on Bull Heads near Buoy 10, the party boat Sunfish, with 10 rods working, netted 19 bass to 28 pounds near Buoy 9. The Sturgeon returned to port at 3 p.m. with 5 limits to 25 pounds near Buoy 10.

The Dowrelio No. 5 out of Crockett came in with 10 bass to 25 pounds, all taken on Bull heads by Buoy 5, and Frank Joseph of Joseph's resort at Rodeo reported better than 50 per cent of skiff fishermen made the grade—and most fish were taken on sardines. Fillets, mainly.

SPEAKING OF sardine baits, practically all fish landed out of the Golden Hinde boatery at Inverness are being taken on sardines — chunks — not fillets. Talking to Bill Carlton of the Golden Hinde I learned that quite a few fair-sized bass have been taken this week, and quite a few hooked but lost. Bill mentioned one poor fellow who had four hookups and didn't land even one. I gather from reports that a large portion of the fish being hooked are carefully dehooked and eased over the side to grow longer and fatter.

If there are many silver salmon being caught in Papermill Creek, the word hasn't reached the Golden Hinde, but it is assumed that some have been taken.

AS FREQUENTLY happens, the striped bass activity has been centered on the Contra Costa side of the San Pablo Bay. Alice Quan of China Camp reported slow fishing Sunday and Monday, with the water being badly colored, and only flounders being caught by those who fish for flounders. The water was badly colored the first of the week, but it was clear, calm and agreeable on Wednesday.

THE BON TEMPE Reservoir in Marin County has received a plant of about 30,000 small trout in November. These fish should be of catchable size by next May.

Good Shooting In Waterfowl Areas

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Duck and goose hunting is in full swing on California's public waterfowl areas.

Nearly 6,500 hunters tried their luck on state and federal management areas last week. And their luck was pretty good, an average of close to two birds per hunter.

The 13 areas managed by the California Fish and Game Department offer the best, and in some cases the only, opportunity for the "unattached" hunter who doesn't belong to a club or have access to other private hunting areas.

The areas range from Honey Lake in the northeast to Imperial near the Mexican border. That doesn't count the Tule Lake and Lower Klamath refuges, which are managed solely by the federal government.

SEVERAL FUNCTIONS

The waterfowl management areas, like the northern refuges, serve several functions. They serve as feeding and resting areas, cut down raids on farmer's crops by providing food for ducks and geese, offer a sanctuary and also provide public hunting.

Last year 67,306 hunters used the management areas exclusive of Tule Lake and Lower Klamath. They bagged 121,800 birds, an average of 1.8 per hunter for the season.

The statistics this year point to another year of fairly good shooting. As the week opened, 35,959 hunters had bagged 66,442 ducks and geese for a 1.8 bird average so far this year.

The leading area was the state's Mendota Waterfowl Management Area, with an average bag of 2.3 birds. Right behind were the Sacramento National Wildlife Refuge at 2.2 and Imperial and Sutter areas with 2.0.

Daily shooter capacities on the areas ranges from 150 to 550, although one has no limit.

The daily fee for shooting is $3.50. Admission is by reservations, awarded on the basis of free public drawings, and on a first come, first served basis for openings not filled by people with reservations.

JUMP SHOOTING

The writer hunted Gray Lodge State Waterfowl Management Area earlier in the season. After a poor start, our two-man party finally limited out in the afternoon. Jump-shooting proved more profitable than shooting over decoys in a pond.

Gray Lodge, in Butte County, is something of a showpiece for the waterfowl management program.

It's 6,800 acres comprise one of the most intensively developed and managed waterfowl marshlands in the nation.

Sitting in the heart of one of the traditionally top duck areas of the Pacific Flyway, Gray Lodge plays host to up to 1.5 million waterfowl at the height of the birds' southward migration.

TRA AWARDS BANQUET

Watch Moccasin In '66 Kentucky Derby

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Moccasin, the first 2-year-old filly ever named American champion by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn., could in 1966 become the first of her sex to capture the Kentucky Derby since Regret in 1915.

Hailed as the horse of the year at the TRA convention banquet last night, Moccasin had won all eight of her starts as a freshman and next season takes a shot at the classics for 3 year olds.

Although not present at the award ceremony, Moccasin's owner A. B. (Bull) Hancock of Lexington, Ky., sent word that "If she trains up to expectations, watch her in the derby."

Buckpasser won the honors as best 2-year-old colt, another youngster expected to be heard from in the 1966 sophomore races.

Tom Rolfe, winner of the Preakness stakes and second in the Belmont, captured the award as top 3 year old colt of 1965.

What A Treat was the champion 3 year old filly, Roman Brother won honors among older colts, horses and geldings and Old Hat was tops in the older filly or mare category.

Only other 2 year old ever honored with the American champion was the colt Native Dancer in 1952 and he went on to become one of the turf's leading money winners.

Moccasin didn't get to the races until last Aug. 6, at Saratoga. In each of her first two starts she came home a galloping winner by eight lengths and in no race did any opponent finish within two lengths of her.

Lewis Lee Haggin II, who accepted the award for Hancock, declared: "She is a great, great horse . . . how great none of us know."

The year 1965 has been described as that featuring fillies and mares, so many believe that in 1966 if the trend continues, Moccasin must figure prominently in the picture for the triple crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Retired jockey Ralph Neves was honored as one of only eight jockeys ever to ride 3,000 winners. Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego, Calif., Union, won the Bill Corum award for the outstanding turf story, and M. H. VanBerg of Columbus, Nev., received a special award as the first owner ever to have 3,000 winners.

His 3,000th was scored in Toledo, Ohio, on Nov. 20 and on the day his award was presented one of his horses won at New Orleans for victory 3,007.

Long List Of Catches, Catchers; Fair-Sized Bass At Inverness

STEVENS

It's very easy at times to give an honest report of fishing hither and yon, and still create the wrong impression. An outdoor writer is prone to mention the catches and catchers of limits or near limits, which is, of course, natural and logical; but if he were to list the names of anglers who caught but one, or none, he would need a full page of agate type to cover the subject.

I mention this for the reason that some days it "never rains but it pours." Like yesterday's column. I didn't have enough space to list the rather long list of catches and catchers. Then, a short time after I had mailed my columns, I received a phone call from Rodeo. A quartet of avid anglers had just returned to Rodeo from a trip near Buoy 8. The quartet, Ken Weaver, Bill Curtwright, and the brothers Tom and Joe Griffin unloaded four limits of bass ranging from about 18 to 26 pounds. All taken on Bull heads.

OTHER ANGLERS did exceedingly well on Saturday, the score was less on Sunday, good again on Monday and somewhat slower on Tuesday.

A trio from Alameda, Nish Yamamoto, Al Low and Frank Changhad took limits from the north side of Buoy 9 to over 30 pounds; Mr. and Mrs. Vince Bauer of Hayward came in with six bass from 10 to 26 pounds; Bob O'Connor boated a 21 and 22 pound striper on Bull Heads near Buoy 10, the party boat Sunfish, with 10 rods working, netted 19 bass to 28 pounds near Buoy 9. The Sturgeon returned to port at 3 p.m. with 5 limits to 25 pounds near Buoy 10.

The Dowrelio No. 5 out of Crockett came in with 10 bass to 25 pounds, all taken on Bull heads by Buoy 5, and Frank Joseph of Joseph's resort at Rodeo reported better than 50 per cent of skiff fishermen made the grade—and most fish were taken on sardines. Fillets, mainly.

SPEAKING OF sardine baits, practically all fish landed out of the Golden Hinde boatery at Inverness are being taken on sardines — chunks — not fillets. Talking to Bill Carlton of the Golden Hinde I learned that quite a few fair-sized bass have been taken this week, and quite a few hooked but lost. Bill mentioned one poor fellow who had four hookups and didn't land even one. I gather from reports that a large portion of the fish being hooked are carefully dehooked and eased over the side to grow longer and fatter.

If there are many silver salmon being caught in Papermill Creek, the word hasn't reached the Golden Hinde, but it is assumed that some have been taken.

AS FREQUENTLY happens, the striped bass activity has been centered on the Contra Costa side of the San Pablo Bay. Alice Quan of China Camp reported slow fishing Sunday and Monday, with the water being badly colored, and only flounders being caught by those who fish for flounders. The water was badly colored the first of the week, but it was clear, calm and agreeable on Wednesday.

THE BON TEMPE Reservoir in Marin County has received a plant of about 30,000 small trout in November. These fish should be of catchable size by next May.

WORK STARTS ON NOVATO SHOPPING COMPLEX

Thomas J. Long (left), vice president of Longs Drug Stores, and Newman Melville, real estate manager for Arden-Mayfair Markets, were on hand at yesterday's ground breaking ceremonies for the Downtown Shopping Center at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, Novato—where their respective companies are to be major tenants. Gerald Hoytt, president of Hoytt Enterprises, the developer, turned the first shovelfull of earth. Supervisor William Gnoss is at right. A Union Oil service station and several specialty stores are also projected for the 22-acre site.

Prices Improve After Confused Market Day

NEW YORK (AP)—An irregular stock market closed with prices improving today. Trading was active.

It was another confused session with December cross currents obscuring the trend. Big Three motors advanced in response to record car sales in November. Several airlines were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

Some key stocks such as Kennecott and Eastman Kodak began moving ahead toward the close, helping the averages.

IBM, after weathering a loss of about 7, was showing a net gain.

General Dynamics, authorized to develop the F111 aircraft, recovered from a loss and moved well to the upside.

Cyprus Mines, a speculative feature, held a gain late in the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at about 8 million shares compared with 9.07 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Motors rallied while several leading airlines and aerospace issues were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

The auto stocks responded to record November car sales. General Motors and Chrysler advanced more than a point each, Ford nearly a point along with Studebaker.

Eastern Air Lines fell more than 2 despite an estimate of greatly increased profits this year. United slipped more than a point.

Boeing was off about 2, General Dynamics 1, Douglas Aircraft nearly a point. United Aircraft snapped back about 1½.

IBM plunged another 7 points at worst and then trimmed the loss to 2 points or so, still leaving the issue below 500.

Electric and Musical Industries looked like a repeat as the most active stock, easing slightly from yesterday's advance.

Cyprus Mines was a big speculative feature but halved a 5-point gain.

Johnson and Johnson rose nearly 3.

National Aviation dropped 3. Down more than a point were Motorola, Fairchild Camera and Armco Steel.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Building Pace Still Almost Up To 1964's

While new construction authorizations in Marin during October amounted to only $5,861,491, the total so far this year of $71,351,587 stayed within 8.9 per cent of the figure for the same period last year, Marin County Development Assn. reported today.

Permits for apartment houses this year continue to look weaker compared with those granted for other types of living units, says the report.

To the end of October, the number of multiple dwelling units was down 48.5 per cent or 534 units compared with 1,036 through that month a year ago.

Single-family homes showed a less marked decreases, with 1,566 permits this year compared with 1,865 for the first 10 months of 1964.

Novato and adjoining unincorporated areas had the highest residential and commercial permit total for October with $1,678,500.

This total includes permits for 68 living units at a total value of $1,429,350 and three commercial permits for construction valued at $226,500.

San Rafael came a close second with a permit total of $1,533,537, which included 25 residential units valued at $709,060 and 11 commercial permits valued at $338,595.

The picture regarding permits for commercial construction and alterations, repairs and public buildings compared favorably with last year by the end of October.

Commercial dropped by 5.7 per cent while permits for other purposes showed a 13.1 per cent increase.

The largest commercial permit of the month went to Tiburon and amounted to $500,000 for the Tiburon Inn, now in its early stages.

SAN FRANCISCO — Stauffer Chemical Co. plans a substantial expansion of its chlorine-caustic soda production capacity at Henderson, Nev.

The expansion—which will add about 25 per cent to current capacity—will begin at once and will be completed in the fourth quarter of next year.

Major reason for enlargement of the Henderson plant is the growing requirement for these chemicals in the western states, Stauffer said.

In addition to the Henderson plant, Stauffer has six producing facilities at Los Angeles, four at Richmond, and others at Long Beach, San Francisco, South Gate and estbend. The company's western research center is located at Richmond.

WORK STARTS ON NOVATO SHOPPING COMPLEX

Thomas J. Long (left), vice president of Longs Drug Stores, and Newman Melville, real estate manager for Arden-Mayfair Markets, were on hand at yesterday's ground breaking ceremonies for the Downtown Shopping Center at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, Novato—where their respective companies are to be major tenants. Gerald Hoytt, president of Hoytt Enterprises, the developer, turned the first shovelfull of earth. Supervisor William Gnoss is at right. A Union Oil service station and several specialty stores are also projected for the 22-acre site.

Prices Improve After Confused Market Day

NEW YORK (AP)—An irregular stock market closed with prices improving today. Trading was active.

It was another confused session with December cross currents obscuring the trend. Big Three motors advanced in response to record car sales in November. Several airlines were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

Some key stocks such as Kennecott and Eastman Kodak began moving ahead toward the close, helping the averages.

IBM, after weathering a loss of about 7, was showing a net gain.

General Dynamics, authorized to develop the F111 aircraft, recovered from a loss and moved well to the upside.

Cyprus Mines, a speculative feature, held a gain late in the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at about 8 million shares compared with 9.07 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Motors rallied while several leading airlines and aerospace issues were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

The auto stocks responded to record November car sales. General Motors and Chrysler advanced more than a point each, Ford nearly a point along with Studebaker.

Eastern Air Lines fell more than 2 despite an estimate of greatly increased profits this year. United slipped more than a point.

Boeing was off about 2, General Dynamics 1, Douglas Aircraft nearly a point. United Aircraft snapped back about 1½.

IBM plunged another 7 points at worst and then trimmed the loss to 2 points or so, still leaving the issue below 500.

Electric and Musical Industries looked like a repeat as the most active stock, easing slightly from yesterday's advance.

Cyprus Mines was a big speculative feature but halved a 5-point gain.

Johnson and Johnson rose nearly 3.

National Aviation dropped 3. Down more than a point were Motorola, Fairchild Camera and Armco Steel.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Foremost Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO—The board of directors of Foremost Dairies, Inc., has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents per share on the company's common stock payable Jan. 10 to stockholders of record Dec. 15. The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 56¼ cents per share on the 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock payable Jan. 3 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

Building Pace Still Almost Up To 1964's

While new construction authorizations in Marin during October amounted to only $5,861,491, the total so far this year of $71,351,587 stayed within 8.9 per cent of the figure for the same period last year. Marin County Development Assn. reported today.

Permits for apartment houses this year continue to look weaker compared with those granted for other types of living units, says the report.

To the end of October, the number of multiple dwelling units was down 48.5 per cent or 534 units compared with 1,036 through that month a year ago.

Single-family homes showed a less marked decreases, with 1,566 permits this year compared with 1,865 for the first 10 months of 1964.

Novato and adjoining unincorporated areas had the highest residential and commercial permit total for October with $1,678,500.

This total includes permits for 68 living units at a total value of $1,429,350 and three commercial permits for construction valued at $226,500.

San Rafael came a close second with a permit total of $1,533,537, which included 25 residential units valued at $709,060 and 11 commercial permits valued at $338,595.

The picture regarding permits for commercial construction and alterations, repairs and public buildings compared favorably with last year by the end of October.

Commercial dropped by 5.7 per cent while permits for other purposes showed a 13.1 per cent increase.

The largest commercial permit of the month went to Tiburon and amounted to $500,000 for the Tiburon Inn, now in its early stages.

Chemical Plant's Plans Revealed

SAN FRANCISCO — Stauffer Chemical Co. plans a substantial expansion of its chlorine-caustic soda production capacity at Henderson, Nev.

The expansion—which will add about 25 per cent to current capacity—will begin at once and will be completed in the fourth quarter of next year.

Major reason for enlargement of the Henderson plant is the growing requirement for these chemicals in the western states, Stauffer said.

In addition to the Henderson plant, Stauffer has six producing facilities at Los Angeles, four at Richmond, and others at Long Beach, San Francisco, South Gate and estbend. The company's western research center is located at Richmond.

Add Some Christmas Cheer To Postman's Life, Too

You think you're rushed during the holiday season!

Pity the poor postman and postal workers who are literally snowed under with millions of letters and packages during the last minute Christmas rush.

Last December, the San Rafael Post Office handled more than 16,600,000 pieces of mail, as compared with the average monthly load of less than 4,000,000.

This month, the volume will probably top last December's. Give them a hand by doing your share to spread out the work load over the entire month instead of letting everything pile up on Christmas Eve.

Here are a few timely tips from San Rafael Postmaster Warren Williams:

Mail out-of-county packages right away, no later than the 10th.

Make sure addresses and return addresses are clearly printed.

Zip codes often turn out to be lifesavers because even if the city and state are illegible, the zip code will direct mail to the correct post office. Clerks there, being more familiar with local residents, are often able to decipher the address.

Be sure packages are securely wrapped and tied. Stuff packages tightly so that nothing rattles inside.

All parcels should be addressed on ONLY ONE SIDE. The address should also be written somewhere on the inside of the package in case the exterior wrapping should unravel or tear.

It's a good idea to enclose a list of the contents.

The mail must get through and usually does each Christmas, despite the heavy odds created by a careless public. But some half million parcels are undelivered each year because of improper packaging or addressing.

Take some of the load off the postman's back by (1) mailing NOW, (2) wrapping and tying packages securely, and (3) addressing legibly and carefully.

Some of that goodwill that we are so eager to dispense to all men this time of year should be reserved for our hardpressed post office personnel.

ATOMIC SNOOPER WHISTLES AT GOLD

A new atomic device that whistles at gold has been developed to make the smuggler's lot anything but a happy one.

When the instrument, resembling a coffee urn, detects gold, it gives forth a high-pitched bird-like whistle, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

The effectiveness of the detector is enhanced by its convenience. It is battery-powered and portable.

Customs officials can also adjust the atomic "snooper" to detect silver and copper.

Discovering where evil exists is a necessary first step in overcoming it. But that is just a start towards ensuring that justice prevails.

You don't need an atomic device to combat unlawful procedures wherever you find them. The intelligence and moral force that God has entrusted to you can help you do that.

Pray that you may become more aware of ways to promote justice for all in public as well as private life.

"Turn from evil and do good, that you may abide forever." (Psalm 36:27)

Help me, O Lord, to use opportunities to see to it that right procedures are observed.

MARIN POLITICAL VIEWS

Our County Suddenly Produces A Candidate For Governorship

By WAT TAKESHITA

Takeshita

MARIN COUNTY HAS a rugged and varied terrain that makes it an exciting place in which to live.

And it's got rugged and interesting people to match.

Take Larkspur TV man Fred Ullner, for example. He backed Barry Goldwater to the hilt last year, then formed the 26 Million Club and the Republicans for Conservative Action, backed the Hell's Angels during the Oakland demonstrations, and took an official scolding from the state GOP leaders.

NOW COMES William Penn Patrick, 35, who says he's made a fortune in cosmetics and is now pouring a part of that into his unorthodox bid for the governorship.

From the standpoint of professional politicking, he's doing everything wrong.

In the first place, he just upped and announced, without bothering to sound out the local GOP bigwigs to ask for advice and backing. His announcement caught the Marin Republican Central Committee by surprise.

AND IN HIS first public appearance in the San Rafael courthouse, he ran roughshod over GOP State Chairman Gaylord Parkinson's so-called "11th Commandment," not to speak ill of other Republicans.

Patrick not only spoke ill of other Republicans; he called them names.

And to top it all off, he readily admitted he hadn't even registered as a voter in Marin County, although he's bought a home at 5 Audrey Court in Tiburon and has been living there with his wife and two children since June.

One thing he resents is being accused of running for publicity.

"Any time anyone does anything unusual, people always accuse you of wrong motives," he confided. "I don't like that. I don't need to do it for business. The business is doing quite well."

SO WELL, in fact, that he's willing to toss in $1,300,000 in his campaign to bring his views directly to the public, bypassing the official party organization whose support is considered essential in any statewide race.

He voted for John F. Kennedy, then switched to Barry Goldwater last year.

In his talk Monday night at the San Rafael courthouse, he castigated Ronald Reagan as a "parrot." Asked why he hadn't worked for the Republican Party or contributed to its cause in the past, his answer was simple: "You know, I've never been asked before."

PROMPTLY AFTER the talk, he was asked—by Chuck Michals, who is selling tickets to the Ronald Reagan dinner in San Rafael next Thursday night. Just as promptly, Patrick bought two tickets.

You figure that out.

Untrained and untried as a politician, Patrick probably won't get far in the race for governor. But you've got to admit that his candor is refreshing. And as long as he puts his money where his mouth is, you can't deny him the right to sound off. And he apparently means to do just that.

A COUPLE OF reminders: Tonight's the $100-per-plate Humphrey dinner at the Fairmont; Ronald Reagan's fund-raising speech is next Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at Dominic's in San Rafael.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Takes Issue With Redwood Park Stand

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As an American I would eagerly consider relocation or change of job or occupation if my fellow citizens wanted to preserve part of the nation's wild heritage for themselves and their children (and mine)!

"Short sighted" is much too tame a characterization of your editorial "Compromise Necessary on Redwood Park Plans." The American public has compromised long enough with the land users of the nation. Worst among these land users are the speculators in land value. And though it is truly unfortunate that the Point Reyes land values could not have been fixed early in its acquisition to avoid rampant speculation and the ensuing theft of public taxes by "private entrepreneurs," this particular failure should not preclude attempts under law to forestall a repeat of the situation on the North Coast of California.

Above all your editorial points up the need for control of land speculators and users by representative government, and an ignorance of enormous land misuses in this state by certain private segments of the economy. I should think, in Marin County "Going Going," this is a stubborn, perhaps deliberate, miscalculation of the public interest by any editor!

Want A Window To Look Out?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Nov. 23, the Marin County Board of Supervisors challenged a decision by Lt. Col. Robert H. Allen, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, on AESTHETICS. Have they considered the following points:

1. As defined by the American Society of Civil Engineers, a profession is the pursuit of a learned art in the spirit of publice service.

2. Our world renowned public work have been economically accomplished by engineers through the use of sealed bids, with the award to the lowest qualified bidder. The offered proposals must state, specifically, the work to be done. "Compatible with the natural environment," as demanded by the Board, is pure polit-talk. And a very nebulous specification.

3. There was a major violation of this practice a few years ago. McNamara turned down a low Boeing aircraft bid. and awarded the work to a Texas outfit. Congress called him on the carpet for it. A recent I-J news item inferred the results. They stink. . . .

4. AESTHETICS is a very recent demand of the profession. Given this prerogative, engineers won't let the public down. A local organization, Professional Engineers in California Government, sponsored and well attended a series of ten such seminars by the University of California last spring. Engineerwise, that word is difficult to define. . . .

To those homeowners who prompted this criticism of flood control practices, may I pose another question? What is best: Looking out one window and seeing a concrete lined ditch, or to find yourself in the position of those unfortunate Californians to the North and South, without a window to look out of at all?

Meter Maids Help Control Confusion

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recent articles pertaining to San Rafael's meters and their attendants, the meter-maids, makes one sit down and think. Actually, if more of this were done (thinking), San Rafael would be the number one shopping area of Marin instead of what it is becoming now. . . .

Let's face it, the downtown area is no longer drawing the greater Marin's customer traffic. People are avoiding the business area as much as possible. The only way that the city will survive is the shopping mall idea along with adequate underground parking or other facilities. Make San Rafael a first for tourists entering Marin and for the Marinites themselves by beautifying the area most used, the downtown businesses. The mall would be more appealing to shoppers. People use the shopping centers for their accessibility as well as adequate parking and guess what! No meters even to worry about. You can shop and stop at your leisure.

Of course, thinking in this direction would require landlords and tenants to re-model as much as possible. The courthouse property has to be used in this plan if it will succeed.

As for the meter-maids, for the time being, let's be glad that they are now there or certainly confusion would rule. . . .

The new mayor and his council are doing their best to keep the city above water and these petty gripes only tend to take their valuable time away from more important matters. . . .

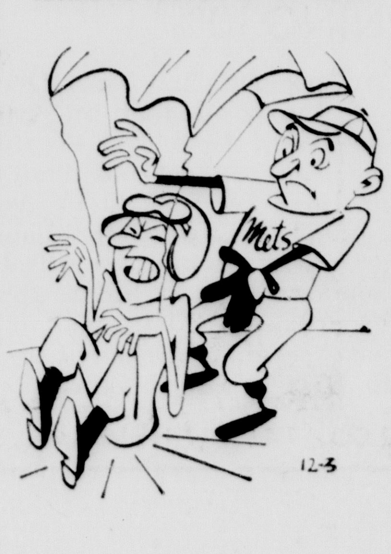
GENERAL JIMMY Doolittle tells about the parachutist who has a recurrent nightmare. In his dream every night he jumps out of his plane, pulls his ripcord, but his chute fails —and the man waiting on the ground to catch him turns out to be an outfielder on the New York Mets.

Incidentally, a Met regular identifies himself as the James Bond of baseball. His batting average for 1965 was .007.



AN EAGER-BEAVER in Harvard Business School has proposed a slogan for the Greyhound Corporation in the event that they extend their field of operations to the African belt inhabited by cannibal tribes: "Take the bus—and leave the driver to us."

"CONGRATULATIONS, my dear fellow," beamed an analyst to an old patient. "After seven long years, I have finally cured you of your delusions of grandeur." "Thank you for nothing," grumbled the patient. "Yesterday I was Julius Caesar. Today I'm nobody."

SIGNS OF the times:

In the window of a liquor shop: "A soft drink turneth away company."

Placard waved aloft at a boisterous student rally: "Demonstrate now; pay later."

America's Christmas Train Is A Chance To Help In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — It isn't enough to leave it to the opinion polls to show the freedom fighters in South Viet Nam that the American people are overwhelmingly behind them.

Actions speak louder than polls.

THE PROOF that the people of the United States strongly support the cause of peace-with-freedom in Viet Nam needs to be direct, tangible, and visible.

It needs to be something in which the whole nation can take part — with a show of generosity which goes beyond just a show of hands.

All three of these vital ingredients for a resplendent demonstration of American purpose and humanity—without marches, pickets, or speeches—are present in the superb initiative being taken jointly by the U. S. Jaycees, the Young Republican National Federation, and the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

You'll want to know about it because there is something you can do to show where you stand and to help make it a radiant success.

The U. S. Jaycees, the Young Democrats, and the Young Republicans—two million of them —have organized a massive, nationwide, state-by-state, city-by-city pick-up of 100 box cars of practical gifts to be shipped to Saigon on Christmas Day and to be delivered to the people of South Viet Nam in person by the U. S. soldiers in South Viet Nam.

THIS IS Project ACTT: America's Christmas Train and Trucks to be loaded, it is hoped, with $100 million of useful and critically needed presents from the homefront in the U. S. to the homefront in South Viet Nam.

The main train will leave Philadelphia in mid-December and make 10 stops en route to San Francisco. Feeder trains will roam every section of the country and, where trains do not stop, trucks will make the pick-ups. (Trains and trucks provided free by those industries.)

THE GIFTS MUST be selective to be practical. The most needed items are:

Tools to rebuild homes—hammers, saws, shovels, nails.

Personal hygiene — soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, laundry soaps, cleaning materials.

School supplies — pencils, crayons, tablets, rulers.

Sewing kits—needles, thread, thimbles, buttons.

Clothes—shorts, underpants, shirts, girls' slacks (all in children's sizes).

Foods—cubed sugar, sweetened condensed milk, hard candy.

Fabrics — mosquito netting, yardage (cotton).

Toys—only rubber or plastic unbreakable toys.

For further information, you have only to telephone the Jaycees, the Young Republicans, or the Young Democrats in your community.

The leaders of these three organizations are doing just the right thing at the right time for the right reasons. There is no doubt they are going to carry their project to success. They desire to be helped by everyone of us to succeed to overflowing.

THE SPECIAL value of America's Christmas Train and Trucks is that it is not merely a protest against something. It is an affirmation for something—for our determination to do whatever is necessary to succeed in Viet Nam.

This is the best kind of proof of our support for the brave people of South Viet Nam.

Poverty War Probe: What's Happened?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Remember that loudly-touted investigation of the strife-rent anti-poverty program launched by Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., stormy chairman of the Labor Committee?

Well—not a thing has happened on it, and apparently nothing is likely to until Congress reconvenes next month, if then!

Early last month the word went out that Powell and Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior Labor Committee member whom Powell hand-picked to head the investigating subcommittee, were about to get together to designate eight or ten cities in which public hearings would be held on anti-poverty trials and tribulations.

POWELL IS luxuriously vacationing in the Bahamas. His top assistant, "Chuck" Stone, shrugs and says he has tried several times to get Powell and Gibbons together, but they "haven't been able to fit it into their busy schedules." Gibbons talks vaguely about "getting underway pretty soon," but is silent on when that might be.

The four Republicans on the investigating subcommittee are totally in the dark. They have been told nothing and know nothing.

One of them, Representative Charles Goodell, N. Y., on his own initiative has accompanied staff investigators gathering information in several cities in preparation for possible eventual public hearings. But beyond that he has gotten nowhere.

Another Republican committeeman is privately expressing doubt that hearings will ever be held.

"I'm beginning to feel more and more that there never will be public hearings, and that this investigation will just peter out with a little-noticed staff report. It certainly seems to be shaping up that way."

There can be no doubt as to who is responsible for this mysterious inactivity.

It's Powell, chairman of the Labor Committee and real boss of the investigating subcommittee. He has an iron grip on the latter, and the $230,000 he wangled in the closing days of Congress for this then-stentoriously fanfared probe.

REPUBLICAN committeemen are indignantly talking of making an issue of this extraordinary situation when Congress reconvenes. But that's some six weeks off, and when the legislators do reassemble there will be other and possibly more pressing matters to the fore.

Meanwhile, the anti-poverty investigation is at a standstill —for some unexplained reason.

The 12 staff investigators are straining at the bits to get going.

"A big scandal involving the Neighborhood Youth Corps erupted in Boston recently," said one investigator. "It's exactly the sort of thing we should be looking into. But not one word has been said about doing that. Apparently, that affair is off limits."

JOB CORPS authorities are uneasily apprehensive of what the Christmas holidays may do to the $489 million trouble-racked program. They are afraid a large number of the trainees won't come back from their holiday leaves. Some estimate that one out of six may drop out. At that rate, more than 2,000 won't return. . . . A State Department study on the prospects of East-West trade holds that the outlook is not promising, because there is insufficient economic growth in the Soviet bloc. Says this backstage analysis, "During the new five-year period, 1966-70, the factors that have dictated a slowdown in Soviet economic growth are likely to persist. Agricultural production will continue to fluctuate greatly year to year because of weather, and in individual years growth in Gross National Product will reflect this erratic movement."

Snakes Ruin Recipe For Oldtime Cookies

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was very pleased to find a genuine recipe for gingerbread cookies in your Marin Magazine last Saturday (Nov. 27). It has been a rather difficult recipe to find and I have been looking for it for over a year. The only problem now is that I can't cut out the recipe because I'm afraid of those snake pictures you printed on the other side of the page!

Want A Window To Look Out?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Nov. 23, the Marin County Board of Supervisors challenged a decision by Lt. Col. Robert H. Allen, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, on AESTHETICS. Have they considered the following points:

1. As defined by the American Society of Civil Engineers, a profession is the pursuit of a learned art in the spirit of public service.

2. Our world renowned public work have been economically accomplished by engineers through the use of sealed bids, with the award to the lowest qualified bidder. The offered proposals must state, specifically, the work to be done. "Compatible with the natural environment," as demanded by the Board, is pure polit-talk. And a very nebulous specification.

3. There was a major violation of this practice a few years ago. McNamara turned down a low Boeing aircraft bid. and awarded the work to a Texas outfit. Congress called him on the carpet for it. A recent I-J news item inferred the results. They stink. . . .

4. AESTHETICS is a very recent demand of the profession. Given this prerogative, engineers won't let the public down. A local organization, Professional Engineers in California Government, sponsored and well attended a series of ten such seminars by the University of California last spring. Engineerwise, that word is difficult to define. . . .

To those homeowners who prompted this criticism of flood control practices, may I pose another question? What is best: Looking out one window and seeing a concrete lined ditch, or to find yourself in the position of those unfortunate Californians to the North and South, without a window to look out of at all?

Meter Maids Help Control Confusion

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recent articles pertaining to San Rafael's meters and their attendants, the meter-maids, makes one sit down and think. Actually, if more of this were done (thinking), San Rafael would be the number one shopping area of Marin instead of what it is becoming now. . . .

Let's face it, the downtown area is no longer drawing the greater Marin's customer traffic. People are avoiding the business area as much as possible. The only way that the city will survive is the shopping mall idea along with adequate underground parking or other facilities. Make San Rafael a first for tourists entering Marin and for the Marinites themselves by beautifying the area most used, the downtown businesses. The mall would be more appealing to shoppers. People use the shopping centers for their accessibility as well as adequate parking and guess what! No meters even to worry about. You can shop and stop at your leisure.

Of course, thinking in this direction would require landlords and tenants to re-model as much as possible. The courthouse property has to be used in this plan if it will succeed.

As for the meter-maids, for the time being, let's be glad that they are now there or certainly confusion would rule. . . .

The new mayor and his council are doing their best to keep the city above water and these petty gripes only tend to take their valuable time away from more important matters. . . .

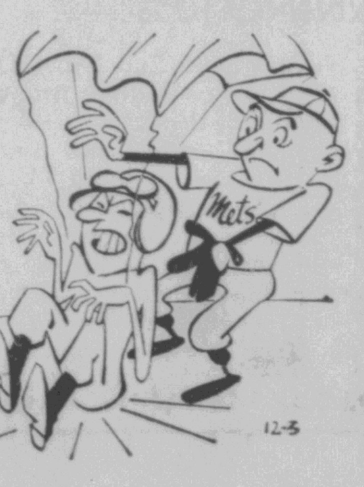
GENERAL JIMMY Doolittle tells about the parachutist who has a recurrent nightmare. In his dream every night he jumps out of his plane, pulls his ripcord, but his chute fails—and the man waiting on the ground to catch him turns out to be an outfielder on the New York Mets.

Incidentally, a Met regular identifies himself as the James Bond of baseball. His batting average for 1965 was .007.



AN EAGER-BEAVER in Harvard Business School has proposed a slogan for the Greyhound Corporation in the event that they extend their field of operations to the African belt inhabited by cannibal tribes: "Take the bus—and leave the driver to us."

"CONGRATULATIONS, my dear fellow," beamed an analyst to an old patient. "After seven long years, I have finally cured you of your delusions of grandeur." "Thank you for nothing," grumbled the patient. "Yesterday I was Julius Caesar. Today I'm nobody."

SIGNS OF the times:

In the window of a liquor shop: "A soft drink turneth away company."

Placard waved aloft at a boisterous student rally: "Demonstrate now; pay later."

America's Christmas Train Is A Chance To Help In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — It isn't enough to leave it to the opinion polls to show the freedom fighters in South Viet Nam that the American people are overwhelmingly behind them.

Actions speak louder than polls.

THE PROOF that the people of the United States strongly support the cause of peace-with-freedom in Viet Nam needs to be direct, tangible, and visible.

It needs to be something in which the whole nation can take part — with a show of generosity which goes beyond just a show of hands.

All three of these vital ingredients for a resplendent demonstration of American purpose and humanity—without marches, pickets, or speeches—are present in the superb initiative being taken jointly by the U. S. Jaycees, the Young Republican National Federation, and the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

You'll want to know about it because there is something you can do to show where you stand and to help make it a radiant success.

The U. S. Jaycees, the Young Democrats, and the Young Republicans—two million of them—have organized a massive, nationwide, state-by-state, city-by-city pick-up of 100 box cars of practical gifts to be shipped to Saigon on Christmas Day and to be delivered to the people of South Viet Nam in person by the U. S. soldiers in South Viet Nam.

THIS IS Project ACTT: America's Christmas Train and Trucks to be loaded, it is hoped, with $100 million of useful and critically needed presents from the homefront in the U. S. to the homefront in South Viet Nam.

The main train will leave Philadelphia in mid-December and make 10 stops en route to San Francisco. Feeder trains will roam every section of the country and, where trains do not stop, trucks will make the pick-ups. (Trains and trucks provided free by those industries.)

THE GIFTS MUST be selective to be practical. The most needed items are:

Tools to rebuild homes—hammers, saws, shovels, nails.

Personal hygiene — soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, laundry soaps, cleaning materials.

School supplies — pencils, crayons, tablets, rulers.

Sewing kits—needles, thread, thimbles, buttons.

Clothes—shorts, underpants, shirts, girls' slacks (all in children's sizes).

Foods—cubed sugar, sweetened condensed milk, hard candy.

Fabrics — mosquito netting, yardage (cotton).

Toys—only rubber or plastic unbreakable toys.

For further information, you have only to telephone the Jaycees, the Young Republicans, or the Young Democrats in your community.

The leaders of these three organizations are doing just the right thing at the right time for the right reasons. There is no doubt they are going to carry their project to success. They desire to be helped by everyone of us to succeed to overflowing.

THE SPECIAL value of America's Christmas Train and Trucks is that it is not merely a protest against something. It is an affirmation for something—for our determination to do whatever is necessary to succeed in Viet Nam.

This is the best kind of proof of our support for the brave people of South Viet Nam.

Poverty War Probe: What's Happened?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Remember that loudly-touted investigation of the strife-rent anti-poverty program launched by Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., stormy chairman of the Labor Committee?

Well—not a thing has happened on it, and apparently nothing is likely to until Congress reconvenes next month, if then!

Early last month the word went out that Powell and Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior Labor Committee member whom Powell hand-picked to head the investigating subcommittee, were about to get together to designate eight or ten cities in which public hearings would be held on anti-poverty trials and tribulations.

POWELL IS luxuriously vacationing in the Bahamas. His top assistant, "Chuck" Stone, shrugs and says he has tried several times to get Powell and Gibbons together, but they "haven't been able to fit it into their busy schedules." Gibbons talks vaguely about "getting underway pretty soon," but is silent on when that might be.

The four Republicans on the investigating subcommittee are totally in the dark. They have been told nothing and know nothing.

One of them, Representative Charles Goodell, N. Y., on his own initiative has accompanied staff investigators gathering information in several cities in preparation for possible eventual public hearings. But beyond that he has gotten nowhere.

Another Republican committeeman is privately expressing doubt that hearings will ever be held.

"I'm beginning to feel more and more that there never will be public hearings, and that this investigation will just peter out with a little-noticed staff report. It certainly seems to be shaping up that way."

There can be no doubt as to who is responsible for this mysterious inactivity.

It's Powell, chairman of the Labor Committee and real boss of the investigating subcommittee. He has an iron grip on the latter, and the $230,000 he wangled in the closing days of Congress for this then-stentoriously fanfared probe.

REPUBLICAN committeemen are indignantly talking of making an issue of this extraordinary situation when Congress reconvenes. But that's some six weeks off, and when the legislators do reassemble there will be other and possibly more pressing matters to the fore.

Meanwhile, the anti-poverty investigation is at a standstill—for some unexplained reason.

The 12 staff investigators are straining at the bits to get going.

"A big scandal involving the Neighborhood Youth Corps erupted in Boston recently," said one investigator. "It's exactly the sort of thing we should be looking into. But not one word has been said about doing that. Apparently, that affair is off limits."

JOB CORPS authorities are uneasily apprehensive of what the Christmas holidays may do to the $489 million trouble-racked program. They are afraid a large number of the trainees won't come back from their holiday leaves. Some estimate that one out of six may drop out. At that rate, more than 2,000 won't return. . . . A State Department study on the prospects of East-West trade holds that the outlook is not promising, because there is insufficient economic growth in the Soviet bloc. Says this backstage analysis, "During the new five-year period, 1966-70, the factors that have dictated a slowdown in Soviet economic growth are likely to persist. Agricultural production will continue to fluctuate greatly year to year because of weather, and in individual years growth in Gross National Product will reflect this erratic movement."

Impending Winter Holds Few Terrors On A Sausalito Boat

Jimmie Hansen, 67, who lives on a Monterey fishing boat in Sausalito's Shelter Cove, says the only winterizing he does on his boat is "to put a tarpaulin over it."

Hansen will not spend Christmas aboard. "I'm going to Petaluma to be with relatives," said he.

He has lived in Sausalito on and off since 1906 but says if you really want to know about old Sausalito you have to see "Whistle" Terris.

Since the Seven Seas is Hansen's "dispatcher station" and he is a boardwalk pigeon feeder, we asked him about war and love. On Viet Nam, he said, "I don't know. The Commander-in-chief is running that. I'm not." On love, he had no comment.

At Bolinas, Jim Dougan and all the little Dougans and big Dougans, met on Thanksgiving for dinner and as usual, rented the community center. "We had 53 people," said Jim. "We had turkey, I don't know how many pounds."

Sausalito police Lt. Ted Zink and two colleagues took in the underground films at the Gate Theater last week but, according to Ted, he "missed the message."

There's a woman who pins messages on her shirt to remember things in Mill Valley. She is Mrs. Charles (Carl) Cole of the Locust District's Launder-It. The day we read her message, it said: "Carl's Ins." That means, she explained, it's time to pay her husband's insurance.

Mrs. Ann reads character and advises in Tamalpais Valley near the junction.

A GENTLE WOMAN with blue eyes and black hair reaching to her waist, she said she has been reading horoscopes since age 12 and that he mother and grandmother did the same thing but not for money. She is of French and East Indian parentage and, when speaking to her husband, Jim, a hydraulic equipment operator, talks in Urdu.

Asked what she advises on, she said on whether one should enter into a business transaction, on lucky days and lucky numbers and how to choose the right mate. "I give advice on any problem," she said. She said she also has psychic powers and that all this is really a gift.

Asked how character is holding up through the years of character reading, Mrs. Ann replied, "It is in lots of ways better and in lots of ways getting weaker." Asked if her type of business is remunerative, she answered, "Well, it is a living."

As we watched a workman putting finishing touches on a gold zodiac sign in the front window of Mrs. Ann's shop, we advised her that we are Aries, sign of the Ram.

"I am a Gemini," she replied, "the sign of the Twins."

COUNTY COMMENT

New Thinking On Courthouse Square Bemuses One Onlooker

FUSSELMAN

"IT WONDERS ME." A few years ago a very delightful musical, "Plain and Fancy," played for some time in the City. It was woven around the Amish country and its young people. Many of you may remember it and the amusing song the girl sang to her dad, as they jogged along in their Amish type buggy . . . "It Wonders Me."

I HAVE just been reading some clippings, of Nov. 16 and 24, about the disposal of the Court House site.

The one on Nov. 24 had this:

"Marin County supervisors are prepared to make a 'substantial investment' in the future of down town San Rafael by settling for less than the highest possible price on the court house square . . . " They had learned the week before that the plan prepared for the plan for the City or San Rafael called for building on only 30 per cent of the land and that as a result "the county might realize only $800,000 from the site" instead of the $1.4 million which had been assured the voters during the bond election for the Hall of Justice.

The article quoted the supervisor from the first district as saying that the decision hinged on two questions . . . "How much open space is needed to preserve a park-like atmosphere in the square? . . . the key area in rejuvenation of the city's down town area . . . Then "how much of the needed $1.4 million are the supervisors willing to raise through other means?"

He was quoted further as saying he favored the county making "a substantial investment." My successor on the board "agreed" saying the amount of this investment would amount to the "price of public benefit involved."

NOW, THIS sort of "wonders me." It would seem that whatever private enterprise that would occupy the 30 per cent planned to be built upon would receive the primary and undoubtedly the greatest benefit from the park-like area planned for the remaining 70 per cent. So, this thought occurs: Is it contemplated that an individual or organization who will purchase the property for $800,000, instead of the $1.4 million promised, would in turn lease the buildings, to be constructed there, to other concerns as a profit?

I wonder if there is any idea who might be interested in the purchase. It is my understanding that surplus property must be offered for open bidding. Well, who owns the crystal ball which tells what the bid price will be?

There should be considerable more information furnished as to just what the procedure will be. What is evidentally being contemplated can become quite involved.

Is the thought that the city will be the purchaser? . . . with what funds? Can this be done without a vote of the people? If the city is not to be purchaser, (and I have never thought this was the plan) then what?

I commented last week on the suggestion, which had been made, that the retirement fund money be used. This would be costly to the taxpayers unless private enterprise would produce the amortization money through rentals paid.

Such an arrangement would put the fund in the position of being both purchaser and landlord. It follows then that at $800,000 there would be less borrowed from the fund. But, in any event, the taxpayers would have to reach into some pocket to raise the difference between $800,000 and $1.4 million required toward the construction of the Hall of Justice.

PERHAPS these things may "wonder" you, too.

If Che Guevara Reappears, Can Veep Humphrey Be Far Behind?

WASHINGTON — The two diplomatic mysteries that have Washington puzzled these days are: What happened to Che Guevara, Castro's right-hand man, and also what happened to Hubert Humphrey, vice president of the United States?

IT HAS BEEN rumored that Che Guevara has left the country and is now somewhere in Chile or Argentina. It has also been rumored that Hubert Humphrey has not been allowed to leave the country and is either hiding out in Washington or Minnesota.

Inquiries as to Mr. Humphrey's whereabouts have been made at the White House, but have run into a stone wall.

First, a spokesman denied he had ever heard of Humphrey. But when reporters showed him a photograph of the president and Mr. Humphrey taken together, he immediately recognized him. "Oh, that Mr. Humphrey. The last we heard of him he was on his way to the World Series in Minneapolis."

"Haven't there been any efforts on the part of the administration to find him?"

"NOT REALLY. Vice presidents of the United States have a tendency to disappear for months on end. But they always pop up somewhere.

"When Mr. Johnson first took office in 1965, he said he was going to make use of Mr. Humphrey's talents and send him abroad to discuss problems with heads of state. Is it possible that he could be abroad on a secret mission?"

The spokesman picked up a schedule. "Let's see now. Mike Mansfield is in Russia, Dean Rusk is in Rio, Bobby Kennedy is in Venezuela, Robert McNamara is in Viet Nam. Nope, his name isn't down here. He must still be in the United States somewhere."

"Wouldn't the FBI know where he was?"

"The FBI has enough to do without keeping track of every vice president of the United States."

"WE CAN'T KEEP tabs on everybody in the administration," the spokesman retorted. "As far as we know, Mr. Humphrey is safe and sound and, unless he gets in touch with us, there is no reason for us to get in touch with him."

"There has been some talk that Mr. Humphrey went into hiding after endorsing Abe Beame for mayor of New York. Is there any truth to this?"

"The president never holds grudges and I'm sure he has forgiven Mr. Humphrey by now. We have no reason to believe the vice president is hiding out because of his Beame endorsement. I think you're making a mystery out of something that will easily be explained as soon as Mr. Humphrey shows up."

"THEN YOU THINK he will eventually show up?"

"I'm quite sure of it. This isn't the first time that he's disappeared."

"Has the president expressed any concern over Mr. Humphrey's absence?"

"None that I know of. You must remember that Mr. Johnson was a vice president himself once and he knows how easily any vice president can get lost. I wouldn't be surprised if Mr. Humphrey turned up at the LBJ Ranch one of these days, just as if nothing had happened."

"Does the administration know where Che Guevara is?"

"Of course we do. You don't think we'd let him disappear on us, do you?"

Three Bay Area Law Firms Have Last Word On Bonds

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

Three Bay Area law firms have a life and death say over a huge portion of public construction in Marin County, ranging from the building of a school to the laying of a sewer pipe to construction of the Civic Center.

The firms are bond counsels, and all construction which is financed by bonds, either general obligation bonds such as for schools or the civic center, revenue bonds or assessment district bonds, must have approval of one of the firms.

If there is no such approval, there simply is no sale of the bonds. David Hartley of the investment firm of Stone and Youngberg, San Francisco, said today his firm, and others in the area, would not agree to try to sell the bonds in the national market without their certification by the bond counsel.

Wednesday the San Francisco Board of Supervisors raised questions about the functions of these firms, after learning that getting certification on $115 million worth of water bonds would cost $28,750 in fees.

Approval for the sale of the recent Marin County Civic Center annex bonds cost Marin County $5,800 to the same firm—Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe, of San Francisco.

This firm specializes in general obligation or revenue bonds, which must be approved by a vote of the people.

The other two firms, Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass and Anderson of Oakland, and Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton of San Mateo, specialize in assessment district bonds, although they also handle some general obligation bonds.

In the case of assessment districts, the fee charged is much higher, usually three per cent of the construction cost. But the work done is greater.

On assessment districts, the attorneys not only certify everything is legal, but also draw up all the documents and guide the district from before a petition is started until the construction is complete.

Business is steered to these firms mainly because of their reputation as experts in the field. The reputation is gained over decades, and it would be difficult for any new attorney to break in.

Work on assessment districts involves, generally, much less money than with bigger bond issues which go before the public for a vote.

The work involves checking each piece of property to be assessed, checking the plans for the work, checking the surety bonds of the contractor and subcontractors, following the work, and preparing all the documents.

In case of a legal flaw, the law firm might be liable for for several million dollars in misspent money, so each of the firms is heavily insured, although none has had to pay off in recent years.

Assessment districts are usually formed by property owners to install such things as streets or sewers, or by a developer to install all utilities in new subdivisions.

General obligation bonds require much less work by the private attorney, because the regular attorney for the city, county or district prepares most of the documents. In Marin the county counsel prepared documents for school bond issues.

What the bond counsel must do in these cases is certify there was nothing wrong, legally, with the bond election. Checks are made of resolutions calling the election, poll officials, documents, and the actual vote tally.

According to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, the purchasers of the bonds probably would not buy school bonds from Marin without the approval of Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe.

If someone did buy the bonds, he added, the interest rate would probably be much higher than usual, because, presumably, of a greater risk.

The fees on the large bond issues are not fixed, but are on a sliding scale depending on the amount. Work on a recent $210,000 sale of Kentfield School District bonds, was done for $210, while the same firm charged $250 for a $500,000 San Rafael High School District bond sale.

Generally it is not possible for the seller to determine what large banks and investors will bid on bonds, except by the size of the issue which must be bought.

But. according to Eugene K. Sturgis, senior partner in his firm and a man who has written books about bond law, interference by the persons hiring the attorney is an almost sure way of scaring away some investors, and jacking up the interest of the bonds.

Jobless Rate Low Last Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's jobless rate flel in November to an eight-year low of 4.2 per cent, the Labor Department said yesterday. Total employment was at a record November level of 72.8 million.

The actual number of unemployed at 2,966,000 was up about 200,000 from October, but it usually rises some 300,000 in November and the Bureau of Labor Statistics adjusts the jobless rate on a seasonal basis.

Without the seasonal adjustment, the unemployment rate was even lower—3.9 per cent of the total civilian labor force of 75,803,000.

White Is Convicted By Alabama Jury Of Negro Slaying

First In Modern Southern History; Will Appeal 10-Year Prison Term

COMBINED AP & UPI

ANNISTON, Ala.—Hubert Damon Strange, the first white man in modern southern history to be convicted of murder in a racial slaying, was formally sentenced today to 10 years in prison.

Strange, 25, stood motionless as Circuit Court Judge Robert Parker imposed the 10 year sentence handed down yesterday by an all-white jury.

HUBERT DAMON STRANGE
Caught by surprise

The jury found Strange guilty of second degree murder in the nightrider slaying last July of Willie Brewster, a Negro. Two other white men, Lewis Blevins, 26, and Johnny Ira Defries, 25, are to be tried later.

A $10,000 appeals bond was set by Parker and Strange had 30 days in which to file for an appeal.

Strange was escorted to the Calhoun County jail by Sheriff Roy Snead. The prisoner was not in handcuffs.

The jury returned its verdict yesterday afternoon after more than 10 hours of actual deliberation. Twenty ballots were taken by the panel which received the case Wednesday afternoon.

ATTORNEY WEEPS

The verdict caught Strange, his attorney, and Negro civil rights leaders by surprise.

Strange was speechless, a look of dismay and disbelief on his face. His lawyer, J.B. Stoner, wept and denounced the [illegible] "whi[illegible]

Civil rights leaders, certain Strange would be acquitted, had printed protest leaflets for distribution and planned a demonstration for Saturday.

MILD OBJECTION

There was mild objection by a few Negroes to Strange's conviction for second degree murder instead of first degree murder as asked by the state. But Brewster's widow said she wasn't "too disappointed" with the verdict.

There have been at least two manslaughter convictions of whites in modern Southern history for the slaying of Negroes in cases linked to recent racial tension.

Johnnie Mae Chappel, 35, Negro, was shot and killed in Jacksonville, Fla., during racial demonstrations on March 23, 1963. J.W. Rich, 22, a white man, was sentenced to 10 years for manslaughter.

Virgil Ware, 13, a Negro, was shot to death Sept. 15, 1963, in the aftermath of a Negro church bombing which killed four girls in Birmingham, Ala. Two white youths were convicted of second-degree manslaughter and released on probation.

San Rafael Meter Worker Nabbed With Coin Hoard

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

As city employee Charles R. Herren walked from meter to meter in the pre-dawn hours on the streets of San Rafael, emptying them, not all the money tumbled down the chute into a locked box, police and district attorney's investigators charged late yesterday.

Herren, 61, of 3 Bayview Street, San Rafael, an 18-year employee of the city, was arrested on a charge of embezzling public money, after police found cigar boxes and sacks bulging with coins at his home.

CHARLES R. HERREN
Sacks of coins in his closet

Herren told City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen he had been taking about $7 a day, five days a week, for about a year, to save up for his retirement, Andersen reported.

But the city manager said probably no one will ever know exactly how much was taken. He estimated that almost $1,000 in coins were discovered. The money was being counted today.

Herren was arraigned late yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and released on a $1,100 bail. He was due to appear again today with an attorney to plead. The felony charge carries a possible maximum prison sentence of 10 years.

Andersen said City Finance Officer Orrin Wending and public accountant Halvor D. Klinker, who made the city's annual audit, alerted him that something was wrong in the parking meter collections. They said revenue from the meters was too low, even considering that parking lots had been closed two months while second decks were constructed.

PRIVATE EYE

Andersen quietly hired a private detective. Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa was informed, but the rest of the police department was not.

"I was investigating a city employee," Andersen said. "I didn't want other city employees to know one was suspected because it might be a false alarm."

Marked coins were put in some of the meters, and not all of them came back. The pattern of the missing coins cleared the other collector and the part-time relief man, the city manager reported.

NOT SOONER

An arrest would have come sooner, had it not been for a thief who started rifling more than 100 meters on a weekly basis, according to Andersen. Robert Earl Williams, 30, of San Francisco, was arrested in a stake-out of a parking lot Nov. 27 and charged with those thefts.

SAW HIM

About 3 a.m. yesterday, investigator Donald E. Midyett of the district attorney's office and Chiesa watched Herren during his collection. They said they saw him put some money into his car.

Midyett, Chiesa, Andersen and District Attorney Bruce B. Bales, then questioned the man, finally going to his home.

"He finally broke down and admitted it," Andersen said. "There was a cigar box with coins in it. Don Midyett asked if he could search the house and Herren said, 'Sure, go ahead.'

ANOTHER CIGAR

"Then Don found another cigar box and I said, 'Do you want to show us the rest of it?' He went to his closet and started pulling out sacks of money."

Herren is a fulltime city employee earning $565 a month. His job includes both collecting money from the meters and repairing them. He was fired from the job on his arrest.

ANOTHER SNIPER BULLET STRIKES

Third Attack Of Its Kind In Month Against Marin Sheriff Patrol Cars

A Marin City sniper continued warfare on sheriff's officers last night, firing a single shot from a gun of higher caliber than a .22 at a cruising patrol car.

The slug struck but did not penetrate the left door beside the driver, Deputy Sheriff Dennis Shine. The attack was the third of its kind in 25 days in Marin City and the second night in succession.

Wednesday night, three shots were fired at a patrol car driven by Sgt. Wade Powell. Only one slug struck the vehicle, cracking but not penetrating the windshield on the driver's side. Officers said it was believed to be from a .22 caliber gun.

No injury resulted from any of the three attacks. The sniper has not been found.

Last night's shooting occurred at 6:45 p.m. while Deputies Shine and Charles T. Prandi were in their patrol car in the 200 block of Drake Avenue. The officers said they heard the slug strike the car, then heard the loud report.

Because of the earlier attacks, the deputies kept their vehicle moving, then halted at some distance and sought to determine the source of the shot. They said the slug struck the car's metal door about 3½ inches beneath the glass, making a half-inch indentation. The slub was not found.

Capt. Sidney Stinson said the caliber was more than a .22.

Sheriff's offcers also reported a threat by a Marin City youth arrested four hours later for disturbing the peace and delaying an officer in his duties. They said Willie Edward Grayson, 19, of 89 Cole Drive, was halted on Drake Avenue by Deputies Shine and Prandi after they noticed his car's tail light blinking erratically.

Grayson allegedly used profane language and refused to leave the vehicle. The deputies said he struck Captain Stinson

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Three Ku Klux Klansmen were convicted today of federal conspiracy charges growing out of the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., who presided over the four-day trial, withheld sentencing pending a conference with the defense attorney and probation officers.

Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., was acquitted earlier this year in a state court of Mrs. Liuzzo's murder.

The other two defendants are Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41.

Johnson's Physical Shape Said Good

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's doctor gave him a thorough examination today and expressed satisfaction at what he found.

Joseph Laitin, acting White House press secretary, said Johnson was examined at his ranch home near here by Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, his personal physician.

Russ Aim New Probe At Moon

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union today launched another moon probe, Luna 8, aimed at testing the technique of a soft landing.

Previous moon shots have hit the moon with accuracy but failed in attempts to make a gentle landing. The last was Luna 7 which crash landed following two earlier failures this year.

The official news agency Tass said Luna 8 was aimed "at further refinement of the elements of a soft lunar landing and scientific studies."

Peace Parley Hopes Fading In Moscow

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The possibility of a multination peace offensive on Viet Nam became doubtful today.

The hope was triggered yesterday when British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart proposed that his country and the Soviet Union take the initiative in setting up a conference aimed at achieving a cease-fire.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, fresh from a four-hour conference with President Johnson, then announced that the United States is prepared to attend almost any Southeast Asia peace conference.

This was the Johnson administration's direct response to the Stewart suggestion, voiced over live television in Moscow and thus interpreted as possibly indicative that the Soviets were interested.

But today, Stewart told a Moscow news conference that the Soviet viewpoint on Viet

Troops Beat Jungles But Find No Action

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — U.S. and Vietnamese troops beat through the jungles of South Viet Nam today without bringing the Communists into major action for the third successive day. But American planes kept up their attacks on North and South Viet Nam with undiminished fury.

Communist snipers shot down a U.S. Marine helicopter carrying a crew of four Americans and nine Vietnamese troops south of the big U.S. air base at Da Nang, 380 miles north of Saigon. All aboard were presumed dead. The 'copter was in a flight of eight seeking out the Viet Cong.

U.S. spokesmen also reported that a propeller-driven Skyraider from the carrier Bon Homme Richard was hit yesterday over North Viet Nam and crashed into a peak 40 miles northest of Dong Hoi, a railhead near the 17th Parallel frontier. The pilot as listed as missing.

The nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise sent up 118 planes on her second day of combat. The Big E's planes dropped 102 tons of bombs on suspected Viet Cong troop concentrations and supply dumps in South Viet Nam. Spokesmen said 60 structures were destroyed and 65 damaged.

Of the pause in the ground action, a U.S. spokesman said: "We've had these lulls before. We're beating the bushes for the Viet Cong. When they want to start it up again, they can."

The only ground action reported was a minor clash involving patrolling U.S. Marines near Da Nang. Spokesmen said there were no Marine casualties.

Guam-based B-52s roared over South Viet Nam again during the night, hitting three battle-scarred targets with their heavy bomb loads.

Windows shook in Saigon as the eight-engine Strategic Air Command bombers dropped their explosives.

In Washington, the Defense Department announced that the toll of U.S. combat dead as of last Monday night was 1,356 since Jan. 1, 1961, up 377 since last week's report. The list of missing in action went up four,

Church Council Asks Withdrawal

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The National Council of Churches' general board urged today a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam "if and when they can be replaced" by an international peace keeping force.

The delegates adopted the policy statement on a 93-10 vote with six abstentions. Final action was reached after delegates debated the proposal for three hours.

Dr. Arthur Flemming of Eugene, Ore., led the discussion on the proposal. He said it would be "a genuine contribution" to working out the Viet Nam problem.

New Politico's Beauty Lotion Ads Curbed

Two companies headed by Marin gubernatorial aspirant William Penn Patrick were permanently enjoined in Marin Superior Court late yesterday from making advertising claims which the state attorney general charged were false and misleading.

With stipulation by both defense and the attorney general's office that no guilt or fault was admitted, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner issued the permanent injunction. He then dismissed without prejudice a false advertising suit brought by the state against Holiday Magic Co. and Zolene, Inc., both headed by Patrick.

The injunction specifically prohibits the companies from representing that their cosmetics are made entirely from fruits, nuts, herbs and vegetables when they also contain alcohol and/or mineral oil. It also orders that no misleading advertising claims be made, and gives the attorney general's office the right to examine future advertisements of the firms.

The attorney general alleged

Blackout Plunges Southwest Cities, Bases Into Dark

Johnson Dispatches Expert To Investigate, Tell Him Why

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A power failure that momentarily blacked out four key military bases and plunged a million persons into darkness in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico has brought a federal investigation on orders of President Johnson.

The power failure, triggered in El Paso, was a small-scale version of the blackout that left 30 million persons in the Northeastern United States and Canada without power for up to 10 hours Nov. 9.

All four military bases reported they switched almost immediately to auxiliary power. But many civilian population areas were without power for more than two hours.

Authorities of El Paso Electric Co. said the trouble was traced to failure of a device which regulated flow of natural gas to the two units of the company's Newman Plant near New Mexico's border with Mexico.

An area extending from El Paso to Socorro, N.M., 175 miles to the north, and to Van Horn, Tex., 120 miles to the east, was affected.

And most of the lights of Juarez, Mexico, a nightlife city of about 300,000 population just across the border from El Paso, also went out.

Much of the area affected, including Juarez, is not serviced by El Paso Electric. Spokesmen said, however, that a sudden surge to these areas because of the trouble with El Paso knocked them out.

Public Service Co. of New Mexico, headquartered in Albuquerque, and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation pitched in to assist.

A Public Service Co. spokesman said the company was feeding up to 113,000 kilowatts of power to the south at one point. The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation began speeding water through Elephant Butte Dam near Truth Or Consequences, N.M., to increase power production.

Ironically, the president of El Paso Electric Co., Ray Lockhart, had been quoted in an El Paso newspaper as saying that a power outage such as occurred in the Northeastern United States probably couldn't occur in this area.

El Paso, with a population of about 350,000, was the most populous city affected. Police said only minor looting and burglaries were reported here. Off-duty officers were rushed to patrols of the downtown area and shopping centers.

Legion Rules Out Rabbi's Award Over His Anti-Viet War Stand

BOSTON (UPI)—An American Legion post revealed today that it cancelled plans to give a prominent rabbi a good government award after learning he was one of 58 sponsors of last Saturday's Washington demonstration against U. S. policy in Viet Nam.

William B. Curran, commander of the Crosscup-Pishop Post 281, said the post had planned to present the award to Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn Jan. 26 along with awards to Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, and Episcopal Bishop Anson Phelps Stokes Jr.

Rabbi Gittelsohn, who delivered a sermon on the brotherhood of man at the dedication of the cemetery at Iwo Jima March 22, 1945, is a former national chaplain of the Jewish War Veterans. He now is the religious leader of Temple Israel here.

"We couldn't give him an award when he was doing something opposite to the American Legion position. When Rabbi Gittelsohn took part in the march on Washington, which is opposite to the legion's stand, there was nothing else we could do," Curran said.

Only Weather Could Cancel Gemini Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Weather, the bugaboo which has plagued many U.S. man-in-space shots, remained the only question mark today as Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. made final preparations to start off tomorrow on man's longest space venture.

Weatherman E. A. Amman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported last night he was concerned about a fast-moving trough of rainy weather going across the Southern United States toward Florida.

Amman said he hoped the trough would pass through before Saturday's scheduled 2:30 p.m. (EST) blastoff of the Titan 2 rocket and the Gemini spacecraft.

Borman, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, and Lovell, a Navy commander, are scheduled to circle the globe for a record 14 days.

On the ninth day, Dec. 13, the Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, are to blast off from the same launch pad and attempt to rendezvous and fly in formation with Gemini 7.

that such products of Holiday Magic as Avocado Hand Cream and Banana Body Lotion are not what they're represented to be, and that claims that the cosmetics have therapeutic properties are untrue.

It further charged there is no medical evidence to support the company's claims that its products have curative powers over certain skin ailments. It asked cash penalties for alleged violations of state food and drug laws.

The judgment included no cash penalty, however.

Patrick, 35, of Tiburon, opened the Holiday Magic Company in San Rafael last year. A nation-wide campaign of promotion was launched. The firm is affiliate of Zolene, Inc., the manufacturer which moved to San Rafael from Santa Rosa.

On Nov. 15, Patrick, a self-made millionaire, announced himself a candidate for Republican nomination for governor.

Soviet Raps U.S. Viet Nam Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The Soviet Union today condemned U.S. "aggression" in Viet Nam and pledged political, economic and military support to 'the Vietnamese people."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko delivered the Kremlin's reply to the latest Western peace overtures in the 117-nation Main Political Committee of the General Assembly.

He said Russia "fully supports" the four points laid down by North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh for peace in the country, which include an end to U.S. bombing and the withdrawal of all American troops from Viet Nam.

in the stomach with an elbow when the captain arrived to aid the deputies.

They quoted him as threatening:

"If you —— let me go for five minutes, I dare you to drive around the front of the project."

The youth was handcuffed and taken to jail, where he remained at noon today in lieu of $550 bail.

A second youth, David Barrows, 21, of 25 Burgess Court, Marin City, was also arrested by the officers about three hours after the shooting for three alleged traffic violations and interfering with the duties of an officer.

Deputies said his car was stopat Cole Drive and Drake Avenue for having no license plate visible. He was also cited for speeding and having no driver's license.

The arresting officers quoted him as saying, "I'm going to get you, Prandi."

He was free today on $550 bail.

The first shooting, four shots on Nov. 7, broke a revolving dome light atop a patrol car, also driven by Sergeant Powell.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said he met yesterday with all Marin City sub-station personnel and every attempt will be made to apprehend the shooter or shooters. He said he believed his present patrol units and manpower to be adequate.

His office would welcome any information from Marin City residents leading to arrest of the culprits, he added.

Nam "does not, at present, seem to open a door" toward settlement.

Asked if Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reacted sympathetically to the suggestion, Stewart said: "No, I don't think he did. Stewart said, "he simply insisted that the Soviet Union has no authority to negotiate."

There was no immediate U.S. reaction to the latest Stewart statement.

The earlier glimmer of hope for peace talks followed by scant hours Johnson's own first significant pronouncement on Viet Nam since his Oct. 8 surgery.

Addressing by telephone top business leaders in Washington, Johnson said: "I have said it before. I say it again now. This nation is ready to talk, unconditionally, anywhere, with peace as our agenda. Peace will come because it must come."

Rusk flew to St. Louis after his meeting with Johnson and, addressing a press club dinner, bespoke administration determination by saying "somebody's going to be hurt" if the Hanoi government doesn't turn toward the path of peaceful settlement.

Stewart's Moscow suggestion as that the Soviet Union and Britain, as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that worked out a soon-shattered settlement in Viet Nam, join in setting up a new conference ith the hope of arranging a quick cease-fire.

to 114, and the total wounded rose 178 to 6,225.

Reports from Tokyo say Communist North Viet Nam admitted today that American air raids have hurt its economy and caused a cutback in industrial development.

The admission was contained in a brief report by the official Communist Chinese New China News Agency on a top-level meeting in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

The report quoted North Vietnamese Vice Premier Le Thanh Nghi as saying the American air attacks made it necessary to "carry out an on-the-spot supply policy making full use of local materials and ensuring local production and consumption."

Men's Suits, Camera Taken

Men's suits, a camera, radio, guns and a $500 new mink stole were missing last night when Ray H. Follett and his wife returned to their San Rafael home from work. Total loss was set at $1,670.

Police said a burglar entered the home at 15 Sorrento Way by prying open a crank-type kitchen window during the day.

Follett, an employee of Royal Motor Sales in San Francisco, said two guns, a shotgun and a .38 caliber revolver were taken, along with his best suits and other smaller items. He said the mink stole had just been purchased and had never been worn.

OBITUARIES

Meat Dealer James Biagini Succumbs

James Biagini, a meat dealer in San Anselmo for 35 years, collapsed, apparently from a heart attack, at his San Rafael home today and was dead on arrival at Ross General Hospital. He was 69.

Biagini retired recently as proprietor of the meat market at San Anselmo Super Market.

Biagini collapsed as he was making his way along a hallway at his home at 43 Leafwood Circle, and his wife, Josephine, called their daughter and son-in-law who are neighbors.

His daughter, Mrs. Glendine James tried to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but he was pronounced dead when the ambulance arrived at the hospital at 6:05 a.m.

He had suffered from a heart condition for about 10 years, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley, and had also undergone surgery for a lung ailment recently.

A native of Italy, Biagini was a U.S. Army veteran of World War I and a member of San Anselmo Post 179 of the American Legion.

He was also a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church at Ross, Marin Rod and Cun Club, and Marin County Retail Meat Dealers Assn.

Survivors are his wife; his daughter; two sisters, Mrs. Louise Garbarino and Mrs. Clorinda D'Aquisto of San Francisco, and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at St. John's Episcopal Church at 1:30 p.m. Monday. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Litany service will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

BETTY WILLITS

Private memorial services for Betty Kayda Willits, who collapsed in her garden in San Anselmo Wednesday and died, apparently of a heart attack, were held today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Willits, 58, had lived with her sister, Mrs. Constance Stratton, at 128 Butterfield Road. She had been a resident of Marin for one and one-half years, coming from Florida. She was a native of Wisconsin.

She had had a history of heart problems, according to the Marin County coroner's office, and had complained two days earlier of not feeling well. She had been raking leaves in the back yard when she collapsed.

ALEXANDER MALIN

Funeral for Alexander Malin of 15 Sonoma Street, San Rafael, will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Sinai Memorial Chapel, San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Elva Malin; a son, Sherwood Malin of Los Angeles; three daughters, Mrs. Natalie Frankel and Camille Malin of San Francisco, and Carolyn Malin of San Rafael; a brother, Phillip Malin, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Altshuler, both of Los Angeles.

Burial will be in Salem Memorial Park, Colma.

Miss Williams died of a heart attack in a San Francisco hospital Sunday.

She was a member of the advisory board of Nazareth House, and a member of Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of Marin County, San Rafael Holy Family Guild, National Council of Catholic Women, St. Brigid's Alumnae Assn., and Little Children's Aid Auxiliary of San Francisco. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at N. Gray and Co., San Francisco. Tributes may be contributions to Nazareth House.

JOHN LEE

John George Lester Lee, a potter with Heath Ceramics, Sausalito, for 10 years, collapsed at his workbench, apparently of a heart attack, today and was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. He was 56.

A native of Ohio, Lee had lived in Marin County 14 years. His home was at 406 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera.

He was drinking a cup of coffee before starting work at 7:30 a.m. when he collapsed with pain in his chest, said Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

His wife, Marie Lee, who also works as a potter at the factory, said her husband had suffered from a heart condition for five years.

Also surviving are four daughters, Barbara Lee of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Robert Hulse of Wichita, Kan.; Mrs. D. K. White of Three Rivers, Tex., and Mrs. Don Dolson of Webster, Tex.; a son, Richard Lee of Friendswood, Tex. and two brothers, Clyde Lee of Galt and Harry Lee of Oroville.

Engineer At Bail Hearing Gulps Cyanide Pill, Dies

SANTA ANA (AP) — A 38-year-old engineer, appearing in court for a routine bail hearing, gulped a capsule of cyanide, fell to the floor in convulsions and died later, police report.

Gerald L. Smith; an electronics engineer from nearby Cypress, was pronounced dead yesterday on arrival at Orange County General Hospital. He had been arrested last Oct. 18 after his wife, Lynn, 36, and son, Gary, 13, suffered gunshot wounds.

He was scheduled to be arraigned next Friday on two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. At the hearing, the judge ordered his bail raised from $2,500 to $10,000, and invited attorneys to confer in chambers.

As the attorneys were leaving to talk with the judge, officers said, Smith took the capsule from his pocket and swallowed it. His wife witnessed the scene.

Detectives said the source of the poison was being investigated.

Appointments Policy On Education Agenda

The Marin County Board of Education Monday will discuss policy on appointments to fill vacancies on district school boards. The meeting is to begin at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

In past appointments, the board has ruled that names under consideration not be made public, even though the post being filled is an elective position with names highly publicized during the regular elective process.

Some, but not all county board members have argued that a better panel of candidates can be had in a mid-term appointment if the names are not made known and embarrassment for those not selected is avoided.

The county board is also to discuss a claim against Standard School Supplies arising because of an erratic delivery schedule, a minority employment clause for school construction contracts, employment of a home teacher for educationally handicapped.

Castro Lashes U.S. On Viet Nam

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said today many Cubans would be willing to fight against the United States in Viet Nam.

"There are many in this country who would gladly enlist to fight there against the criminal soldiers of Yankee Imperialism," Castro said. "The day volunteers are asked, there will be thousands — millions from all parts of the world."

Castro's statement in a speech to a teachers' graduating class seemed no more an indication that he intends to send men to Viet Nam than similar previous declarations.

Father Granted Girl's Custody

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The estranged husband of a former high-fashion model won custody of their 7-year-old daughter when a judge decided Mrs. Dovima Horan Murray was more interested in her career than in the girl.

The 39-year-old former model had gone to court in an attempt to gain custody of the child her husband accuses her of kidnaping.

Someone Cuts Trees At Billboard Areas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state claims stealthy midnight woodsmen, using power saws that make Paul Bunyan seem a piker, are felling the trees lining Southern California's freeways—usually leaving clear, unobstructed views of billboards.

And the state has an ax to grind with the phantom woodcutters.

"It's irritating," said Edward T. Telford, district engineer for the state division of highways.

"We used to have only one case of this a year. Lately we've been getting a rash — an epidemic," he said yesterday.

Telford said that four out of five times, "the obvious beneficiary was a billboard company."

The billboard companies, however, disagree.

Retorted one executive: "We have never cut down any trees. Occasionally, with permission, we have topped some trees. We feel the trees have been cut with the intent to cause problems for us."

Asked whom he had in mind, he replied: "Individuals who absolutely hate us, a minority with a lot of idiosyncracies who will do anything to create a disturbance and have the papers come out and blast the billboard companies."

What type individuals?

"Garden clubbers, do-gooders with a platform of 'down with the billboards'."

Telford said the tree-cutting epidemic started last May 17.

The severed trees are left at the scene, the engineer said.

"We're not quit sure what to do," he said. "Obviously we can't stake out crews at night to try to catch these gremlins. They ought to be ashamed of this."

Strawberry Center Due Another Restaurant–Chinese This Time

Some shopping centers are fortunate if they have one restaurant. Rapidly growing Strawberry Town and Country Village eventually will have at least three.

Besides Cherish Inn and Hick'ry Pit of Marin there now, come next March or April there will be another one serving Chinese fare and called Kubla Khan—a project of Stanley Toy of San Francisco, a restaurant man of many years standing.

Toy has leased 2,500 square feet next to Milford's of the Palace Beauty Salon and will undertake something different in the way of a combined restaurant and take-home food operation. He's planning on quite an elaborate dining room and kitchen.

I talked to him several months ago when he was considering several Marin locations. It speaks well for Town and Country Village that he finally settled on this spot as one of the best in the county.

DECEMBER is anniversary month for several restaurants, and I know of at least three that are having special celebrations.

Rubini's in Fairfax has its seventh birthday on Dec. 16, but is generously celebrating throughout the entire month with champagne for every dinner Wednesday through Friday evenings.

Perhaps to go with this you should try the filet of sole which Gordon Jones now has on the menu—both Mornaise and Florentine. Or perhaps the Alaskan crab legs. All fit in nicely with champagne.

But whatever you decide and before you do—check the a la carte side of the menu. There are some entrees not shown among the complete dinners—but which you can expand by adding only 75 cents more to the price. It gives you much more of a selection.

TIBURON TOMMIE'S MAI TAI also has a seventh birthday affair scheduled for Dec. 13—a week from Monday. If you know Tommie Cox at all you know what this means—an open house for the evening, starting at 5 p.m.

This year he has added reason to celebrate—completion of his new Destination South Pacific Room upstairs. Completed, that is, except for the permanent South Sea decorations which are coming from New Zealand.

ANOTHER DECEMBER CELEBRANT is Ethel Barrie at Lin Fa Gardens in the Northgate Shopping Center. Next Friday night, the 10th, will be her second anniversary and she, too, has pinpointed the date for a special party and some extra favors.

First of all, Hal Shutz will return to the organ in the Mai Tai Room for that night, while organist Bill McCoy and ensemble move into the banquet room to feature dance music from 8:30 to 1:30 a.m.

You never have to worry about parking at Northgate.

ONE - YEAR ANNIVERSARIES this month for: Courthouse Creamery, San Rafael—it was just a year ago that the Tobins moved into their new quarters at Fourth and A Streets. . . . Restaurant and bar and Hi-Ho Motel of Chuck Mowers on the 101 Highway, Mill Valley. . . . Berkeley Farms opened its restaurant and coffee shop in Novato by the dairy depot. It's been doing real well, too. . . . George and Madeleine Dumont went into that Spaulding Avenue dinery, San Anselmo (which isn't as hard to find as you might think), now known as Chez Dumont.

NOW AT THE ARK—Chris Ibanez and his three piece orchestra is a featured attraction at Sausalito's newest dinery and night spot on Sunday evenings.

HERE'S A NEW dining suggestion for food connoisseurs: Alfred Roblin's Dover sole au Chambertin at Ondine, Sausalito—prepared with a heavy-bodied Chambertin burgundy. Whoever said red wine wasn't for fish?

Also on the Ondine menu is another bell-ringer—squab flambe.

FRIDAY NIGHT seafood menu at Franchini's Chateau at 101 Highway and Lucas Valley Road is filled with pieces de resistance hard to resist—no less than 14 of them. Among the favorites are the seafood plate with frog legs, crab legs, prawns, oysters and sole—also the frog legs meunier, lobster tails, brochettes or steak, and the mahi mahi, which is also served other nights besides Friday. And here's place that knows how to prepare abalone steak.

I'M SORRY TO REPORT that Bill Dennis, owner of Country Boy Restaurants in San Rafael, El Cerrito and Concord, was killed in an automobile accident last Friday night in Martinez. His widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Dennis, will continue to operate the chain. Local restaurant at Bermuda Palms will continue to be under the management of Joe Satterfield.

MARY HARKINS of El Paseo Restaurant in Mill Valley informs me that her extracurricular business in frozen popovers is going so well it's keeping her going night and day.

She now has an outlet for these in central Marin that's bound to take a large percentage of her output—Petrini's Market in Greenbrae. You'll find Mary's popovers in the frozen bread and rolls section—and well represented.

REMEMBER THAT freckle-faced Englishman, George Tucker, who used to play at the Office in Mill Valley—and also at San Rafael Joe's?

He's now featured Friday and Saturday nights at the Lodge in Novato. For the past three weeks he's been playing piano, but starting tonight those active fingers of his were to start working out on the organ again.

AT THE ARK in Sausalito, they are now serving crab cioppino on Fridays—both at lunch and dinner times.

And I have it from headquarters that the upper deck is completed and ready to take on private parties. It has its own bar and will handle about 80 people. But it's divided into sections so that more than one group can be accommodated. If you have a real large party—say 150 to 200 and can date for a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, you can arrange to take over the entire lower deck.

Ark entertainment Friday and Saturday nights is now provided by Gilbert Cardona and his foursome. Featured on Sunday is Chris Ibanez and his three-piece ensemble.

RIB-EYE STEAKS and do-it-yourself broilers are popular at McKee's in San Rafael. There's room for seven or eight self-appointed chefs to work at the same time, and if you should have to wait a minute you can use the interval to mix your own salad. This is on daily 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. except Fridays and Saturdays when the hours are from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Marin Dining And Wining

Reason for the latter, of course, is the Sir Vincent Plus Four—new group playing for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday eves.

VERY HONORABLE MENTIONABLES: The beef Wellington at La Petite Auberge, San Rafael. . . . Moravian klobasa with sauerkraut at Drake's Arms, Inverness. . . . Mushroom omelet at Le Chalet Basque, Santa Venetia—or any of the other lunchtime omelets. . . . Chinese sea food dinner Friday nights at Black Point Inn.

New Mining Group To Meet, Recruit

The new Redwood Chapter of the Western Mining Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Novato Chamber of Commerce office, 867 Sweetzer Avenue, Novato.

Officers of the new chapter, which will seek members from Marin and Sonoma counties, are C. Guy Collins of Novato, president; Albert Mitchell of Novato, vice president; and Ronald Timm of Rohnert Park, secretary-treasurer.

Wages in the United States are highest in the Pacific Coast states, says Encyclopedia International.

Hamburger and CHAMPAGNE?

Well, not for every-body.

You have to be 21 and come over to Sam's in Tiburon to get it.

And, if you find fulfillment in the works of Edgar Guest, Paul Harvey, Daddy Warbucks, Jane Addams, Norman Rockwell, and Henry Doelger... you might prefer to stick with Sam's tried and true Burger & Beer.

But if a spark of the bon vivant burns in your soul, your taste will be abundantly rewarded with this bizarre combination.

Sam's Anchor Cafe has even bottled its own champagne for the occasion.

That would be Sam's in Tiburon.

CAL STUDENTS DISAGREE

On the anniversary of last year's Free Speech Movement sit-in at the Berkeley campus' Sproul Hall, thousands of University of California students gathered yesterday for a commemorative rally which featured a variety of speeches and entertainment including a puppet show. When biology student Daniel Teodoru (right), a native of Rumania, criticized FSM demonstrators as being like the puppets, he was berated by this unidentified coed. The students then held an orderly march through Sproul Hall. (AP Wirephoto)

Water Lands Annexation Runs Into Oppositiion

Perhaps the largest land annexation in Marin's history ran into unexpected opposition last night before the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

It was the North Marin Water District's proposal to annex 28,480 along the east shore of Tomales Bay, from the bay to the ridgeline.

As soon as commissioners opened the hearing, Atty. Leland H. Jordan, representing property owners in the area who oppose annexation, asked for a one-month continuance.

Jordan said he did not want "to draw the battle lines" last night, but wanted time to confer with water district officials about the issue.

Jerome B. Gilbert, manager of the North Marin Water District, noted that other property owners in the area have urged the district "to get on" with the annexation, but said he would be willing to meet with the protesting property owners.

Commissioners continued the hearing until Dec. 20 with the understanding that the hearing would be canceled if the water district decided to withdraw its application and then re-submit next month.

Passenger Hurt As Car Crashes

A passenger in a car driven by Frances R. Whiting, 50, of 51 Mercury Avenue, Belvedere, complained of back pains after a two-car crash on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley at 12:25 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the Whiting car was northbound and had just slowed to make a left turn into Ash Street when it was hit from behind by a car driven by John I. Terrell, 18, of 538 Pinecrest Road, Tamalpais Valley.

The passenger, George Glassey, 32, of the Whiting address, was to see his own doctor.

Commission Approves Novato Annexation

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night approved annexation of 1,280 acres along Highway 37 to the City of Novato.

The major portion of the annexation area is between the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks and Atherton Avenue, from the highway north to Olive Avenue.

It also includes an area south of the highway which is bordered on the west and south by Novato Creek and does not extend so far east as Atherton Avenue.

John F. Barrows, executive officer, said the area includes a population of four, one dwelling unit and Deer Island. The area is now zoned for agriculture, but there are plans for 590 homes near Atherton Avenue and Highway 37, Barrows said.

There was no protest at the hearing, but Barrows reported the county planning staff recommended the area south of the highway be excluded because "of lack of proper access."

Novato Planning Director Robert Lagle explained the property south of the highway was included because "there is one ownership on both sides of the highway."

Annexation was approved by a 3-0 vote, with Larkspur Mayor Neil R. Brixon sitting in for Novato Councilman Wayne Womack. Commissioners Byron W. Leydecker and Hugh C. Marchant were absent.

Commissioners were ready to adjourn when Barrows introduced a new item, one he said could be acted on without a hearing under the new LAFC law.

It was a request by the Novato Sanitary District to annex seven acres east of its present plant site, east of the end of Davidson Street.

When there is 100 per cent consent from property owners in the area to be annexed, a hearing is not necessary, Barrows said. In this case the district both owned the property and requested the annexation.

Commissioners approved the annexation by 3-0 vote.

Light Stolen

Mrs. Sammie P. Rickson, an Angel Island housewife, complained to Tiburon sheriff's substation deputies yesterday that sometime Tuesday night the right headlight was stolen from her Volkswagen. She said the car was parked in the merchants' parking lot on Tiburon Boulevard.

The Gobi desert is 500,000 square miles in area.

New Proposals To Be Heard For Two Parks

Two proposals for new state parks in Marin County—at Marin Headlands and on Mount Tamalpais—will be among the 90 park projects discussed by the California State Park Commission in San Francisco next week.

The commission has to decide how many of the 90 projects the state should undertake with the last $44.4 million of its acquisition funds from the $150 million state park and recreation bond act of 1964.

Projects selected will go to the State Administrator of Resources for possible inclusion in the 1966-67 budget bill.

The new state parks will be determined during the last two days of a three-day public meeting Wednesday through Friday at the Division of Highways building at 150 Oak Street. Sessions start at 2 p.m. Wednesday and 9:30 a.m. the other days.

IN HOT VIET NAM

First Snow And Seeds Make Life Endurable

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Green onions and radishes and carrots, and, maybe, a picture of the first snow back home — these are some of the things that help make life endurable in Viet Nam.

Three weeks ago, Mickie Gill of Port Huron received a letter from her husband, Marine S. Sgt. John H. Gill Jr. It was written in a humid, hot tent at Plei Me.

Gill had just gone through hand-to-hand combat with the Viet Cong.

"Send me some seeds so that I can plant them," Gill wrote. "We want fresh vegetables to make a salad. Green onions, carrots, head lettuce, radishes, anything that will grow."

Mrs. Gill tried to buy seeds at local stores, but in winter it's hard to buy seeds of any kind.

A reporter of the Port Huron Times Herald heard of her plight, wrote about it and the Port Huron Junior Chamber of Commerce picked up the ball.

Mrs. Gill said the response from people who wanted to help was overwhelming.

"They came to the door, all kinds of people, friends and relatives, and people I didn't know," she said.

There were other things Gill wrote home about.

"My darling, I want a picture of the first snow, just so I'll know that somewhere in the world there's a place without steam, mud, slush and stink.

"It's only 9:45 a.m., and the temperature is already 104 degrees. The humidity is 97 per cent. I've lost 22 pounds. We sweat 24 hours a day."

ONE MORE CHRISTMAS RUSH— Retiring San Rafael Assistant Postmaster Thomas C. Falvey, 67, counts his stock of special Christmas season stamps in preparation for his last holiday mail rush.
(Independent-Journal photo)

Veteran Postal Official Readies For Career's Last Christmas Rush

"I've gone to about a dozen retirement parties and each time I wondered how the man up front felt as he left 20 or 30 years of post office work behind him. I'll be feeling it myself pretty soon, I guess."

So spoke 67-year-old Thomas C. Falvey, who will retire as assistant San Rafael postmaster on Dec. 31 after almost 36 years of work in the San Rafael post office.

Falvey began his career in 1931 as a substitute clerk in the post office, then in a tiny office at 931 Fourth Street where San Rafael Joe's restaurant is now located.

His pay during his first four years was a meager 65 cents an hour. Base pay in the position as assistant postmaster, to which he was appointed in January, 1956, is $11,936 a year.

"I was glad to get work then. Those were the depression years and a post office job was a great thing to get because of the security it offered. We have a lot harder time getting employees now," said the chipper, grey-haired assistant postmaster.

The post office moved to its present location on D Street in 1937. "The new building seemed so spacious we felt like we'd have to wear roller skates to get around it. We were a little civic center housing the armed services recruitment offices, the Farm Bureau, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue," he recalled.

"I don't know where all that space went, but we certainly did lose it. We've been trying to get a bigger building now for four years. We're going to move into a new place two and a half times as big as this one, but I'm afraid I won't be here for the move," said Falvey.

The post office will be moved to a new $800,000 building at 40 Bellam Boulevard next fall. The D Street office will remain as a branch.

"I'd have had a plush office all to myself with a nice desk and a soft chair, but that alone isn't worth sticking around for," said Falvey.

"I'll be putting more time into work for the heart association and church work, and I'll certainly be glad to spend more time with my family as well as doing the usual amount of hunting, fishing, and traveling," he said.

"The biggest changes I've seen since I started post office work haven't been in mechanization, they've been in working conditions and handling systems. Mechanization still lies ahead for post offices."

Falvey lives at 7 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae. He has been chosen chairman of the heart association campaign to be held in February.

Falvey has one more Christmas rush ahead of him before retirement. "We sort of look forward to the rush because its a challenge, but we certainly aren't sorry to see it end," he said with a tired smile.

Sleepy Hollow Assn. Elects

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Assn., decided last night to donate several large trees to be planted on the Dominican Convent Upper and Lower School campups, San Domenico, now being completed in Sleepy Hollow.

Members of the association will meet a parade of people coming from the old convent location on Grand Avenue in San Rafael Dec. 11 at the entrance to Sleepy Hollow on Butterfield Road.

New Partner In Law Firm

David J. Costamagna of San Rafael has been made a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Buresh, Garety and Vallarino.

Costamagna has been with the firm for 15 months.

The firm, to be known henceforth as Buresh, Garety, Vallarino and Costamagna, also announced it had added Colin C. Claxon of San Rafael as an associate.

40 From Marin To Hear Humphrey

At least 40 Marin Democrats will attend tonight's $100-a-plate dinner at Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco to hear Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Marinites have reserved four tables for the dinner, with the following serving as hosts and hostesses: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gotav of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kent of Kentfield, Mrs. Joseph Guthrie of Ross, and Robert D. Carrow of Novato.

Intruder Leaves As Door Slams

When Conrad Knudsen of San Anselmo entered the Festival Theater building at 2 Kensington Road, San Anselmo, this morning to pick up some of his belonging, he heard a door slam in the back of the building.

Knudsen called police, who searched the building and its grounds but found no trace of the intruder. They did find a filing cabinet which had been pried open and a discarded crowbar nearby.

Knudsen, who is a member of the theater company, told police nothing appeared to be missing. The theater's money, he said, is kept in another part of the building.

A JOB FOR 'DIAMOND CUTTERS'

What may have been the most glittering ribbon cutting ceremony on record marked today's opening of Granat Brothers Jewelers' store at the Northgate Shopping Center. The shears held by San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini are embellished with over $50,000 worth of real diamonds and other precious gems. Instead of the traditional silk, the ribbon is a sumptuous necklace, 39 feet long and strung with over 1,000 cultured pearls. At the left is Raymond E. Randolph, manager of the new store, eighth in the Granat jewelry chain. Granat president Sanford L. Wolfson is at right. (Independent-Journal photo)

Ex-Tenant Booked For Trespass On Landlord Charge

San Anselmo police last night booked Clifford Stanley Ray, 47, of 807-A Fourth Street, San Rafael, in county jail on a charge of entering private property without the owner's consent.

On Nov. 25, according to Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani, police were called to 27 Buena Vista Avenue, San Anselmo, where George B. Geramoni, owner of the house, asked them to stop Ray from removing his belongings from the garage.

Geramoni, who lives at 5 Winship Avenue, Ross, said Ray owed him some back rent and he was going to keep his property until the money was paid.

Three hours later, Geramoni complained to police that Ray returned and took his property.

Waterfront Bandits Flee With $15,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pair of well - dressed gunmen took between $15,000 and $20,000 today from Riordan's Tavern, 22 Embarcadero.

John W. Riordan said he had just opened at 7 a.m. when two men appeared, waved guns and took the money. He had it to cash paychecks.

Tam Valley Club Considers Recreation District Need

Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club members last night held a "spirited discussion" on how to finance a recreation facility on 11.4 acres at the entrance to Tennessee Valley, and decided formation of a recreation district is perhaps the best course. No action was taken.

Formation of a recreation district, private financing, and amalgamating with one of the two existing districts were discussed.

Club president Joe Allen said purchase of the land from Goheen Enterprises for a total price of $19,123 was to be recorded in the county recorder's office today.

Members said they oppose lot sizes of a proposed single-family development of Taylor-Fisher Co. off Wellesley Avenue at Median Way. The company seeks 7,500-square foot lots, while the master plan calls for 10,000 square foot lots. Club members wish the latter size to be adhered to and the approach to the subdivision be improved.

Scoutmaster Leendert Hyna said additional adults are needed for the scout committee.

Panes Vandalized

Vandals with a sharp instrument scratched obscene words on several windows at Oliver Hartzell School, San Rafael city school officials told police yesterday. They said the windows will have to be replaced, but did not know how much they would cost.

Bob Hope Preparing Annual Yule Journey

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and a troupe of entertainers will leave Dec. 18 for a 12-day tour of the Orient, including combat zones in Viet Nam, a spokesman announced.

It will be Hope's second Christmas tour to Viet Nam, and his 14th annual Christmas tour to U.S. military bases, under joint sponsorship of the U.S. Department of Defense and the U.S.O.

Women Jurors Get Prison Slaying Case

Case of Armando G. Sanchez, 33-year-old San Quentin inmate, went to an all-woman jury at 11:20 a.m. today in a 12-day trial for the April 23 slaying of Ralph Canning, 54, civilian prison shop foreman.

Sanchez, charged with assault by a lifer, is being tried before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

Citizen Solicits Others' Opinion Of Supervisor

Robert Parker of Larkspur said today too many people in Marin County do not take the trouble to tell members of the Marin County Board of Supervisors what they think of them.

Designating himself chairman of the "Public Opinion Board," Parker, former owner of Marin Ambulance Service, asked opinions be sent him for a survey.

Parker, who lives at 7 Ward Street, Larkspur, said he discussed the idea with Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who was in favor of having more people go to supervisors' meetings to give their opinions.

The idea for a survey came to him, Parker added, when he and other ambulance operators were trying to induce the county to set up regulations on ambulances in the county.

He said the problem had been turned over to County Administrator Alan Bruce, but that no report has yet come back, and the ambulance men have tried, without success, to speed action.

The question he wants answered follows:

1. What particular member of the board of supervisors do you either agree or disagree with?
2. What action have the supervisors taken in the last six months that you disagree with?
3. Do you approve of one-man rule in the county administrator's office?
4. In your opinion, what can be done to lower Marin County taxes?
5. Do you attend board of supervisors meetings?

Parker, who last year ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Marin Hospital District Board, said he was interested in both good and bad opinions of the county government.

"I'm trying to get a large group together so we can all go up to a board meeting and tell them what we think of them," he said.

Novato Chamber Favors Brochure

Directors of the Novato Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized D'Carlin Publishing Co. of 2030 Center Road, Novato, to publish a brochure about the city.

David Lindsey of the firm said he would complete the brochure in about six months. Its cost will be paid for by advertising.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) will address a chamber luncheon Jan. 6 at Nero's Restaurant. Annual installation dinner has been scheduled for June 11 at the Marin Golf and Country Club.

To Hospital

Curtis Coburn, 28, of 805 Fourth Street, Apt. 16, San Rafael, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital yesterday for an apparent overdose of drugs, then transferred to Napa State Hospital.

Cash Register Cleaned Out For Third Time

Three times since last Friday the cash register at the Hobby Raceway, 1560 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was cleaned out, San Rafael police learned yesterday.

Co-owner Allen H. Weinroth, of 7 Brown Court, Novato, told police several employees and a clean-up boy had keys to the building, and that there was no sign of forced entry or anything else missing. He said $463.17 in all was taken.

Money was left in the cash register each night and was missing the following morning, Weinroth said. A door connecting the shop with the one next door, R&R Automatic Transmissions Repair, was believed to have been locked, he said. But police said they found the padlock missing from the door inside the R&R shop, and surmised a thief may have entered that way.

Rights Commission Due More Meetings

Members of the Marin County Human Rights Commission last night agreed to increase the commission's meeting schedule from one to two sessions a month, meeting on the third as well as the first Thursday.

Walter Bremond, county community relations coordinator, said the commission spent a good deal of time laying final plans for the human rights symposium at Marin City Dec. 11.

Battery Stolen

A thief stole a $37.74 battery from a truck parked at the rear of 35 Jordan Street, San Rafael, police were told yesterday. The truck belonged to Pacific Motor Trucking Co.

BIKE-RIDING BOY BANDIT IS AT LARGE

TORRANCE (AP) — A red-bicycle bandit is at large in this Los Angeles suburb, police said.

Officers said a young boy riding a red bicycle held up a drive-in milk store last night and escaped into the darkness with $167 in cash.

An attendant at the store, Danny York, 17, told police the boy, about 12 years old, pedaled up to the drive-in, drew a revolver from his black trench coat and demanded money.

York told police the boy took a paper bag containing the cash and rode off into a city park. Police said the bandit is still at large.

Fire Board Asks Flood Control Area

Tiburon Fire District Commissioners last night asked the county counsel's office to demand the City of Tiburon begin action to create a Tiburon Boulevard flood control district.

The main fire station at 1679 Tiburon Boulevard is troubled by flooding during the rainy season.

An offer from the volunteer firemen's association to donate $522 in drill pay to the district was taken under study. The money would go toward purchase of furniture for the meeting room at the main fire station.

Commissioners agreed to purchase 200 seedlings trees from the State Division of Forestry for landscaping at fire station No. 2, Trestle Glen Boulevard and Paradise Drive. No decision on the types of trees was reached. Cost was estimated at $50.

A resolution to annex Mercury Avenue in Belveron Gardens to the district was adopted.

Tree Lovers Call For Park Annex

DEL MAR (AP) — A statewide "call-in" and "wire-in" has started in an attempt to protect 3,000 rare Torrey pines by adding 260 acres to the state Torrey pines reserve.

The campaign, launched yesterday by the Torrey Pines Wild Life Assn., calls for the public to telephone or telegram Gov. Edmund G. Brown's representative at the Sacramento state office building.

Association Co - chairman Robert Bates said the drive resulted from the State Division of Beaches and Parks Comission's recent failure to recommend that the land be added.

Retroactive Hospital Rate Increase Set

State auditors have agreed to allow a retroactive increase in rates charged by San Rafael General Hospital for county patients.

The hospital had been getting $44 a day for county patients. It sought an increase to $54 to cover costs, hospital administrator Arthur G. Burns said.

State auditors in October said they would allow an increase only to $48.17. Hospital trustees held this was not adequate.

An appeal to the state department of finance succeeded in getting a new schedule. The hospital, state auditors said, can either levy $52.90 a day or make a charge of $48.76 for non-surgical cases and $71.49 for surgery cases.

Burns said today that either of these appears acceptable, but the $52.90 rate will probably be adopted.

The new rates will be retroactive to August, causing an increase in county expenditures both for indigent cases and medical aid for the aged cases.

Old Profession Snags Prisoner

Eual Leon Stone, 27-year-old walkaway prisoner from San Quentin, was sitting it out in a Bakersfield jail today because he reverted to his old profession.

He was arrested on a charge of burglary by Kern County Sheriff L. F. Galyen yesterday, 22 days after he was reported missing from a San Quentin minimum security work party.

Serving two years at the prison for burglary and car theft, Stone was the subject of a widespread search in the San Quentin area by 50 guards assisted by California Highway Patrol, sheriff's officers and other law enforcement agencies.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today Stone, from Los Angeles County, will be returned to San Quentin after he has faced the latest burglary charge.

Meeting Day Changed

The Sausalito Citizens Council has changed its meeting schedule to hold board meetings on the third Monday of each month instead of the first Thursday. The board, which did not meet last night, will next meet Dec. 20, according to Carl W. Spring, corresponding secretary. It meets at the homes of members.

Burglar Grabs Loot Worth $973

Tax records, 10 shares of stocks valued at $600, jewelry and a camera were taken in a daylight burglary yesterday in Mill Valley while the woman of the house was shopping.

Robert Klein reported to police that, while his wife was shopping between 11:20 a.m. and 2:35 p.m., someone pried open the front door of their two-story home at 38 Shelly Drive and removed $973 in belongings. Several rooms showed signs of search.

The stocks, non-negotiable, tax records, and pink slips for the Klein's two cars were stolen in a fireproof metal box. Also taken were an alexanderite ring in gold setting, valued at $150, two radios and a $117 camera.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER DESIGN

This is an architect's model of the design for the planned community mental health center at Marin General Hospital, some features of which were criticized in a report prepared for the county by Dr. J. M. Stubblebine. The center, being planned jointly by the county and the Marin Hospital District, will be attached to the hospital at its northwest corner. Architects for the firm are Kaplan and McLaughlin. Estimated cost of the building is $1.25 million, with two-thirds of the funds coming from the state and federal governments.

Democrats To Participate In First District Caucus

Marin Democrats will participate in the First Congressional District caucus of the State Democratic Central Committee at Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa on Sunday.

State Chairman Robert L. Coates will be principal speaker at the luncheon.

Co-chairmen Cheryl Petersen of Santa Rosa announced that the 1966 Congressional race will be among the topics to be discussed.

Among Democrats mentioned in the Congressional race are Supervisor Thomas T. Storer of Point Reyes Station, Dr. George E. McCabe of Sonoma State College, and State Sen. Frank Peterson of Ukiah.

"Thomas Skornia, Ross attorney, is not expected to have opposition in obtaining the Democratic nomination to run against Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, even though Mr. Skornia has not yet made a public announcement of his candidacy," Dr. Petersen noted.

She said that Marin Central Committee Chairman Robert D. Carrow and Napa Chairman John Dunlap are both widely discussed as possible candidates to try to win the Democratic nomination from incumbent State Sen. Luther Gibson of Vallejo. The winner will face State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, in November.

District Set To Build Sewers In Bret Harte

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night formed an assessment district which will replace septic tanks with sewer lines in the Bret Harte area.

Board members and most of the 37 area residents in the audience appeared convinced by county sanitarian William L. Desmond's declaration that a definite health hazard will exist in the neighborhood as long as septic tanks are allowed to remain.

Greatest doubts voiced by residents were over the fairness of the assessment distribution as it was estimated more than a month ago by engineer Daniel P. Coleman. Board members said the estimates were still in rough form and promised they would make sure of a fair assessment when it was actually levied.

In October, residents of the "upper end" of the area asked for proof that a sewer system was needed as badly there as in the rest of the proposed district. Last night, Desmond showed them a map of the area and pointed to lots where a series of surveys had turned up septic tank failures.

Of 83 properties checked, he said, 15—or 18 per cent—were found to have failing tanks.

"We believe anything over 10 to 12 per cent indicates something should be done and should be done soon," Desmond declared.

While there were fewer outright failures in the "upper end," Desmond said, the surveys found several tanks which appeared certain to fail soon.

"It would be a mistake, in my opinion," he said, "to leave any part of the Bret Harte area out of the district."

Even when tanks are well maintained, Desmond added, such factors as soil quality and amount of rainfall make it impossible to guarantee against sewage oozing out of the ground and winding up in gutters.

At this point, he said, "there is an extremely good likelihood that pets and children playing in this area may contract disease," and the gutters will become a haven for rats.

The assessment question was raised by John Burdesono of 83 Bret Harte Road, who said he feared he was to be levied a double assessment on a lot where he could never build a second house. He insisted that the board go on record with a promise to equalize the assessments fairly.

"I mean no reflection whatever on this board," he said, "but it has been my experience elsewhere that what government agencies say they will do and what they do are not always the same."

Board members agreed to record the promise in the minutes, although assessment attorney Edwin N. Ness insisted any talk of assessment was "a premature discussion."

Legally, Ness said, the assessment will not be made until after the work is finished, but he predicted Coleman would be able to estimate the cost spread so residents "will know what your assessment is before the project starts."

Board members passed five resolutions, including one authorizing Coleman to do the engineering for a fee of 10 per cent of the project cost.

Former city engineer Dominic J. Selmi, now employed by Coleman, appeared on behalf of the firm because Coleman was ill.

Aides Acquitted In Dam Tragedy

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—Three high officials of hydroelectric power companies were acquitted today of charges of improperly operating the Vaiont Dam before the 1963 disaster there wiped out towns and took 2,000 lives.

A huge landslide from Mount Toc crashed into the dam's reservoir and splashed half the lake over the world's third highest dam onto Longarone and other north Italian towns.

The officials were charged with operating the power system at Vaiont without proper authorization at intervals between Nov. 17, 1962, and the day of the disaster, Oct. 9, 1963. They said the power plant had only been operated for brief periods to test equipment.

Dues Hike Idea Talked, Tabled By Hub Chamber

Directors of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce yesterday discussed briefly a suggested 50 per cent increase in their annual dues, then tabled the matter.

Chamber Secretary-Manager Mrs. Harriet Haly reported that research of chambers in cities the same size as San Anselmo "indicated their dues are a great deal more than ours." She promised a more complete report on her findings later.

Dues of the San Anselmo chamber are $24 per year for most members, with large businesses such as banks paying $48 per year. Associate members pay $18 per year.

Mrs. Haly also reported the chamber's annual installation dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. Jan. 7 at the Meadow Club.

College Aides Still Oppose Tobacco Sale

College of Marin administrators have told student government leaders they will oppose a request that the Marin Junior College board again allow sale of cigarettes on the Kentfield campus.

Donna Ryan, campus center commissioner and initiator of the student request that cigarettes be sold in the new campus center, told the student executive committee yesterday that College President Stephen E. Epler and Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond both said they would oppose the sale.

'This is a health issue," Dean Diamond said today. 'Dr. Epler and I feel that since this is an educational institution, we have the responsibility to interpret the surgeon general's report on smoking and take appropriate action. We don't deny the students right to smoke."

The college board banned the sale of cigarettes on campus in the fall of 1964, following the report of the United States Surgeon General's blue-ribbon committee, which linked smoking and lung cancer.

Last month, the student campus center commission adopted a resolution asking for the sale of cigarettes. The position was endorsed by the executive council. This week, the executive council asked for action at next Thursday's board of trustees meeting.

LBJ Urges New Curbs On Foreign Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration finance experts, seeking to ease the nation's balance of payments deficit, were busy today filling in the blank spaces for a complete set of specific guidelines for business spending abroad.

The aim of the Cabinet committee on balance of payments is to achieve President Johnson's newly announced goal of limiting the dollar outflow to less than $250 million a year. The outgo is running now at five times that rate.

Treasury and Commerce Department officials emphasized in advance there would be no deviation from the government's voluntary approach to overseas spending, inaugurated last February.

No further restrictions on spending by U.S. tourists were anticipated, although Americans are expected to spend $1.8 billion more overseas this year than visitors will spend here.

For the first nine months this year, the payments deficit ran at the annual rate of $1.25 billion. In 1964 the outflow totaled $2.8 billion, and in 1963 it was $2.7 billion.

The new guidelines were prompted, officials said, by continued heavy foreign investments by American firms.

Last month, officials announced that the continuing poor balance-of-payments deficit had triggered new studies of overseas investments and travel. The nation's third-quarter deficit, announced Nov. 17, was $485 million.

It was revealed then, however, that Great Britain has sold an estimated $500 million worth of U.S. stocks and bonds so far in 1965 in an effort to bolster its sagging currency. The sales are registered as part of the U.S. deficit.

Britain still holds an estimated $750 million in U.S. securities, Treasury officials said. But the pound has strengthened in recent months and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said, "We do not expect this (the British sale) to be a recurring factor."

JFK Auction Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — Autograph dealer Charles Hamilton will auction a sketch of John F. Kennedy's feet which his London bootmaker made while he was still a senator. The sketch is autographed, "Senator John F. Kennedy, Hyannisport, Cape Cod, Massachusetts."

Motorists Complain Of Neck Pains

Two motorists complained of neck pains after a two-car crash on Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue, Novato, at 5:20 p.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Pliny W. Hunt, 26, of 60 Jackson Drive, Novato, had just slowed in the fast line to make a left turn into Lamont when his car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Frank S. Yee Jr., 17, of 1321 Olive Street, Novato. Both drivers were to see their own physicians.

Jury Convicts Figure In Los Angeles Rioting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Rena Frye, convicted of interfering with police at the outset of the South Los Angeles riots last August, has been fined $250 and placed on probation for two years.

A 30-day jail term was suspended when sentence was passed yesterday.

Her counsel said an appeal will be filed, on the contention that jurors were prejudiced by prosecution assertions that Mrs. Frye's actions precipitated the riots.

Mrs. Frye, 49, was arrested last Aug. 11 for interfering with officers as they arrested her sons, Marquette, 21, and Ronald, 22, as drunk-driving suspects.

Bystanders began throwing rocks, and rioting broke out, lasting six days.

SEEING THE SOVIET

Boat Trip On The Dnieper

One of a series of articles on a just-completed trip through Russia and India.

By BARBARA HOSMER

From a seat on the deck in the stern of a riverboat one can relax for a few hours and enjoy across the wide, calm expanse of the Dnieper in the late fall afternoon. The scene would have put a Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn at ease — broad placid-seeming waters flowing quietly below the city of Kiev and along the tree-lined embankments.

The boat casts off every two hours from the Kiev waterfront below a stonework embankment of the riverside drive leading down the hills from the city center. A hardy, boot-clad woman, wrapped against the late afternoon air in wool kerchief and thick jacket, hauled in the gangplank and strode forward to let go the bow hawser as the craft pulled away from the pier. Aboard were a small number of lone passengers returning from work and a few teen-aged boys carrying school books and wearing woolen caps with visors.

Swinging into the width of the main channel, we were quickly left in the wake of a hydrofoil skimming southward from the city, a jarring note in an otherwise dreamy Ukrainian evening. Off to the right on the wooded hills of the city a few gold onion-domes of ancient churches glowed faintly with the setting sun above the mists of the river.

From somewhere below deck a radio was tuned to the crucial football match (actually soccer) being played between Kiev and Odessa teams, as an English-speaking passenger was eager to explain. A few small rowboats or motor launches plied the water along the banks carrying some anglers and others could be seen with fishing lines on the sandy edges.

AS THE PASSENGER craft wheeled over to enter one of many winding inlets off of the main river, a group of hardy young men and women in cotton clothes appeared besides us, paddling their kyaks with apparent enjoyment, oblivious to the chill of the fading afternoon.

The craft wound its way along the bends of the smaller river between banks lined with poplars and other lacy trees making a colorful autumnal show before fall gave way to winter snows. Packed-dirt paths led along the low banks and through tall grasses, and here and there a bulldozer or other construction equipment was visible in a clearing, signs of the massive and vigorous building going on on the banks of the Dnieper across from the city of Kiev and of the development program underway in various places along the 1400 mile length of the historic river.

Finally, with a hoot of the horn, the skipper slowed the engines and moved the 70 foot craft to a small wooden landing where a couple stood talking with another man. Some 50 feet up the bank stood an unpainted planked cottage, likely the home of the couple who were on hand to assist the ferry on its rural route. A passenger boarded, some packages were left, the distaff crew of one exchanged a few shouted words with the skipper, hauled in the line, and we were on to the next landing up the bend of the river which narrowed with each turn.

Passengers, a few each landing, came and went on the commuter craft, which was often met by an excited barking dog, which had to be silenced with a few friendly pats from the owner or his neighbors. The men wore the thick overcoats and scarves with caps or the more countrified costume of heavy long jackets with wide trousers tucked into boots halfway to the knee. The women favor the trousers and boots for heavy outdoor work, but most wear the thick woolen overcoats and short boots for general non-city wear in the cold months.

AT THE END of the line the craft was turned and repeated its calls along the banks, each marked with a blast from the horn to summon the passengers. The deep yellows and reds of the stands of forest along the way began to fade deeper into the twilight haze and as we turned to the main river again we could barely make out a swimmer at the edge of one of the wide sandy beaches having an invigorating dip at the end of a day. The kyakers and fishermen were no longer in sight.

CROSSING under one main bridge linking the city side with the miles of newly constructed apartment blocks on the other side, the boat pushed across the channel upstream toward where the other main bridge spanning the Dnieper at Kiev was just visible.

One final whistle from the wheelhouse, the deck hand pulled the gangplank across to the pier and she bid the passengers 'dos fedanya" for another day.

UP ON the cobblestone street they began the climb toward the trolley line leading into the city on the hills above, where with luck, a hot supper would be waiting.

Mill Valley AAUW Plans Holiday Tea In Sausalito

Mill Valley's branch of the American Assn. of University Women will honor three new members and prospective members at a Christmas tea to be given Dec. 8 from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Harold Thomas Rogers, Portofina-Riviera Apartments, Sausalito. The new members are Mesdames George Stevens, David Valente and John Crane.

Chairman for the tea is membership chairman Mrs. Charles Murphy, who is being assisted by Mesdames Paul Geerling, William Broderick, Charles Fauvre, Frederick Zulch and John Crane.

Special invitations have been extended to Mrs. Edward Moraes, state membership of the AAUW, and to the new teachers in the Mill Valley school district.

In addition to its social purpose the tea will give new members an orientation in the organization's aims and accomplishments, as well as acquaint them with activities of the branch. The branch has study sections in education, law and citizen, lively arts, Marin planning and world affairs. Two bridge groups meet in the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Murphy has anounced that 13 colleges and universities have been added to the list of institutions meeting requirements for membership in the AAUW and that their graduates are eligible for membership.

Lutheran Yule Meet Is Planned

The business meeting and installation of officers for 1966 will follow. To be installed by the pastor, the Rev. Gerald Garlid, are Mesdames Ray Quale, president; Andrew Haxton, vice president; Ralph McFadden, secretary; Stuart Burt, treasurer; Milton Frick, education secretary; and Carl Anderson, stewardship secretary.

The evening will close with a social hour. The Elizabeth Circle, Mrs. Calvin Fields, chairman, is in charge of refreshments.

Junior Teen Dance

A Christmas dance and party will be held for junior teen members of the Tiburon Peninsula Club from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., Dec. 21 at the clubhouse.

Federated Clubs To Meet Dec. 10

Marin County federated club presidents and their community improvement chairmen will join with San Francisco and San Mateo County federated clubs in attending a special meeting in South San Francisco at the Holiday Inn on Dec. 10 to assist them in the types of community improvement projects as determined by local needs.

The meeting will open at 10:30 a.m., and continue until 2 p.m., with luncheon at noon.

All federated women's clubs are eligible to enter the program—and no matter how large or small a city, how prosperous or poor, it is the initiating of a plan by the club and securing the cooperation of others as to what the club can accomplish in this activity, according to Mrs. Barca.

The key to a successful community improvement project is education. Therefore, the workshop will help clubs in planning the techniques of examining their own communities and planning productive projects as sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

CERTAIN SECURITY

Many Factors Enter Into Buying Gifts For Children

By DAVID NYDICK
(UPI) Education Specialist

Millions of dollars will be spent on gifts for children during the next several weeks. Unfortunately, part of this money will have been wasted because the gifts were not chosen properly. Gifts that are carefully chosen are usually appreciated more and provide greater enjoyment.

An ideal gift should be chosen after careful consideration of the child's age, ability, interests and personality. If these factors are satisfied, the gift is more likely to become a favorite plaything.

You surely have heard of cases when an expensive doll has been discarded and an old ragdoll continued as the favorite. Disappointing? It shouldn't be. Adults do similar things. There is a certain security in familiar items.

DON'T ALWAYS try to replace something which the child has enjoyed and has grown old. Try to find out something about the child's personality and present interests. Don't purchase a quiet game for an extremely active child who spends most of his time on the ballfield. It would also be wrong to buy a baseball glove for a child who dislikes the game or may have no opportunity to play it.

A gift is more appropriate when it is proper for the age level and reasonable for the particular home. A toy or game which is too difficult for the child to understand or too simple to hold his interest will surely end up on the shelf. A 12-year-old girl may not be interested in a play stove if her mother allows her to participate in actual cooking. Double runner ice skates are not appropriate for the child who is already skilled with single runner skates.

Many people feel that a gift should be useful. They realize that usefulness often creates interest. A pull toy can be most valuable for a child learning to walk. A model kit which is not too difficult will help to develop a child's muscle control as well as his ability to follow instructions.

MANY EDUCATIONAL toys aid in the development of academic skills. You may notice that many items are marked for particular age levels. The only caution is to consider the individual child's development which may or may not be average for his age.

Books are excellent gifts for some children. Books are available for all reading levels and on all topics. A personal library can be a treasure for many youngsters.

THE CORRECT equipment will often encourage participation in various activities. The boy who plays first base would surely benefit from a first baseman's glove. The teen-ager who enjoys golf would enjoy a properly fitted set of clubs.

A well chosen gift will be appreciated. Its value is not necessarily related to its cost. An inexpensive gift can bring many hours of pleasure and enjoyment. There is nothing wrong with a useful gift but every gift does not have to provide an education.

Remember that a little investigation will increase the value and sincerity of any gift.

Americans Becoming Conspicuous Renters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Housewives within the next decade will shop for furniture without leaving their homes, and will probably give up their bridge clubs in favor of civic activities.

The rush to the suburbs will subside, with a return to attractive living units in the city near work, and more investments in weekend retreats to "get away from it all."

FEWER FAMILIES will own their own homes, and the emphasis on family and home life will be innovation and change, rather than tradition and stability.

The Stanford Research Institute reported these and other findings in a study of trends through 1975 for the first All-Industry Home Furnishings Conference recently.

The report predicted an end to the era of "conspicuous consumption" with private ownership of homes and other costly durables.

"Americans are becoming conspicuous renters," the report said.

BY 1975 ONE-FIFTH of the entire population will move from one residence to another each year, and about 85 per cent of all Americans will live at some time in a foreign country. Less than 5 per cent of the population will spend their entire lifetime in their home town.

BECAUSE of this mobility, the research report said, most houses would be owned and furnished by contractor-builder-managers, and families will treasure and travel with accessories such as lamps, objects of art and paintings, which take up little space.

Housewives will prefer to rent the larger pieces of furniture rather than cart private belongings from one place to another.

Much shopping will be done from the home via color television. Innovations in furniture retailing will allow the shopper to rent pieces or even whole rooms of furniture which have been finished or upholstered to her preference. There will be more individuality in home decorating.

MOBILE AMERICANS will have less understanding of local governmental delays in satisfying their needs and, while deploring the trend, will look to the federal government to support and control the community.

Few people will hold one job, or even one type of job all their lives, so there will be frequent retraining and education will be a lifelong process. It will be an era of social problem-solving, with most Americans participating. The woman especially, aware of science's ability to control the universe, will be impatient to help bring about more enlightened social control in her community, the report predicted.

ALTHOUGH the days of the "rugged individualist" are nearly over, the trend shows buyers will be treated more on an individual basis than as part of a market.

Women will value spare time and enjoyment more than ownership of things, and the report predicts "the woman of 1975 will be more demanding and more powerful than ever before in history, as she makes herself at home in a world of change."

Alpha Chi's Plan Yule Gathering

Alpha Chi Omerga alumnae will be the honored guests at the President's Christmas Party at the home of Mrs. James C. Palka of San Rafael, on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Alpha Chi's will gather for an evening of holiday cheer, complete with their auction of white elephant gifts and tree ornaments.

The officers of 1965, are starting a new tradition for the Marin County club by taking over the duties of hosting the party. Assisting their president, Mrs. James C. Palka, are Mesdames Roland E. Fenz, vice president; Robert A. Alexander, corresponding secretary; David L. Ludvigson, recording secretary; William Spores, treasurer; J. Thomas Pinckard, Lyre editor; and John A. Miskimen, publicity and historian.

PLACES ARE STILL AVAILABLE FOR COUNCIL CONCERT SERIES

Mrs. Edgar E. Brand, who is handling the bus-luncheon project for the Marin Regional Council of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation, announced that places are still available.

This is possible, she said, since the program does not start for the December San Francisco Symphony concert but will begin in January. The plan is centered around a series of four or five Thursday afternoon concerts with or without luncheon at Trader Vic's or the White Whale in Ghirardelli Square.

Women planning to participate include 11 from Belvedere-Tiburon; Greenbrae, 2; Kentfield 3; Ross, 5; San Anselmo, 1; and San Rafael, 5.

Christmas Touch

Add a Christmas touch to your gift of a green philodendron hastatum or cordatum plant. Tie a red ribbon vertically around the totem pole—that supports the foliage—with the bow at the pole's bottom. Then place pixies or miniatures of Santa's helpers, in red garb, at the pole's top and at its bottom.

Miss Curtin Is Bride In Mission Rite

Mission San Rafael Arcangel was the setting for the Nov. 24 wedding of Maureen Frances Curtin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin of San Rafael, and James Frederick Evermann of Reno.

The birde wore a full length gown of peau de soie and lace with a full train for the noon ceremony. Her sister, Kathleen Ann Curtin of San Rafael, was maid of honor and Audrey Roumiguiere attended as bridesmaid. Both wore full length empire dresses of green velvet.

The bridegroom's brother, Steve Evermann, acted as best man and David White of Oakland and John Bradley of San Rafael ushered.

John J. Curtin Jr., brother of the bride, served as altar boy.

The bride was graduated from Dominican Upper School. She attended College of Marin.

Some Men Don't Know How To Wear A Hat

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —A woman at Texas A&M University thinks men don't know how to wear hats.

"There's more to wearing a hat than just grabbing it off some hook and jamming it on your head," said Fannie Brown Eaton, University clothing specialist.

"THE RIGHT hat style, correctly worn, will do as much to enhance a man's appearance as any other item in his wardrobe," she said. "Unfortunately, some men don't know how to wear a hat correctly."

She offered these suggestions:

Hats should be worn down to the hump on the back of the head and up near the hairline in the front.

Exceptions to this rule are Homburgs, derbies and western hats, which must be worn lower in front

Snap-brim hats should be tilted to one side. Let the brim touch the ear on one side and clear the other ear by one-half to three-quarters of an inch.

Christmas In Marin Dinner Dance Is Scheduled Dec. 11

The fifth annual Christmas in Marin dinner dance for the county's young married set, will be held Dec. 11 at Peacock Gap Country Club. The party begins at 7:30 p.m., with dinner to be served at 9:30 p.m.

Sponsors of the black tie subscription party are Messrs. and Mesdames Harvey Black, Mill Valley; James Crittenden, Belvedere; Don Douglass, Ross; Dwight Merriman Jr., Kentfield; John Raisin, Tiburon; John Robinson, Ross; and Henry Sanderson of San Rafael.

Former sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tilt, who lived in San Anselmo, will miss the dinner-dance this year as they have left for a two year stay in Greece.

Carrying on a tradition of the event, guests are asked to bring a Christmas gift for patients at the Sonoma State Hospital.

Mrs. Douglass is decorations chairman; Mrs. Sanderson, assistant decorations chairman; Mrs. Robinson, reservation; Mrs. Crittenden, publicity; and Mrs. Mer Riman, arranged for the orchestra.

School P-TA Sets Ski Swap, Sale

The San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Assn. will hold a rummage sale and ski swap on Dec. 11, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the school cafeteria.

Pickup chairmen for the event, which will offer assorted items, are Mesdames H. L. Pascoe, C. A. Gallivan, and A. N. Thompson.

Mrs. E. E. DeGraff is in charge of items for ths ski swap. All swap items are to be brought to the cafeteria between 8:30 and 9 a.m.

Cookbooks Now Written For Milkman Too

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) —If on your Christmas list there is a fireman, a sports fan or a tenderfoot gone West, we know just the gift for each.

A cookbook.

We can think of only a few specialists for whom there is—at this writing—no particular culinary guide. But do not despair. There are several shopping days until Christmas in which to look for a cookbook written especially for the milkman, the doorman, the elevator operator and the newspaper delivery boy.

Meanwhile, here are brief comments on recent publications as gift possibilities:

"San Francisco Firehouse Favorites" by Tony Calvello, Bruce Harlow, Georgia Sackett and Shirley Sarvis (Bobbs Merrill)—If the fire laddies eat like this on $1 a day per person, we're off to California to become a volunteer fireman.

"The All-Star Athletes Cook Book" by Oscar Fraley and David Huntley (Centaur Hawthorn)—If these recipes represent a typical cross-section of the nation's athletes, they're not the steak-and-potatoes fraternity.

"Rattlesnake Under Glass" by Martha Eastlake (Simon and Schuster) is a collection of Southwest recipes, ranging from such familiar foods as chile and tamales to less well known soppaillas (Fried bread that puffs like sofa pillows), porcupine in clay and bear roast.

Starnes-McCallum Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Moore of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lavonne McCallum, to Riley Kenneth Starnes of San Rafael.

The bride-elect was graduated from San Rafael High School and San Francisco State College. She is a teacher at the Belvedere Nursery School. Brooke Moore of Yellow Springs, Ohio, is her brother.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Starnes of Grant, Ala., is serving with the U. S. Air Force in Germany. A. J. Dart, Robert and Roy Starnes and Mrs. Harold Keller of Grant are his sisters and brother.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 19.

ENGAGED TO WED are Diana Joan Winters of Hillsborough and Terrance Palmer Witzel of Novato.

Witzel-Winters Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey H. Winters of Hillsborough are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Diana Joan, to Terrence Palmer Witzel of Novato.

The bride-elect, who is the sister of Pamela Winters of Hillsborough, was graduated from San Jose State College and is a teacher in the Belmont School District. Mrs. J. E. Weinberger of San Francisco is her grandmother.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Witzel of Novato, was graduated from the University of California and is working on his master's degree at San Jose State. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. Valerie Witzel of Novato and Ronald Witzel of San Jose are his sister and brother.

No date has been set for the wedding.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

The gay decorations of the holiday season are brightening the homes of Marin once again. Behind these decorative pieces are the traditions and customs of many lands and many peoples. No one knows this better than the women of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center. Each year, for their Greens Sale, they fashion beautiful decorations with roots in many cultures. They show you some of them—and tell you about them—in tomorrow's Marin Magazine.

Young Marin likes action. Sixteen-year-old Mark Brelsford finds his on the motorcycle racing tracks of Northern California. Already he is a veteran of cycle racing and the winner of many trophies. Tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement tells you how Mark got involved in this hobby. And why he thinks it the most exciting sport of all. You will learn that young Mark and his fellow racing riders are a far different breed than "the wild ones" sometimes associated with motorcycling.

Bagpipe Skirl May Launch Memorial Hike For Kennedy

Pipers from the San Francisco Pipers Band may play some tunes for participants in the Kennedy Memorial Hike tomorrow. The hike is to start at 9:30 a.m. from the parking lot at Mountain Home Inn, 810 Panoramic Highway, and proceed to the top of the mountain.

Ex-Marine W. E. Luckey, leading the hike, said the Marine Corps color guard from Treasure Island has agreed to turn out "to give us a boost" on the first leg of the trek. He said he is attempting to get some help from the four-piper band.

Luckey, who lives in San Leandro, hikes on Mount Tamalpais every other weekend. He plans to lead the hikers via the Throckmorton Trail, also called the Hog Back.

"It takes me about 45 minutes to get to the top," the light-footed Luckey said. "But I think it might take the group about an hour." He said he has suggested that persons wishing to, bring lunches.

The hike is to pay a tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy for his role in development of the physical fitness program about three years ago.

Luckey, 53, a salesman of marine goods, sead he plans to say a few words before the hike begins. The pipers if secured, will play and the trip will begin.

Donald Carr, head of the English department, will narrate the program.

The chorus will be heard in such selections a "Lazy River" by Grant, "If I Forget You" by Caeser, "To Our Little Town," a French carol by Malin, and a novelty arrangement of "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

Among numbers to be played by the band are "Beguine for Band" by Eymann and "Athletic Festival" by Prokofiev. The flute section will be featured in "Andantino" by Mozart.

Civil Rights Backers Sponsor Film Showing

MARIN FILM FARE

Bette Davis In Another Chilly Role

By LES DARD

Here's what's happening around Marin area movie houses:

RAFAEL THEATER

Bette Davis takes the intriguing title role of "The Nanny," now on screen, a brand new British mystery-suspense entry.

Bickering, emotional upsets and hints of tragedy disturb the tranquil exterior of the home where Miss Davis is employed.

The daughter of her employers is drowned in a bathtub. Newcomer William Dix, the crafty 10-year-old son is sent away for therapy. When he returns, things start popping.

The boy's mother is mysteriously poisoned and hospitalized. She is temporarily replaced by an aunt, who rather quickly succumbs to heart failure.

Suspicion flits between the incorrigible boy and the nanny. The viewer, after having seen Miss Davis in her last few films, has a pretty fair idea who is the culprit; nevertheless, the suspense is high, and the "what's-going-to-happen-next" atmosphere is kept taut. An admirable achievement.

This one will be enjoyed by the younger set almost as much as by the adults.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

One of Hollywood's brightest stars—the platinum blonde sex symbol of the thirties — is brought to life in Joseph E. Levine's production of "Harlow," now playing.

This is the second filming of Jean Harlow's life in recent months, and is by far the better entry.

Playing the title role is one of today's young sex symbols—they're a more numerous breed now—Caroll Baker. Surrounding her is a big cast, including Red Buttons, Arthur Landau, Peter Lawford, Paul Bern, Angela Lansbury, and Raf Vallone.

Fine escapist fare.

Co-featured is the memorable "Becket," starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole.

101 DRIVE-IN

An off-beat war drama with a personalized view of D-Day in Normandy, "Up From the Beach" is now on screen.

It has some moving moments, but is particularly notable for putting over the point that war is confusion — unbelievable confusion.

The incident is a minor one. It is D-Day plus one, and a group of 23 French civilians, driven from their little village by artillery fire, arrive at Utah Beach to welcome Allied forces.

Infantry Sergeant Cliff Robertson is assigned to conduct the civilians, including men, women and children, to safety. Seems simple, but it turns out otherwise.

Red Buttons co-stars as a Pfc. from the Bronx and pretty Irina Demick as a French resistance leader. Broderick Crawford, James Robertson Justice and Slim Pickens have important roles.

NOVATO THEATER

On screen for tonight and the weekend is "Tickle Me," an Elvis Presley favorite — and if you've enjoyed him before, you won't be disappointed here.

This time our boy plays a rodeo rider who drifts into a beauty ranch, where the ladies go to lose pounds. Except in this case there seems to be no excess poundage visible, just the right amount on the likes of Jocelyn Lane, Julie Adams and Merry Anders.

Jackie Gleason plays an old pro sergeant in "Soldier in the Rain," the co-feature. It's a closeup of the peacetime Army with a blend of humor and pathos. Steve McQueen is also featured.

Waters Belittles State Split Idea

ANAHEIM (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Laughlin E. Waters has criticized a proposal to split California into two separate states, saying family squabbles are normal but "divorce is not the answer."

Waters, in a speech prepared for delivery before a luncheon meeting of the Orange County First Friday Friars Club, said the proposal for two Californias advanced by State Sen. Richard Dolwig, R-Redwood City, was "absurd."

"I don't want to make it more absurd than it is," he said. "But this idea is like walking up to Siamese twins and saying 'let's you and him fight.' "

Waters said he seriously doubted that such a split will materialize.

Prints Display On

Block-print cards by artist William D. Latshaw, of 385 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, will be on display at the "Surprise Shop" in Tiburon through Dec. 31. Paintings by Latshaw will also be shown at the art show scheduled for the Jewish Community Center in San Rafael tomorrow and Sunday.

U.S. Studies Public Fear Of Food Idea

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission predicts that fresh fish preserved by radiation will soon be available to Americans everywhere.

But officials concede that the consumers' "acquired fears of radiation and fallout" may cripple the plan, even though the fish is safe to eat and contains no radioactivity.

The AEC is expecting Food and Drug Administration approval of an application to process the fish for human consumption. If it comes through, it will be a big victory in a prolonged research effort.

The only food item approved so far as radiaion sterilized bacon. Packaged in cans, it is designed to last for months. It is precooked and sterilized with large doses of radiation in a technique developed by the Army.

The Army is trying to get industrial food processors interested in sterilizing other meats so that it can "serve a steak to a G I. in a foxhole," says one scientist.

The AEC's aim is more modest. In the technique it has been developing at its Gloucester, Mass., marine products irradiator, 90 to 99 per cent of the spoilage bacteria are destroyed. This is a form of pasteurizing, keeping the fish for two weeks to 20 days.

Irradiated fish requires refrigerated storage just as other fresh fish do, but it stays fresh much longer.

Sterilization, on the other hand, kills all spoilage-causing bacteria and products so processed need not be refrigerated. But sterilization demands a radiation dose about 20 times as large as used in pasteurization.

The AEC feels that technical progress has been so great that private companies can now take over commercial radiation of at least six fish varieties: Cod, haddock, ocean perch, pollack, flounder, and sole. Within a few months, the commission also plans to seek a consumption permit for irradiated shrimp.

The AEC would like to avoid using the term "radiation" in labeling the fish, its scientists insist the process is similar to simple heating, with the radiant energy passing through the fish killing bacteria enroute.

However, "some people have reluctance to touch anything handled by radiation," says George Dietz, an AEC specialist. Radiation doses to which fish are exposed for about an hour are carefully perscribed by the Food and Drug Administration. These doses are well below the level which could make the fish radioactive, he said.

Convincing consumers, however, is something else again. "Some people say 'the government tells us to be careful of radiation and now it has put radiation into fish'—but there's no radiation in the fish," says Dietz.

Already in wide use in this country are radiation-strengthened plastics, often used in food stores to pack oranges and other fruit. Consumers have never objected to the use of radiation in non-food items, notes Dietz—possibly because many don't know radiation was involved in their manufacturer.

Since last April, the AEC has pasteurized more than 10,000 pounds of fish at Gloucester, working with private food processors who are interested in the technique.

Large-scale teste panels have sampled the product. Irridation produced no detectable taste changes in the fish, Dietz says.

Thanks to technical improvements, ham, pork, chicken, and beef sterilized by the Army in a test program "today are terrific products," says Dietz. A few years ago, however, people said these irradiated items tasted like "burnt feathers" or "wet dog."

The AEC soon will install portable irradiation units aboard two government research vessels to pasteurize fish as soon as it is caught. One ship will operate out of Gloucester and the other from Pascagoula, Miss., concentrating on shrimp irradiation.

While this would keep fish even fresher, commission scientists say they really don't expect owners of small fishing boats to install irradiators.

"I don't think radiation will knock out canning, freezing, or other processes, but certainly it will take a place alongside," says Dietz. The AEC's hope is to make fresh marine products available to people far from costal areas.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Minimize Tension, Anxiety To Cut Distress Of Ulcer

VAN DELLEN

Gastric acidity is the bugaboo of all peptic ulcer victims. Many have an inherent disposition to over-react to ordinary stress and anxiety. The end result for these individuals is an excessive amount of acid in the stomach.

It is now possible to determine when a person is dreaming by studying the brain waves and eye movement. During these periods, ulcer victims have from three to 20 times more gastric acidity than do normal individuals. Testing the secretions at the same time usually reveals a marked increase of gastric acidity. This does not occur to normal people.

A GROUP of Los Angeles physicians demonstrated that not all dreams were accompanied with this increase. They believed that the offenders were only those stressful to the ulcer victim. Eating also increases acidity and several volunteers recalled dreaming about food.

It is impossible to determine how much this contributes to the over-all ulcer picture. Statistics show that healing occurs in 90 per cent with rest, diet, and antacid drugs.

Relief is not always permanent and the rate of recurrence is high. Almost 65 per cent of the duodenal ulcers reappear within two and one-half years and 80 per cent within five years.

ULCER DISTRESS usually returns during trying times and the recurrence rate can be reduced by minimizing tension and anxiety. Tobacco, caffeine, alcohol, and dietary indiscretion often are blamed unnecessarily. Most sufferers resort to these vices when the going gets tough and excessive smoking, drinking, or eating becomes an excellent excuse.

The usual antacids act by neutralizing stomach acidity which relieves pain and promotes healing. The anti-cholingeric drugs, such as Pro-Banthine, accomplish the same by quieting the nerves that govern the churning movements and the acid-producing cells.

Sedatives tend to shorten dream time and may be of value when ulcer discomfort is difficult to control.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

EXERCISES

Mrs. B. writes: Can anything be done to strengthen a child's feet and ankles?

REPLY

Nonspecific exercises consist of walking, running, jumping, and skating. Specific exercises for arch development include walking on the toes and the outer aspect of the feet as well as picking up marbles with the toes.

SHOT TIME

Mrs. M. M. writes: When is the best time for babies to be vaccinated?

REPLY

During the first six months of life. When done early, there are fewer reactions, and if they should occur, they are less severe. Furthermore, protection seems to last longer than if the procedures are done at school age.

TITLE OF PHYSICIAN

H. H. writes: How long have physicians been called doctors in this country?

REPLY

For at least 300 years, according to Veits. The word physician was used among the more learned from about 1650, but the earliest recorded instance is said to be found in the 1668 archives of the Roxbury church in Massachusetts.

IT'S AN OPERATION

Mrs. F. writes: Is the removal of hemorrhoids considered surgery?

REPLY

Yes, as anyone who has undergone the procedure will testify.

New Glue May Prove A Boon To Surgeons

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—A new tissue "glue" that could lead to vastly simplified artery surgery has been developed by federal scientists.

In animal experiments the cement has eliminated the need for troublesome sutures. The substance is not ready for human use, but with further refinement the process may work out as an important new surgical tool.

Adhesive materials have been tried before — with uneven results. Either the stuff loosens up in the presence of body moisture or it is toxic to the tissue it is supposed to fuse.

According to the noted woman heart surgeon, Dr. Nina S. Braunwald, and her partner in the experiments, Dr. Constantine J. Tatooles, the new substance is superior to cements currently available. They are associated with the National Heart Institute.

They have used the glue—a mixture of gelatin, resorcinol and formaldehyde—to seal off bleeding from deep surgical incisions in the livers and kidneys of animals. Follow-up tests over six months showed mild short-lived inflammation around the cement, but this was no more intense than tissue reaction to catgut sutures.

Afterward, healing was complete with little scarring.

The successful tests suggest the possibility of applying the glue, or some refined version of it, to repair the tiny arteries and veins of the body. Presently, repair of smaller diseased blood vessels is hampered by the lack of a substantial surface to attach sutures. A workable cement, substituting for sutures, could get around this roadblock, the animal tests indicate.

The adhesive was developed in collaboration with the polymer research division of Batelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio. The adhesive uses gelatin as a starting material. This seems to work well because it is derived from collagen, the natural connective-tissue cement that binds cells and tissues together in the body.

By itself it is only a fairly good sticking agent. However, when it is treated with formaldehyde and resorcinol, an alcohol chemically similar to benzene, the combination turns into a good glue.

Moreover, it appears to be less toxic than anything tried to date. But there are still bugs to be worked out. Formaldehyde and resorcinol can irritate tissue. This is not a great problem in regions well supplied by blood. But it becomes troublesome when used on arterial wall tissues, which are composed of elastic and connective-tissue fibers poorly supplied by blood.

Drs. Braunwald and Tatooles are now alternating mixtures of the glue's ingredients with a chemical they hope will neutralize this tissue-irritating quality. The investigation is being pushed on a hopeful note.

If Columbus had been born earlier, he probably could not have made his voyage to America. Boats were small; seamen could not sail into the wind and so stayed close to land. The compass was not available, and the stars had not been charted accurately. It was not until the mid-15th Century that ocean navigation was established as a science.

More Study Urged On Park Proposals

SAN FRANCSICO (AP)—After long discussion of proposals for a national redwood park, the state Board of Forestry recommended yesterday further study before any action is taken.

The board commended Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Hugo Fisher, administrator of the resources agency, for appointing the task force studying economic, tax and employment factors concerned.

The motion said the study should be continued so that the interests of California would not be subject to emotionalism.

In other actions, the board:

1. Approved a revised $2,516,153 state fire prevention budget for next year. The board previously had approved in principle a $3,019,015 budget request but this figure subsequently was reduced. The board was told that reduction of the budget would not seriously handicap the fire prevention effort and that the state would get the same number of fire fighters it did this year.

2. Approved a plan of forest practices applicable to slightly more than 4,000 acres of Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. land in Humboldt County. The board was informed by a Division of Forestry officer who checked the plan that the land is covered with groups of old trees, intermixed with thick young growth.

He said that if any more than a light thinning is done, it would be necessary to cut all the timber or it would blow down in a storm. Weyerhaeuser proposed to cut it all and reforest, as it has done in its successful tree farming programs elsewhere.

The board's policy is to keep private timberlanas under private ownership.

DeWitt Nelson, director of the Department of Conservation, said that of the nine redwood park proposals, all would put the Rellim Lumber Co. out of business. Some proposals woud hurt other lumbering companies.

The proposals, varying from $37 to $120 million for timberland acquisition, would involve lands varying from 37,000 to 97,000 acres. Nelson said he could find no data as to how such a park would affect employment or tax base in the Northern California counties concerned.

Bridge District Meetings Slated

Six committees of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will meet in varying combinations Wednesday morning at the administration building next to the bridge toll plaza.

The district's finance committee will sit in on each of the five sessions.

After meeting alone at 10:30 a.m., finance committee members will meet with the new San Francisco - Marin - crossing committee and commuters affairs committee at 10:45 a.m.; with the building and operating committee at 11 a.m., with the rules and policy committee at 11:15 a.m.; and again with the new crossing committee at 11:30 a.m.

CARPENTER IN SPACE CAPSULE—This is Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who went from Navy test pilot into the space program, as he inserted himself through the hatch into the Aurora-7 space capsule on May 24, 1962, for his three-orbit space tour around the earth. Carpenter more recently became an explorer of the ocean depths in the Navy's Sealab 2. He'll be in Marin on Dec. 17 for appearances at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley on behalf of Christmas seals. (National Aeronautics and Space Administration photo from United Press International)

Maguire School Awaiting Astronaut-Aquanaut Visit

Malcolm Scott Carpenter, the only man ever to both orbit the earth in space and explore the depths of the sea, will be in Marin County on Dec. 17 on a tour in behalf of the sale of Christmas seals.

The Colorado-born astronaut will visit Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley for informal question and answer sessions with pupils from 9 to 11 a.m. Because the school's largest room will not accommodate the whole student body, there will be two one-hour sessions, each for half of the pupils. High school news bureau representatives will also be invited to attend, announced the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn., which is sponsoring Carpenter's appearance.

It is highly questionable whether Carpenter will be asked many questions about Christmas seals. The school children, doubtless, will want to talk about flights in space and descents into the ocean's depths.

Carpenter became the second American to circle the earth in a space vehicle when he made three orbits in the Aurora-7 capsule at 17,532 miles per hour on May 24, 1962. This was three months after John H. Glenn became America's first astronaut.

This year, Carpenter changed from astronaut to acquaraut to spend a record 30 days 205 feet below thes urface of the Pacific in the Sealab 2 mission.

But Christmas seals are important to Carpenter, who is the 1965 seal sale chairman of the National Tuberculosis Assn.

"My family is strong for Christmas seals," he says. "They helped my mother stage a comeback from tuberculosis. As a result of medical research and education financed by Christmas seals, she became an arrested case and was able to live a normal and happy life for years, although she finally died of the disease in 1962."

Edna Maguire School was selected for Carpenter's public appearance in Marin because it is the seventh-eighth grade school of Mill Valley School District, where the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. and county health department will conduct district-wide tuberculin testing in February.

Marin Citizens Score Well In National Test

A spot sampling of persons taking the recent National Citizenship Test showed scores of Marin County residents well above average. In fact, the national average of 63 per cent was topped by Marin's overall 83 per cent.

The sampling, done by the Marin Leagues of Women Voters, compared favorably with the nationally selected groups of congressmen and their wives, political party workers and high school honor students. The leagues collected data regarding the telecast of government, law and citizens' obligations and tabulated the following local results to compare with those given on the program.

Eight league telephone committees, made calls in Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Mill Valley, Corte Madera, Larkspur, Kentfield, Ross, Terra Linda and Novato.

Of those called, 99 per cent were able to name at least one of their senators and 86 per cent could name both. Nationally, only 60 per cent could name one senator and 41 per cent could not name either one.

Marin voters were most knowledgeable on questions concerning citizenship rights, "you and your government," and voting. Most missed were questions on legal rights in the field of free speech and the obligation to answer census questions.

Another question which gave trouble was "help or call" in the case of an injured robbery victim. Many persons felt this could not be answered generally. One out of three felt they would prefer to offer assistance before telephoning police.

The series of questions requiring specific details while witnessing the commission of a crime scored lowest. Only 57 per cent of all questions needing accurate recall were answered correctly and only 38 per cent could identify the kind of car used in the getaway. In New York the scores were 72 and 17 per cent respectively.

Marin thinking on opinion questions followed closely that of the senators, high school students and political party workers. Nine out of 10 persons contacted preferred to make no change in the Fifth Amendment. A great majority felt there should be a change in the nomination of party candidates for president. Two out of five preferred state primaries; one out of two wanted a national primary; only one person in 20 felt the present system was best; one in 10 had no opinion.

Sausalito Kindergarten Has Key Role In Integration Try

By BRUCE COLEMAN
(Last of three articles)

"This is the age they have ants in their pants," said Mrs. Thelma Whittington.

Mrs. Whittington is lead kindergarten teacher at Sausalito School District's sole kindergarten school—Manzanita, in Marin City.

It was a rainy day and the pupils—Orientals, Negroes and Caucasians, completely homogenized on the floor — were squirming.

Peggy Jo Shaw, kindergarten teacher, was at the piano. The children leaped up to begin circle games where they had to choose partners, and Miss Shaw played a lively "Doing the Hokey Pokey."

Teachers and administrators believe that this, the kindergarten age, is the telling one and therefore the real hope of the district, which was completely integrated Sept. 13. They say at this age there is no discrimination, or practically none.

"Mr. (Ralph) Magnussen (principal of Manzanita and Bayside Schools) says we're the guiding light," said Mrs. Whittington. "There's nothing showing here. These children are not prejudiced. They don't discriminate unless it comes from the home. Just once "did I have any remark about color."

She said integration is thrown off a little bit due to the fact that all children from the Army forts must attend school in the morning.

I.Q.'s, she said, are high, medium and low in any nationality. Mrs. Whittington said there are six kindergarten classes, the largest containing 27 pupils.

"The future of the Sausalito district is strictly unpredictable in terms of specifics," according to Supt. Charles Lavaroni.

Lavaroni, new in his post following the resignation of Supt. Marcus F. Davis late in June, cancelled all appointments on the first day of rain this season to witness how pupils get along at schools during this more trying time.

Working toward the future, said Lavaroni, are the building study committee and an inter-district committee working with Mill Valley on inter-group relations.

The personable superintendent cites keen parent interest in the schools, with large numbers of people turning out for board meetings and large numbers of volunteers.

The board, he said, had the nerve to ask for a committee of 100 for the building study committee when there are fewer than 1,000 children in the district. Almost that many showed up.

Droves of people have turned out as volunteers, he added. There are now 92 volunteers helping in libraries, classrooms and playgrounds.

"Right here (Sausalito) is the beginning and the real climax of the anti-poverty program," declares Robert Rogers.

Rogers, who headed the Sausalito citizen committee which urged integration, says it "will, of necessity, bring parents of Sausalito and Marin City in closer into a united effort of understanding. This will be a side benefit of the total program." He also mentioned that whereas there were once three Parent-Teacher Associations, there is now one unified one.

Desegragation alone does not make Sausalito School District exceptional.

The district is the richest elementary school district in Marin County outside of one and two-schoolroom districts. Sausalito is $6,000 richer per child than the next richest district, Reed, which has $25,000 per pupil.

Yet the district is poor in that 98 per cent of its assessed valuation is from the City of Sausalito, whereas 49 per cent of the enrollment is from Marin City.

The district has more federal and state-aided special programs than any other district in the county, and is seeking still another, a six-year San Francisco State College teacher training program.

Federal and state aid programs include the pre-school program, the tutoring program for pupils from third grade through high school, the hot lunch program, and the National Defense Education Act elementary school guidance program. Sausalito also is believed to be only district in California where the county is partially supporting a capital outlay program for building.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, in an unusual move, became superintendent of the Sausalito district this summer while a replacement was sought for Davis who resigned.

He said the district has one of the lowest teacher-pupil ratios in the county — 24 pupils to one teacher; is one of the few districts where "cluster grouping" is used; the only district in California to hold a boycott commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Supreme Court's desegregation order. On May 18, last year, 200 Negroes boycotted schools and attended a "freedom school."

"They said, if you desegregate, you will end up losing 250 to 300 kids. We started school with more pupils in Sausalito than we ended up with last June —not counting Mill Valley," said Hollis.

"Sure, we have problems. But even in the established systems such as San Rafael and Mill Valley you have problems. But every day we're trying to improve. The people have confidence. They have confidence we are making progress."

Drake Students Get Ready To Paint Town—For Santa

An army of 40 Sir Francis Drake High School students, armed with paint and brushes, will set out at 8:30 a.m. Saturday to paint Christmas decorations on the doors and windows of 22 downtown San Anselmo business houses.

The youths, all members of the Drake High School Art Club, have taken the project on through an agreement with the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce. The chamber will donate $100 to the school scholarship fund in return for the work of the young artists, said Joseph Rooney, art teacher at the high school.

The students have been preparing window designs after school for more than three weeks, said Rooney.

A free pass to the Tamalpais Theater will be given to each participating student, and the young artist whose window design is judged best of the group will have a painting framed free at the Patrick Bros. art supply store, Rooney said.

The students will be divided into five groups headed by Richard Miller, Suzanne Gottschalk, Philip Homer, Cynthia Dyer, and Trudy Owen.

Amateur Radio Club To Install

Marin Amateur Radio Club officers for 1966 will be installed at a dinner meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Deer Park Villa on Bolinas Road in Fairfax.

Fred Laubscher will replace Steve Cerwin as president, Stuart MacDonald will replace Paul Steinmetz as vice president, Gary Grant will replace James E. French as secretary, and Ernest Cavestri will remain treasurer.

The "Marin Ham of the Year" award will be presented to the member judged the greatest contributor to amateur radio during the year.

Heaviest-Yet Agenda Confronts County Planning Commissioners

The Marin County Planning Commission will be faced with one of the heaviest agendas in its history.

The meeting is to begin at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center. It could continue into the wee hours of Tuesday morning.

Included on the agenda are consideration of the West Marin master plan, amendments to the Marincello master plan, discussion of the alignment of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening, proposed rezoning on Grandview Avenue at Black Point, proposed deletion of the interim zoning ordinance, and 30 other probably less controversial items.

Consideration of the Dias Ranch master plan is also on the agenda, but planning commissioners have already agreed this should be postponed until Jan. 17.

Commission Chairman Felix M. Warburg said today that he is concerned about the agenda.

First item is further debate on the architectural supervision asked by Loyal Davis for a 12-unit apartment at 548 Miller Avenue near Mill Valley. This has been the topic of lengthy discussion the past. The commission has promised to act on the application Monday.

Number six on the agenda is the application of Philip Rosenberg for rezoning from manufacturing to residential, either single-family or apartment, on Grandview Avenue, west of Manzanita Avenue, at Black Point. Subdivision of the 10-acre site is proposed.

The West Marin master plan, along with a lengthy committee report, will be number eight on the agenda. Road locations and residential density have been at issue in the plan and could bring lengthy discussion.

Number 15 on the agenda is the move to reclassify interim areas in the county, putting them under the provisions of the detailed county zoning ordinance. This move has been strongly protested by residents of rural areas now in the "interim D" zone.

Number 17 on the agenda is the order by the board of supervisors to amend the Marincello master plan to make the Tennessee Valley portion conform with the Tennessee Valley master plan, thus deleting multiple housing in that part of Marincello, to explore covenants or deed restrictions as a means of assuring that the plan will be carried out as proposed, and to study access by way of Bunker Hill (Tunnel) Road or other possible routes in that vicinity.

Report from the County Department of Public Works on three plans for widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Laurel Grove Avenue and Ross town limits is number 19 on the agenda.

Generally, the three choices are, taking 40 feet on the east, taking 40 feet on the west, or taking 20 feet on either side of the existing right of way.

Siemens Appointed To New Committee

Dr. John C. Siemens of 10 Turnagain Road, Kentfield, administrator of Ross General Hospital, has been appointed to the newly established California Hospitals and Related Health Facilities and Services Planning Committee.

The 24-member committee authorized by the latest session of the state legislature, will assist with regional planning of community hospitals. Dr. Siemens is one of two non-governmental hospital administrators on the committee.

Shoplifting Reported

S. W. Schneider reported to Mill Valley police yesterday that during the day someone stole an electric screwdriver from his store, Varney's Hardware, at 57 Throckmorton, Mill Valley. It was the second shoplift there within a week, Schneider reporting that a $40 electric blender had been stolen last Saturday.

Fine, Jail Given In Battery Case

A 10-day county jail sentence and $56 dollar fine were given Robert Lee Edney, 22, of 21 Park Road, Fairfax, in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for battery of a Santa Clara motorist. He had pleaded guilty.

He struck George C. Jennings in the face following a driving and horn-honking dispute in San Anselmo last Sept. 25. A second count, malicious property damage, had been dismissed with his other plea.

Minority Job Drive Opens In Marin

Marin County employers this week were asked to help find jobs for Negroes and members of other minority groups.

Questionnaires, accompanied by a letter from Peter H. Behr, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, were mailed by the employment task force committee of the county's Human Rights Commission.

"On-the-job training is an important way to improve employment opportunities," said Behr in the letter. He further explained that the state's Department of Industrial Relations has agreed to supply consultants from its apprenticeship standards division to help employers set up training programs.

Actual training costs, Behr said, may be repaid by federal funds.

"We understand that up to $520 per trainee is available for this project," he said.

The questionnaires are designed to show where openings might exist for "skilled or trainable Negroes or other minorities."

Information from the returns will be used by the committee to place Negroes and to help set up placement procedures and job training projects. Similar questionnaires were sent earlier to public agencies.

European's Brilliant Lead Just Case Of Digging His Own Grave

There's something very heart-warming about seeing a man hard at work digging a pit, especially if he ends up by falling into it.

Kibitzers had this pleasure at the 1948 European Championships in the Sweden-Belgium match.

Opening lead — ♣ 8

The contract was six diamonds at both tables of the match. At the first table, the Swedish expert in the West position led the king of clubs, ruffed by South.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the king and ace, then led a heart to finesse with the jack.

SWEDEN WINS

West ruffed, and South still had to lose a heart trick.

Down one for Belgium, and a score of 100 points for Sweden.

At the second table, West opened the eight of clubs hoping that his partner would win the first trick with the jack.

If this daring maneuver worked, East would surely return a heart, and West would be the toast of the town for his brilliant opening lead.

NO TOAST

Instead of toast, West got egg — over his face.

East played the jack of clubs at the first trick, but South ruffed.

What's more, Dr. Einar Werner, who played the South hand for Sweden, worked out what was going on in clubs — and understood West's reason for the brilliant lead.

Werner therefore drew trumps with the king, queen and ace. Then he led the nine of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

When this held (it would not have helped East to play the ten), Werner continued with the other heart and finessed with the jack.

He gave up only one heart trick, making his slam and scoring 1370 points for Sweden.

"Your lead deserved a better fate," Dr. Werner magnanimously observed to West.

Even the bridge players are polite in Sweden!

♣ J 5 4 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

This shows strong trump support with a singleton or void in a side suit, but not more than nine points in high cards.

The Most Up-To-Date Method Of Buying And Selling Real Estate

MULTIPLE LISTING

• IT GETS FASTER RESULTS!

• IT COSTS NO MORE!

Thousands of homes have been sold by Marin REALTORS through the efficiency of the Marin County Multiple Listing Service.

This modern cooperative system has conclusively proved to property owners its value as a sales asset.

Unlike the "old days" you do not have to shop around from office to office to list your house. Today you sign one agreement with one MARIN REALTOR, and your listing—with photograph and giving complete details—is broadcast from the Real Estate Board office to its entire membership. Automatically the property you wish to sell is called to the attention of a Sales Force of more than 994 realty experts. Any Marin REALTOR will multiple list your home. Whether he or a fellow REALTOR sells it, only one commission is paid.

Phone your nearest Marin REALTOR, ask him to put your name on Multiple Listing.

FBI Chief's Probable Heir Gets Promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cartha D. De Loach, 45, an FBI agent since 1942, has been appointed assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The promotion, disclosed yesterday increased speculation that the 70 year old Hoover was grooming De Loach to possibly succeed him when he retires. Although the attorney general will name Hoover's replacement, the FBI chief's recommendation presumably would carry weight.

Little is known of the origin of Great Dane dogs.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Those Phone Calls Mighty Interesting

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —If watching or reading about television has any effect on viewers, it seems often to be of a personal sort: Perhaps because of the home setting, or the surface cameraderie implicit in sharing an instantaneous experience, via broadcasting, with millions of others.

For in addition to the mostly straightforward and sometimes crackpot notes—and other communications — received by this writer from viewers, there have been some that have been a bit unusual, though generally sincere and polite.

On last year's presidential election night, I was working at getting out my article, and the deadline was near. Suddenly the phone rang. It was late at night, and I assumed it was a personal call—but the long-distance operator said she was trying to reach the man who writes about television for UPI. Her party got on, and he was a very nice man calling from either Arizona or New Mexico—I forget which—and he was very upset because all three of the television stations in his town were carrying election results and nothing else.

"Can't you do something about this kind of stuff?" he asked. I told him the story was, after all, pretty important, but that similar complaints had been made from time to time, and that he had an interesting general point, and I would mention it, which I later did.

I then tried to end the conversation, but he kept talking, and I was growing somewhat desperate as the deadline neared. I finally politely cut him short and hung up when I couldn't do anything else. Apparently he immediately tried to place the call serveral more times because the operator rang, but I had to refuse the added talk.

Another time, a gentleman called and said he and his wife ran what I understood to be a sort of health resort, and asked please whether I could put him in contact with Hedy Lamarr so they could invite her to their place. They wouldn't charge her anything—any financial compensation later on would be entirely at her discretion, but it wasn't necessary. And also, by the way, if I heard of anyone else along those theatrical lines, they would make the same kind of agreement.

I told the gentleman, who also seemed a very sincere fellow, that his best procedure would be to call the Screen Actors Guild and get in touch with Miss Lamarr's representatives, but that I certainly couldn't do anything myself, and he said thank you very kindly, and I said you're welcome, and that was that. I don't know what happened, but he never did invite me free to his resort, although that was something that I definitely would have tried to work out.

Auto Industry Bows To Women

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Women drivers will outnumber the men on American highways within a few years—influencing auto makers to stress safety, dependability and ease of handling, say two business specialists.

"Women are more practical-minded about cars, drive less aggressively than men, and have an over-all better accident record," say Dr. Daniel D. Gage of Sacramento State College and Dr. Anne C. Garrison of Michigan State University.

Their report on the history and some future prospects of the auto industry was published by MSU's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Educators Ask More State Aid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Assn. of School Administrators has passed resolutions asking for more state financial aid and less federal controls.

The association ended a week-long meeting in San Francisco yesterday by electing Dr. Norman Scharer of Santa Barbara as its new president. Dr. Scharer has been school superintendent in Santa Barbara for the past 25 years. He succeeds Dr. Robert Jenkins of Pasadena.

The 269 superintendents also passed resolutions calling for per teacher—and for state and federal support for voluntary pre-school programs for youngsters.

Briber Tackled By Pro Gridder, FBI

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Schweickert of the New York Jets hasn't caught a pass as a pro football player, but he helped the FBI catch an Army recruiting sergeant who allegedly solicited a $200 bribe from the player to help him beat the draft.

The recruiting sergeant, arrested yesterday, was identified by the FBI as Staff Sgt. Winfred Lewis, an 18-year veteran who won three battle stars in Korea and earned a purple heart as well because of a shrapnel wound in the leg.

John F. Malone, assistant director of the New York office of the FBI, said FBI agents arrested Lewis outside a recruiting station in the Jackson Heights section of Queens after Schweickert handed him the bribe.

The 22-year-old Schweickert, a former star Virginia Tech quarterback who signed for a reported $100,000 bonus and has been turned into a receiver, reported for his Army pre-induction physical about two weeks ago, according to the Jets.

The FBI said Lewis had solicited a sum of money from the player to see that his name would be placed at the top of the waiting list to join the National Guard, enabling Schweickert to serve six months of active duty instead of two years if he were drafted.

According to Sonny Weblin, the Jets' owner, Schweickert was told by the sergeant that

Independent-Journal Sports

FOURTH SECTION Friday, Dec. 3, 1965 41

the matter could "be properly taken care of — $200 would do the trick."

"Bob told us immediately about the matter," said Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank in San Diego where the team meets the Chargers in an American Football League game Saturday.

"He told us, 'I want to play football and fulfill my military obligation. But I certainly don't want to be part of anything illegal'."

The FBI statement said in part:

"Allegedly Lewis, when contacted by a draft-eligible member of the New York Jets football team, solicited a sum of money and in return, Lewis would see that this individual was put at the top of the list of those desiring to enter the National Guard. . . .

"This information was furnished to the FBI through the cooperation of the New York Jets management after they had been contacted by one of their players who had immediately reported this information."

Lewis, married and the father of one child, faces a maximum penalty, if convicted, of 15 years in prison and a $20,000 fine. He was arraigned before U.S. commissioner Max Schiffman and released in his own recognizance to await grand jury action.

Schweickert, one of college football's glamor boys in 1963 when he led Virginia Tech to the Southern Conference title, set school and conference records for rushing and total offense as a quarterback.

He as a fourth-round draft choice of the Jets, who wanted him primarily as a running back or a flanker despite the fact he was a quarterback in college.

He since has been working as a receiver but has spent most of his time on the taxi, or reserve, squad. Schweickert was activated on Oct. 29 but was returned to the inactive list Nov. 21.

Well-Read Dogmatic Critic Wonders: Who Muzzled Fouts?

Frankly, folks, I'm worried about Bob Fouts. During last Sunday's telecast of the San Francisco-Minnesota game the 49er announcer whistled for his Irish setter only three times. That is to say he used the term "red dog" only thrice, which is far below his usual performance. Why, that's like Wimpy cutting down to three burgers, Cassius Clay to three words, Bing Crosby to a simple boo-boo-boo and the Beatles to a minimum of yeah-yeah-yeah.

I tell ya', a muzzled Fouts has us fans worried. Has he grown tired of his crimson collie and scarlet schnauzer?

I NOTICED the 49er barker relying more and more on the word "blitz" to describe what all those red dogs have been doing for all these years. The pooches are old, but blitz is even older—I remember the World War II, when the red dogs were just pink pups.

Surely, Fouts can do better than blitz, a colorless word. I'd like to hear him stick to the canine kingdom with just a little more variation in shade and breed, wouldn't hue?

TRUE, RED is the 49er color, but so is gold. Why, then, when a 49er linebacker crashes the line, doesn't Fouts say, "Hazeltine is Golden Terrierizing Johnny Unitas!"

Of course, he could work from there, depending on the colors of the other teams. Wouldn't it be fun to hear Fouts describe a Viking linebacker "Purple Poodling quarterbark John Brodie"? And this, "The Packers are unleashing the Green Growlers on this play."

THE BLACK and white telecasts would be brought to you in living growler. Terms like Lavender Labradors, White Woofers, Chartreuse Chihuahuas, Blue Beagles, Gray Hounds, Brown Barkers, Old Yeller, Wine Weimaraners, Darkchunds and Darker Spaniels would be colorful additions to football's nomenclature.

I THINK I'd like that more than the blah blitz or cardinal canine Fouts has been using. Am I asking too much? Is my petty greed showing? Well, just call me the well-read dogmatic critic.

If you also would like to hear Fouts present a dog of a different color, sit right down and write him a long litter. I'm sure he'll give your suggestions every consideration. After all, Bob knows what side his brooder is bred on.

ANATOMY FOR A MERGER: The Chicago Cubs are getting pretty physical this winter. To start with, their roster already includes Marin's Johnny Boccabella whose surname translates from Italian into English as "beautiful mouth."

Then the Cubs went out and hired Leo "The Lip" Durocher.

And yesterday they obtained Bill Hands in a trade with San Francisco.

A second division for years, the Cubs, I am sure, will come up with de-feet next summer, the poor soles.

NOVATO HIGH's football championship team and cross-country runners will be honored at a banquet next Monday at the Hamilton Air Force Base Non-Commissioned Officers' Club and the first wise guy to say they're going to serve NCO pizza on this enchanted evening gets a pie in the face and 10 lashes with a wet noodle.

EX-COLLEGE OF MARIN cage standouts Herb Jotter and George Hall will return to our county Dec. 8-11 as coaches, respectively, of Napa and Lick-Wilmerding high schools. Jotter, by the way, was All-American in 1948 when he and Walt Moreno led the Tars to the National J.C. title.

FIVE GAMES IN MARIN

Basketballs Fly Tonight

Basketballs will be bouncing in most of the gymnasiums of Marin County tonight when five of the seven teams in the Marin Athletic League host out of towners in non-league action.

Tamalpais hosts Poly of San Francisco in the Indians' gym in the day's first game, starting at 4 p.m. Tam will be trying to duplicate its last showing against a San Francisco team, as the Indians dumped Galileo 46-38 last Tuesday.

And Galileo will try to set the record straight against Marin County when it invades the San Rafael High School gym against the Bulldogs tonight. In other night games in Marin, Serra is at Marin Catholic, Sonoma is at Novato, and DeAnza comes to Terra Linda. Class B teams start the night action at 7 p.m., followed by the varsity teams.

Drake, 58-47 victor over Balboa last Tuesday, travels to Vallejo High School tonight, with "B" teams starting action at 7 o'clock. Redwood treks to Santa Rosa to take on Gilroy at 7:30, the first game of a doubleheader. Santa Rosa School hosts Gridley in the nightcap, with the two North Bay schools switching opponents in another doubleheader tomorrow night.

College of Marin, which lost its opener to San Mateo City College Wednesday night 66-64, takes to the road tonight for an 8 o'clock scrap with Diablo Valley College in Pacheco. The Tars return home tomorrow night to host Foothill College in Kentfield, also 8 o'clock.

Indians, USC Led Big 8 Grid Stats

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Southern California Trojans missed going to the Rose Bowl, but they dominate latest Pacific Eight grid statistics.

The Trojans, who piled up a 7-2-1 record, led in total offense, with 375 yards per game, rushing offense at 256, and rushing defense with 122.

Stanford had the best defense, nipping USC 236 to 238. Oregon passed for an average of 202 yards per game and Oregon State allowed 93 yards per contest passing.

With everybody finished with their regular season but Rose Bowl-bound UCLA, Trojans halfback Mike Garrett dominated individual statistics.

The Heisman Trophy winner rushed for 1,440 yards and scored 96 points. Bary Beban of the Bruins is tops in total offense with 1700 yards going into Saturday's game at Tennessee.

Washington State's Tom Roth had 98 completions, Steve Bunker of Oregon made 51 receptions, and Dave Lewis of Stanford had a 44.9 punting average to lead other departments.

PERHAPS the most impressive conference mark was its 27-10-4 mark in non-conference games. Oregon 4-5-1 was the only team below .500 in the Pacific Eight.

SEALS, BLADES MIX TONIGHT AT 'PALACE'

Los Angeles' Blades and San Francisco's Seals meet tonight, 8:15 o'clock, at the Cow Palace in a game that will have little effect on the Western Hockey League lead.

The Blades, in last place, dropped a 5-2 decision last night to the Seattle Totems. The Seals, in fourth place, had the night off after beating Vancouver 5-2.

Saturday night the two clubs meet again, In Los Angeles that time.

Tar Athletes Win Awards

Mike Kemp was named outstanding back and Pete Dornbach the top lineman last night at a banquet honoring the football and cross country teams at College of Marin.

Other football awards went to Kris Barnett, "Mr. Determination," and to Dan Abballo, the trainers award.

Mark Byers was given an award as outstanding runner on the Tars' cross country team and Carl Jensen was named most inspirational runner.

The banquet was held in the special exercise room at the gymnasium complex in Kentfield.

Cincinnati Willing To Trade Robinson

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati is trying to swap off its big gun, slugging outfielder Frank Robinson, for players the Reds think might help them win the 1966 National League pennant.

"This is the biggest news of the week at the baseball meetings, in my opinion," said Bobby Bragan, manager of the Atlanta Braves. "I didn't think the Reds would be willing to let Robinson go."

Bragan was involved in a major deal of his own that would give the Braves a relief pitcher they are seeking. The Braves and the Kansas City Athletics are near agreement on a deal that would send relief ace John Wyatt of Kansas City to Atlanta for outfielder Rico Carty.

Both the A's and the Braves decided at 1:30 a.m., EST, today "to sleep on the deal" before making a final decision.

Baltimore and Houston are the known clubs with which Cincinnati has tried to work out deals for Robinson, but both rejected proposals by the Reds.

Cincinnati wanted veteran pitcher Milt Pappas and a flashy rookie outfielder, Curt Blefary, from Baltimore, but the Orioles refused to give them up. Houston declined to send pitcher Larry Dierker and outfielder Jim Wynn to Cincinnati for the Reds' outfielder.

Robinson had a typical year in 1965 for the Reds, who finished fourth in the National League but were in the running until the final days. The 30-year-old veteran of All-Star games batted .296 and hit 33 home runs.

The slick-fielding slugger's best year was in 1962, when he batted .342, hit 39 home runs and drove in 136 runs.

Wynn, 23, hit .275 for Houston last season and had 22 home runs in his third season with the Astros. Dierker, one of the top young pitching prospects in the league, won seven games and lost eight but he fanned 109 in 147 innings.

Pappas posted a 13-9 pitching record for Baltimore, and Blefary, the A.L. Rookie of the Year, hit .260 and had 22 home runs.

McDaniel Is Newest Addition To Giants

COMBINED AP & UPI

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—You can't tell the players with a scorecard—especially if they are San Francisco Giants or have been.

The Giants sent three players packing off to other National League clubs the past two days and have gotten four in return. Last year's scorecard is beginning to become ancient history.

BILL HANDS
Goes to Cubs

The latest swap sent rookies Bill Hands, a pitcher, and catcher Randy Hundley to the Chicago Cubs for relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel and outfielder Don Landrum.

This trade yesterday followed by 24 hours the deal that sent outfielder Matty Alou to the Pittsburgh Pirates for left-handed pitcher Joe Gibbon and veteran utility man Ossie Virgil.

The 29-year-old Landrum is expected to vie for Alou's job as backup outfielder. Landrum hit .226 last season in 131 games with six home runs. He's left-handed like Matty.

McDaniel, 29, was a right-handed starter for the St. Louis Cardinals before being traded to the Cubs after the 1962 season. He was 15-9 for the Cards in 1957 and 13-7 in relief for the Cubs in 1963 in his best years.

Sharing the relief load with Ted Abernathy in 1965, McDaniel posted a 5-6 record in 71 appearances with a 2.58 earned-run average.

The 25-year-old Hands got two chances last year with the Giants and flopped in both. After compiling an 8-0 record and 0.50 ERA with Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League, the right-hander was called up on May 29. He went back June 14 with an 0-2 record and 12.50 ERA and ended the season with a 16.50 ERA after being called up after the PCL ended its season.

Hundley, a $90,000 bonus baby for the Giants five years ago, came up in late June after injuries cut down the Giants' catching corps.

Ten days after being called up from Tacoma, the 25-year-old Hundley went back with only one hit— a single— in 15 at-bats.

"I think we made a terrific deal," Manager Herman Franks of the Giants said. "McDaniel will team up with Frank Linzy and should give us the best right-handed bullpen in the league."

Leo Durocher, making his first trade after becoming manager of the Cubs in October, said Chicago needed a catcher "that can keep everybody from running on us." He said Hundley is a "good receiver and a real good thrower and that is what the Cubs needed."

The only other trade yesterday sent 32-year-old first baseman Norm Seibern from Baltimore to the California Angels for 22-year-old rookie outfielder Dick Simpson.

The American League was expected today to consider a bid from three groups for a franchise. The same groups—the Milwaukee Brewers, Milwaukee County and Dallas-Fort Worth — were turned down yesterday by the National League.

National League President Warren Giles met with the Milwaukee delegations for a couple of hours and then issued a terse statement:

"It is the considered judgment of the members of the league that none of the applicants would be able to operate a franchise in 1966 and that league expansion in 1966 is not feasible."

The American League reaction was expected to be the same.

However, Allan H. Selig, president of the Brewers, who were set up by a group of businessmen when the Braves moved to Atlanta, wasn't giving up hope. He pointed out that the National League statement was limited to the 1966 season and did not close the door to future possibilities.

Both leagues met separately in morning and afternoon sessions yesterday and were to convene again today.

Rams Specialize In Bad Decisions

Back in the winter of 1956, the Los Angeles Rams were faced with a terrible decision. But that's the kind they make best—terrible decisions.

They had to make up their minds between drafting Jon Arnett or Jim Brown. It is to their credit they didn't hesitate. They chose Jon Arnett. This is known, in golf, as "missing them quick."

Because Jon Arnett was a considerable football player, this was not history's worse mistake. But it pushed whatever one was right down to the wire. It was a nose finish.

THE MIND tries to conjure a bigger one. You picture an urchin in Amsterdam in 1660 yelling up the stairs, "Hey, Max, that goofy Rembrandt is here, and he says if you don't buy his picture he's going to go back to house painting. What? OK, I'll tell him, Max, but if you ask me, the painting ain't all that bad."

Or, you get a vision of a landlady saying, "Listen, Leonardo, I said the rent in cash. You come around here with some picture of a dame with a silky smirk on her face. What am I supposed to do with it — paint moustaches on it?" Or, "Hey, Papa, that Beethoven's here again. He said this is the ninth symphony he wrote, and if you don't play this one he's going to have to hock his ear trumpet. What? No, Papa, you can't dance to it. In fact, you can't even play it unless you have a white tie and tails. OK Papa, I'll tell him to come back when he's got a waltz."

OR, "FULTON, for the last time, take that boat and get out of here. I'm putting my money into something safe for the future—like stagecoaches." Or, "I'm sorry, Gen. Grant, Mr. Lincoln is giving the job to one of his generals who doesn't drink."

The point is, anyone who had a chance to sign Jim Brown in 1956 (the price tag was a measly $15,000, which makes him the biggest bargain since the Louisiana Purchase) is like a guy who goes through life remembering the '90s and says, "Now what would I do with Beverly Hills, even saying I did pay $50,000 for it?"

THE RAMS are always quick to capitalize on their mistakes. They parlayed that one into several last place finishes in their division and they more than made up for their oversight to Brown by shipping his team, post-paid, a quarterback to give him all he needed to take over the game of football.

And the Rams are careful never to make the same mistake twice. They prefer to make different ones.

You will notice in the draft this week they didn't draft another USC halfback on the first round. They went for the big man this time. Unfortunately, this big man can never be counted on to duplicate feats of Jim Brown. As a tackle, the only time he can be presumed to get the ball is on a fumble. His own team's fumbles. It is hard to visualize him hanging up a thousand yards a season under that restrictive setup. In fact, the only guy in this year's first round draft with even a chance to be the next Jim Brown is the Illinois fullback, Jim Grabowski. The Rams didn't even send him a questionnaire.

BUT THE real shocker of the 1965 draft was the fact Michael Lockett Garrett, who might just be the best football player in America today (either that or he has been playing on short-marked fields throughout his career), had to wait one complete NFL round before being picked up. Nine years too late, the Rams learned patience. Either that, or they learned collusion.

The real lunacy was the other league, though. M. L. Garrett had to wait TWENTY rounds to get tapped by that bunch. He barely beat the towel boys, ticket-sellers and guys who clean up the gum-wrappers after the game. USC retired Mike's jersey. The AFL tried to retire Mike period.

SURELY, THERE is the biggest con game going on since Samuel Insull. Either that or these guys in that league really WOULD have Beethoven playing for a barn dance, Rembrandt taking pictures with a box Brownie, or Leonardo da Vinci painting Campbell soup ads. I have a feeling 10 years and 9,000 yards from now Mike Garrett is going to join Jim Brown as just another example of Football's Folly — because I think this little steamboat really can run.

Randy Matson In Basketball Debut

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M's Randy Matson, famed as the world's record holder in the shot put, entered a new college role as basketball player last night.

The 6-foot-6½, 244-pounder's debut was, to say the least, impressive. He scored 15 points for the Aggies in their 79-70 victory over Trinity University and was the leading rebounder, pulling down 18.

Matson, who hurled the 16-pound shot 70 feet 7 inches last spring, had to reduce from his track weight of about 260. He last played basketball as a senior in high school at the Texas Panhandle town of Pampa. That was in 1963.

NCAA Members At All-Time High

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The membership of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is at an all-time high of 644, Walter Byers, the NCAA executive director, said yesterday.

Byers also listed eight new members: California Western of San Diego; Maryville, Tenn. College; Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky., and Westminster College of Salt Lake City, all active.

Hiram Scott College, Scotts Bluff, Neb.; Midwestern College, Denison, Iowa, and Morris Harvey College, Charleston, W. Va., associate members, and the American College Health Association is an affiliate member.

Portland Hires Young Gen. Mgr.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League announced yesterday the signing of Jerry Krause, 27, as general manager of the Triple A baseball team.

Krause, a free lance writer, was publicity director and head scout for the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association until last June.

W. R. Moore, president of the Portland club, said Krause will be one of the youngest general managers in PCL history. He succeeds Dave Steele who resigned to enter business.

Garrett Valued At $30,000 Per Game

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — If Joe Namath is worth $400,000 to the New York Mets, then Mike Garrett should be worth twice that much to the Los Angeles Rams, says Mike's coach, John McKay.

"I realize such a figure is all out of reason," added the head football coach of the University of Southern California, "but this boy is an idol in Los Angeles—they love him out there.

"If he played for the Rams, he would draw 10,000 extra fans to every game. Multiply that by $3 and you've got him bringing in $30,000 additional every week."

McKay beamed proudly from the dais last night while his All-America halfback, Garrett, received the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player of the year.

Also on hand were Mike's mother; his step-father, William Sigur; Dr. Norman Topping, president of the University of Southern California; Athletic Director Jesse Hill, and a guest of honor, Tommy Harmon, winner of the Heisman Trophy 25 years ago.

McKay described Garrett as the greatest football player he ever saw.

"He was the best from Monday to Friday, as well as on Saturday," the coach added. "If I'd wanted to use him at guard, he would have been the best guard. If I'd made him a linebacker, he'd have been the best linebacker. If I had taught him to pass, he might have been my best quarterback."

Garrett spent a whirlwind day with news, radio and television men, parrying one question: What pro team is he going to play for next fall?

He said he had received no firm offer and that he would wait awhile before making up his mind. He insisted he was ready to grab the best offer.

Most observers believe he will go to the Los Angeles Rams, who chose him on the second round of the National Football League draft. But also interested are the Kansas City Chiefs of the American League, who waited until the 20th round to pick him; the Oakland Raiders of the AFL, and the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team.

Garrett said the Pirates had told him that they plan to compete with the pro gridders in the bidding but the Southern Cal star indicated they would have to come up with a good offer.

"I'd rather play football—I'm better at it," he said.

The Oakland Raiders are reported ready to buy the Garrett rights from Kansas City and are dangling $300,000.

Giant Killer Beaten In Aussie Net

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Clark Graebner became the sole U.S. hope for the men's single title in the Victorian Tennis Championships today as he won his quarter-final match from the tournament's giant-killer, fellow American Herb FitzGibbon.

Graebner, of Beechwood, Ohio, disposed of FitzGibbon 10-8, 3-6, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 at the rain-soaked Kooyong grass courts. He joins Wimbledon champion Roy Emerson and Australian Davis Cuppers John Newcombe and Fred Stolle in the semifinals.

FitzGibbon, who is unseeded, had gained the quarter-final round by jolting top-seeded foreigner Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., in third round play Thursday.

Newcombe gained the semifinals with a 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 9-7 victory over Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., while Stolle ousted fellow countryman Bill Bowrey 6-8, 6-1, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3 today. Emerson previously had won his quarter-final match.

Graebner will meet Stolle and Emerson opposes Newcombe with the winners clashing in the finals Sunday.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Carol Graebner, Clark's wife, led the women's singles contenders into the semifinals. Miss Richey swept Judy Tegart of Australia 6-1, 6-2 while Mrs. Graebner beat Jan Lehane of Australia 6-4, 6-1.

In the other women's quarter-finals, Gail Sheriff turned back Lesley Turner 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and Margaret Smith downed Madonna Schacht 6-4, 8-6 in matches involving Australians.

S.F. Warriors Beat Oscar-less Royals

OAKLAND (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors took advantage of the absence of Oscar Robertson last night and whipped the Cincinnati Royals 125-119 in a National Basketball Assn. game at the Civic Auditorium.

Robertson, the Royals' top scorer and feeder, came down with a sudden attack of intestinal flu and watched the contest from the Cincinnati bench while dressed in street clothes.

Even without the Big O, Cincinnati made it interesting. The game was tied 16 times and the lead changed hands 22 times.

Nate Thurmond, who led the Warrior scorers with 24 points, started a 14-2 blitz 6½ minutes before the end with a field goal that put San Francisco ahead 105-103. In three minutes, the Warriors had built a 12-point lead.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati led the scorers with 31 points with teammates Jerry Lucas scoring 28 and Tom Hawkins 24.

Guy Rodgers scored 21 points for the Warriors and triggered the San Francisco fast break that eventually broke open the game. His accurate passes and acrobatic baskets had the fans on their feet in the fourth quarter.

Bearded Angels In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trades by the California Angels baseball team to augment its youth movement with oldsters drew a bit of humor in Los Angeles newspapers Thursday.

Newly signed were pitcher Lew Burdette, 39; third baseman Frank Malzone, 35, and first baseman Norm Siebern, 32.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner carried pictures of the three — each sporting a carefully painted-on beard.

BLASTOFFS AND KICKOFFS

Gridders, Astros To Share Television Tube Tomorrow

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are only a few college football games scheduled around the country this weekend but one of them, Penn State at Maryland, offers staggering possibilities to armchair quarterbacks.

Say Penn State's punter drops back to kick. There's the snap from center and the kick sails high and far. . .right into orbit with America's Gemini 7 astronauts.

Or, there's a handoff in the Maryland backfield. The runner hits the Penn State line and runs smack into. . .a space capsule.

There's a gimmick to all this fantasy, of course.

It just happens that television commitments for the Penn State- Maryland game coincide with this country's most ambitious space venture.

The National Broadcasting Company is solving the problem with a split screen and simultaneous national coverage of both the football game and the Gemini launch.

UCLA BOMBS

So, television viewers will be able to watch space rockets and passing pockets at the same time but for bombs, all the action will be at Memphis, Tenn., where UCLA's quarterback flash, sophomore Gary Beban, leads the fifth-ranked Uclans against Tennssee.

Both teams are bowlbound with UCLA taking on Michigan State in the Rose Bowl and Tennessee heading for a Bluebonnet Bowl date against Tulsa.

Beban led UCLA into the Pasadena classic with a couple of long touchdown passes that beat Southern California two weeks ago. He gained 1,206 yards on his 117 passes this season, an amazing average of 10.3 yards gained every time he threw a pass.

The stingy Volunteer defense, which has allowed an average of less than seven points per game, could put Beban to a stern test.

Tennessee is ranked seventh in the nation and its fleet secondary hasn't surrendered a bomb-type touchdown pass this season. Of the nine touchdown passes Beban has completed, eight have been on bombs between 34 and 89 yards.

Saturday's other games send Oklahoma against Oklahoma State and Morgan State against Florida A&M. The latter is the annual Orange Blossom Classic and will be played in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Earns His Numeral

Rick Edwards, former all-league halfback at Terra Linda High School, was awarded his numeral at Washington State after the freshman team, on which he played, completed its season with a 3-1 record.

Good Shooting In Waterfowl Areas

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Duck and goose hunting is in full swing on California's public waterfowl areas.

Nearly 6,500 hunters tried their luck on state and federal management areas last week. And their luck was pretty good, an average of close to two birds per hunter.

The 13 areas managed by the California Fish and Game Department offer the best, and in some cases the only, opportunity for the "unattached" hunter who doesn't belong to a club or have access to other private hunting areas.

The areas range from Honey Lake in the northeast to Imperial near the Mexican border. That doesn't count the Tule Lake and Lower Klamath refuges, which are managed solely by the federal government.

SEVERAL FUNCTIONS

The waterfowl management areas, like the northern refuges, serve several functions. They serve as feeding and resting areas, cut down raids on farmer's crops by providing food for ducks and geese, offer a sanctuary and also provide public hunting.

Last year 67,306 hunters used the management areas exclusive of Tule Lake and Lower Klamath. They bagged 121,800 birds, an average of 1.8 per hunter for the season.

The statistics this year point to another year of fairly good shooting. As the week opened, 35,959 hunters had bagged 66,442 ducks and geese for a 1.8 bird average so far this year.

The leading area was the state's Mendota Waterfowl Management Area, with an average bag of 2.3 birds. Right behind were the Sacramento National Wildlife Refuge at 2.2 and Imperial and Sutter areas with 2.0.

Daily shooter capacities on the areas ranges from 150 to 550, although one has no limit.

The daily fee for shooting is $3.50. Admission is by reservations, awarded on the basis of free public drawings, and on a first come, first served basis for openings not filled by people with reservations.

JUMP SHOOTING

The writer hunted Gray Lodge State Waterfowl Management Area earlier in the season. After a poor start, our two-man party finally limited out in the afternoon. Jump-shooting proved more profitable than shooting over decoys in a pond.

Gray Lodge, in Butte County, is something of a showpiece for the waterfowl management program.

It's 6,800 acres comprise one of the most intensively developed and managed waterfowl marshlands in the nation.

Sitting in the heart of one of the traditionally top duck areas of the Pacific Flyway, Gray Lodge plays host to up to 1.5 million waterfowl at the height of the birds' southward migration.

TRA AWARDS BANQUET

Watch Moccasin In '66 Kentucky Derby

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Moccasin, the first 2-year-old filly ever named American champion by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn., could in 1966 become the first of her sex to capture the Kentucky Derby since Regret in 1915.

Hailed as the horse of the year at the TRA convention banquet last night, Moccasin had won all eight of her starts as a freshman and next season takes a shot at the classics for 3 year olds.

Although not present at the award ceremony, Moccasin's owner A. B. (Bull) Hancock of Lexington, Ky., sent word that "If she trains up to expectations, watch her in the derby."

Buckpasser won the honors as best 2-year-old colt, another youngster expected to be heard from in the 1966 sophomore races.

Tom Rolfe, winner of the Preakness stakes and second in the Belmont, captured the award as top 3 year old colt of 1965.

What A Treat was the champion 3 year old filly, Roman Brother won honors among older colts, horses and geldings and Old Hat was tops in the older filly or mare category.

Only other 2 year old ever honored with the American champion was the colt Native Dancer in 1952 and he went on to become one of the turf's leading money winners.

Moccasin didn't get to the races until last Aug. 6, at Saratoga. In each of her first two starts she came home a galloping winner by eight lengths and in no race did any opponent finish within two lengths of her.

Lewis Lee Haggin II, who accepted the award for Hancock, declared: "She is a great, great horse . . . how great none of us know."

The year 1965 has been described as that featuring fillies and mares, so many believe that in 1966 if the trend continues, Moccasin must figure prominently in the picture for the triple crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Retired jockey Ralph Neves was honored as one of only eight jockeys ever to ride 3,000 winners. Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego, Calif., Union, won the Bill Corum award for the outstanding turf story, and M. H. VanBerg of Columbus, Nev., received a special award as the first owner ever to have 3,000 winners.

His 3,000th was scored in Toledo, Ohio, on Nov. 20 and on the day his award was presented one of his horses won at New Orleans for victory 3,007.

Long List Of Catches, Catchers; Fair-Sized Bass At Inverness

STEVENS

It's very easy at times to give an honest report of fishing hither and yon, and still create the wrong impression. An outdoor writer is prone to mention the catches and catchers of limits or near limits, which is, of course, natural and logical; but if he were to list the names of anglers who caught but one, or none, he would need a full page of agate type to cover the subject.

I mention this for the reason that some days it "never rains but it pours." Like yesterday's column. I didn't have enough space to list the rather long list of catches and catchers. Then, a short time after I had mailed my columns, I received a phone call from Rodeo. A quartet of avid anglers had just returned to Rodeo from a trip near Buoy 8. The quartet, Ken Weaver, Bill Curtwright, and the brothers Tom and Joe Griffin unloaded four limits of bass ranging from about 18 to 26 pounds. All taken on Bull heads.

OTHER ANGLERS did exceedingly well on Saturday, the score was less on Sunday, good again on Monday and somewhat slower on Tuesday.

A trio from Alameda, Nish Yamamoto, Al Low and Frank Changhad took limits from the north side of Buoy 9 to over 30 pounds; Mr. and Mrs. Vince Bauer of Hayward came in with six bass from 10 to 26 pounds; Bob O'Connor boated a 21 and 22 pound striper on Bull Heads near Buoy 10, the party boat Sunfish, with 10 rods working, netted 19 bass to 28 pounds near Buoy 9. The Sturgeon returned to port at 3 p.m. with 5 limits to 25 pounds near Buoy 10.

The Dowrelio No. 5 out of Crockett came in with 10 bass to 25 pounds, all taken on Bull heads by Buoy 5, and Frank Joseph of Joseph's resort at Rodeo reported better than 50 per cent of skiff fishermen made the grade—and most fish were taken on sardines. Fillets, mainly.

SPEAKING OF sardine baits, practically all fish landed out of the Golden Hinde boatery at Inverness are being taken on sardines — chunks — not fillets. Talking to Bill Carlton of the Golden Hinde I learned that quite a few fair-sized bass have been taken this week, and quite a few hooked but lost. Bill mentioned one poor fellow who had four hookups and didn't land even one. I gather from reports that a large portion of the fish being hooked are carefully dehooked and eased over the side to grow longer and fatter.

If there are many silver salmon being caught in Papermill Creek, the word hasn't reached the Golden Hinde, but it is assumed that some have been taken.

AS FREQUENTLY happens, the striped bass activity has been centered on the Contra Costa side of the San Pablo Bay. Alice Quan of China Camp reported slow fishing Sunday and Monday, with the water being badly colored, and only flounders being caught by those who fish for flounders. The water was badly colored the first of the week, but it was clear, calm and agreeable on Wednesday.

THE BON TEMPE Reservoir in Marin County has received a plant of about 30,000 small trout in November. These fish should be of catchable size by next May.

WORK STARTS ON NOVATO SHOPPING COMPLEX

Thomas J. Long (left), vice president of Longs Drug Stores, and Newman Melville, real estate manager for Arden-Mayfair Markets, were on hand at yesterday's ground breaking ceremonies for the Downtown Shopping Center at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, Novato —where their respective companies are to be major tenants. Gerald Hoytt, president of Hoytt Enterprises, the developer, turned the first shovelfull of earth. Supervisor William Gnoss is at right. A Union Oil service station and several specialty stores are also projected for the 22-acre site.

Prices Improve After Confused Market Day

NEW YORK (AP)—An irregular stock market closed with prices improving today. Trading was active.

It was another confused session with December cross currents obscuring the trend. Big Three motors advanced in response to record car sales in November. Several airlines were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

Some key stocks such as Kennecott and Eastman Kodak began moving ahead toward the close, helping the averages.

IBM, after weathering a loss of about 7, was showing a net gain.

General Dynamics, authorized to develop the F111 aircraft, recovered from a loss and moved well to the upside.

Cyprus Mines, a speculative feature, held a gain late in the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at about 8 million shares compared with 9.07 million yesterday.

Here was the picture near the close:

Motors rallied while several leading airlines and aerospace issues were down sharply on long-term profit taking.

The auto stocks responded to record November car sales. General Motors and Chrysler advanced more than a point each, Ford nearly a point along with Studebaker.

Eastern Air Lines fell more than 2 despite an estimate of greatly increased profits this year. United slipped more than a point.

Boeing was off about 2, General Dynamics 1, Douglas Aircraft nearly a point. United Aircraft snapped back about 1½.

IBM plunged another 7 points at worst and then trimmed the loss to 2 points or so, still leaving the issue below 500.

Electric and Musical Industries looked like a repeat as the most active stock, easing slightly from yesterday's advance.

Cyprus Mines was a big speculative feature but halved a 5-point gain.

Johnson and Johnson rose nearly 3.

National Aviation dropped 3. Down more than a point were Motorola, Fairchild Camera and Armco Steel.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Foremost Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO—The board of directors of Foremost Dairies, Inc., has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents per share on the company's common stock payable Jan. 10 to stockholders of record Dec. 15. The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 56¼ cents per share on the 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock payable Jan. 3 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

Building Pace Still Almost Up To 1964's

While new construction authorizations in Marin during October amounted to only $5,861,491, the total so far this year of $71,351,587 stayed within 8.9 per cent of the figure for the same period last year. Marin County Development Assn. reported today.

Permits for apartment houses this year continue to look weaker compared with those granted for other types of living units, says the report.

To the end of October, the number of multiple dwelling units was down 48.5 per cent or 534 units compared with 1,036 through that month a year ago.

Single-family homes showed a less marked decreases, with 1,566 permits this year compared with 1,865 for the first 10 months of 1964.

Novato and adjoining unincorporated areas had the highest residential and commercial permit total for October with $1,678,500.

This total includes permits for 68 living units at a total value of $1,429,350 and three commercial permits for construction valued at $226,500.

San Rafael came a close second with a permit total of $1,533,537, which included 25 residential units valued at $709,060 and 11 commercial permits valued at $338,595.

The picture regarding permits for commercial construction and alterations, repairs and public buildings compared favorably with last year by the end of October.

Commercial dropped by 5.7 per cent while permits for other purposes showed a 13.1 per cent increase.

The largest commercial permit of the month went to Tiburon and amounted to $500,000 for the Tiburon Inn, now in its early stages.

Chemical Plant's Plans Revealed

SAN FRANCISCO — Stauffer Chemical Co. plans a substantial expansion of its chlorine-caustic soda production capacity at Henderson, Nev.

The expansion—which will add about 25 per cent to current capacity—will begin at once and will be completed in the fourth quarter of next year.

Major reason for enlargement of the Henderson plant is the growing requirement for these chemicals in the western states, Stauffer said.

In addition to the Henderson plant, Stauffer has six producing facilities at Los Angeles, four at Richmond, and others at Long Beach, San Francisco, South Gate and estbend. The company's western research center is located at Richmond.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Add Some Christmas Cheer To Postman's Life, Too

You think you're rushed during the holiday season!

Pity the poor postman and postal workers who are literally snowed under with millions of letters and packages during the last minute Christmas rush.

Last December, the San Rafael Post Office handled more than 16,600,000 pieces of mail, as compared with the average monthly load of less than 4,000,000.

This month, the volume will probably top last December's. Give them a hand by doing your share to spread out the work load over the entire month instead of letting everything pile up on Christmas Eve.

Here are a few timely tips from San Rafael Postmaster Warren Williams:

Mail out-of-county packages right away, no later than the 10th.

Make sure addresses and return addresses are clearly printed.

Zip codes often turn out to be lifesavers because even if the city and state are illegible, the zip code will direct mail to the correct post office. Clerks there, being more familiar with local residents, are often able to decipher the address.

Be sure packages are securely wrapped and tied. Stuff packages tightly so that nothing rattles inside.

All parcels should be addressed on ONLY ONE SIDE. The address should also be written somewhere on the inside of the package in case the exterior wrapping should unravel or tear.

It's a good idea to enclose a list of the contents.

The mail must get through and usually does each Christmas, despite the heavy odds created by a careless public. But some half million parcels are undelivered each year because of improper packaging or addressing.

Take some of the load off the postman's back by (1) mailing NOW, (2) wrapping and tying packages securely, and (3) addressing legibly and carefully.

Some of that goodwill that we are so eager to dispense to all men this time of year should be reserved for our hardpressed post office personnel.

ATOMIC SNOOPER WHISTLES AT GOLD

A new atomic device that whistles at gold has been developed to make the smuggler's lot anything but a happy one.

When the instrument, resembling a coffee urn, detects gold, it gives forth a high-pitched bird-like whistle, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

The effectiveness of the detector is enhanced by its convenience. It is battery-powered and portable.

Customs officials can also adjust the atomic "snooper" to detect silver and copper.

Discovering where evil exists is a necessary first step in overcoming it. But that is just a start towards ensuring that justice prevails.

You don't need an atomic device to combat unlawful procedures wherever you find them. The intelligence and moral force that God has entrusted to you can help you do that.

Pray that you may become more aware of ways to promote justice for all in public as well as private life.

"Turn from evil and do good, that you may abide forever." (Psalm 36:27)

Help me, O Lord, to use opportunities to see to it that right procedures are observed.

MARIN POLITICAL VIEWS

Our County Suddenly Produces A Candidate For Governorship

By WAT TAKESHITA

Takeshita

MARIN COUNTY HAS a rugged and varied terrain that makes it an exciting place in which to live.

And it's got rugged and interesting people to match.

Take Larkspur TV man Fred Ullner, for example. He backed Barry Goldwater to the hilt last year, then formed the 26 Million Club and the Republicans for Conservative Action, backed the Hell's Angels during the Oakland demonstrations, and took an official scolding from the state GOP leaders.

NOW COMES William Penn Patrick, 35, who says he's made a fortune in cosmetics and is now pouring a part of that into his unorthodox bid for the governorship.

From the standpoint of professional politicking, he's doing everything wrong.

In the first place, he just upped and announced, without bothering to sound out the local GOP bigwigs to ask for advice and backing. His announcement caught the Marin Republican Central Committee by surprise.

AND IN HIS first public appearance in the San Rafael courthouse, he ran roughshod over GOP State Chairman Gaylord Parkinson's so-called "11th Commandment," not to speak ill of other Republicans.

Patrick not only spoke ill of other Republicans; he called them names.

And to top it all off, he readily admitted he hadn't even registered as a voter in Marin County, although he's bought a home at 5 Audrey Court in Tiburon and has been living there with his wife and two children since June.

One thing he resents is being accused of running for publicity.

"Any time anyone does anything unusual, people always accuse you of wrong motives," he confided. "I don't like that. I don't need to do it for business. The business is doing quite well."

SO WELL, in fact, that he's willing to toss in $1,300,000 in his campaign to bring his views directly to the public, bypassing the official party organization whose support is considered essential in any statewide race.

He voted for John F. Kennedy, then switched to Barry Goldwater last year.

In his talk Monday night at the San Rafael courthouse, he castigated Ronald Reagan as a "parrot." Asked why he hadn't worked for the Republican Party or contributed to its cause in the past, his answer was simple: "You know, I've never been asked before."

PROMPTLY AFTER the talk, he was asked—by Chuck Michals, who is selling tickets to the Ronald Reagan dinner in San Rafael next Thursday night. Just as promptly, Patrick bought two tickets.

You figure that out.

Untrained and untried as a politician, Patrick probably won't get far in the race for governor. But you've got to admit that his candor is refreshing. And as long as he puts his money where his mouth is, you can't deny him the right to sound off. And he apparently means to do just that.

A COUPLE OF reminders: Tonight's the $100-per-plate Humphrey dinner at the Fairmont; Ronald Reagan's fund-raising speech is next Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at Dominic's in San Rafael.

Takes Issue With Redwood Park Stand

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As an American I would eagerly consider relocation or change of job or occupation if my fellow citizens wanted to preserve part of the nation's wild heritage for themselves and their children (and mine)!

"Short sighted" is much too tame a characterization of your editorial "Compromise Necessary on Redwood Park Plans." The American public has compromised long enough with the land users of the nation. Worst among these land users are the speculators in land value. And though it is truly unfortunate that the Point Reyes land values could not have been fixed early in its acquisition to avoid rampant speculation and the ensuing theft of public taxes by "private entrepreneurs," this particular failure should not preclude attempts under law to forestall a repeat of the situation on the North Coast of California.

Above all your editorial points up the need for control of land speculators and users by representative government, and an ignorance of enormous land misuses in this state by certain private segments of the economy. I should think, in Marin County "Going Going," this is a stubborn, perhaps deliberate, miscalculation of the public interest by any editor!

Snakes Ruin Recipe For Oldtime Cookies

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was very pleased to find a genuine recipe for gingerbread cookies in your Marin Magazine last Saturday (Nov. 27). It has been a rather difficult recipe to find and I have been looking for it for over a year. The only problem now is that I can't cut out the recipe because I'm afraid of those snake pictures you printed on the other side of the page!

Want A Window To Look Out?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Nov. 23, the Marin County Board of Supervisors challenged a decision by Lt. Col. Robert H. Allen, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, on AESTHETICS. Have they considered the following points:

1. As defined by the American Society of Civil Engineers, a profession is the pursuit of a learned art in the spirit of publice service.

2. Our world renowned public work have been economically accomplished by engineers through the use of sealed bids, with the award to the lowest qualified bidder. The offered proposals must state, specifically, the work to be done. "Compatible with the natural environment," as demanded by the Board, is pure polit-talk. And a very nebulous specification.

3. There was a major violation of this practice a few years ago. McNamara turned down a low Boeing aircraft bid, and awarded the work to a Texas outfit. Congress called him on the carpet for it. A recent I-J news item inferred the results. They stink. . . .

4. AESTHETICS is a very recent demand of the profession. Given this prerogative, engineers won't let the public down. A local organization, Professional Engineers in California Government, sponsored and well attended a series of ten such seminars by the University of California last spring. Engineerwise, that word is difficult to define. . . .

To those homeowners who prompted this criticism of flood control practices, may I pose another question? What is best: Looking out one window and seeing a concrete lined ditch, or to find yourself in the position of those unfortunate Californians to the North and South, without a window to look out of at all?

Meter Maids Help Control Confusion

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recent articles pertaining to San Rafael's meters and their attendants, the meter-maids, makes one sit down and think. Actually, if more of this were done (thinking), San Rafael would be the number one shopping area of Marin instead of what it is becoming now. . . .

Let's face it, the downtown area is no longer drawing the greater Marin's customer traffic. People are avoiding the business area as much as possible. The only way that the city will survive is the shopping mall idea along with adequate underground parking or other facilities. Make San Rafael a first for tourists entering Marin and for the Marinites themselves by beautifying the area most used, the downtown businesses. The mall would be more appealing to shoppers. People use the shopping centers for their accessibility as well as adequate parking and guess what! No meters even to worry about. You can shop and stop at your leisure.

Of course, thinking in this direction would require landlords and tenants to re-model as much as possible. The courthouse property has to be used in this plan if it will succeed.

As for the meter-maids, for the time being, let's be glad that they are now there or certainly confusion would rule. . . .

The new mayor and his council are doing their best to keep the city above water and these petty gripes only tend to take their valuable time away from more important matters. . . .

GENERAL JIMMY Doolittle tells about the parachutist who has a recurrent nightmare. In his dream every night he jumps out of his plane, pulls his ripcord, but his chute fails—and the man waiting on the ground to catch him turns out to be an outfielder on the New York Mets.

Incidentally, a Met regular identifies himself as the James Bond of baseball. His batting average for 1965 was .007.

AN EAGER-BEAVER in Harvard Business School has proposed a slogan for the Greyhound Corporation in the event that they extend their field of operations to the African belt inhabited by cannibal tribes: "Take the bus—and leave the driver to us."

"CONGRATULATIONS, my dear fellow," beamed an analyst to an old patient. "After seven long years, I have finally cured you of your delusions of grandeur." "Thank you for nothing," grumbled the patient. "Yesterday I was Julius Caesar. Today I'm nobody."

SIGNS OF the times:

In the window of a liquor shop: "A soft drink turneth away company."

Placard waved aloft at a boisterous student rally: "Demonstrate now; pay later."

America's Christmas Train Is A Chance To Help In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — It isn't enough to leave it to the opinion polls to show the freedom fighters in South Viet Nam that the American people are overwhelmingly behind them.

Actions speak louder than polls.

THE PROOF that the people of the United States strongly support the cause of peace-with-freedom in Viet Nam needs to be direct, tangible, and visible.

It needs to be something in which the whole nation can take part — with a show of generosity which goes beyond just a show of hands.

All three of these vital ingredients for a resplendent demonstration of American purpose and humanity—without marches, pickets, or speeches—are present in the superb initiative being taken jointly by the U. S. Jaycees, the Young Republican National Federation, and the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

You'll want to know about it because there is something you can do to show where you stand and to help make it a radiant success.

The U. S. Jaycees, the Young Democrats, and the Young Republicans—two million of them—have organized a massive, nationwide, state-by-state, city-by-city pick-up of 100 box cars of practical gifts to be shipped to Saigon on Christmas Day and to be delivered to the people of South Viet Nam in person by the U. S. soldiers in South Viet Nam.

THIS IS Project ACTT: America's Christmas Train and Trucks to be loaded, it is hoped, with $100 million of useful and critically needed presents from the homefront in the U. S. to the homefront in South Viet Nam.

The main train will leave Philadelphia in mid-December and make 10 stops en route to San Francisco. Feeder trains will roam every section of the country and, where trains do not stop, trucks will make the pick-ups. (Trains and trucks provided free by those industries.)

THE GIFTS MUST be selective to be practical. The most needed items are:

Tools to rebuild homes—hammers, saws, shovels, nails.

Personal hygiene — soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, laundry soaps, cleaning materials.

School supplies — pencils, crayons, tablets, rulers.

Sewing kits—needles, thread, thimbles, buttons.

Clothes—shorts, underpants, shirts, girls' slacks (all in children's sizes).

Foods—cubed sugar, sweetened condensed milk, hard candy.

Fabrics — mosquito netting, yardage (cotton).

Toys—only rubber or plastic unbreakable toys.

For further information, you have only to telephone the Jaycees, the Young Republicans, or the Young Democrats in your community.

The leaders of these three organizations are doing just the right thing at the right time for the right reasons. There is no doubt they are going to carry their project to success. They desire to be helped by everyone of us to succeed to overflowing.

THE SPECIAL value of America's Christmas Train and Trucks is that it is not merely a protest against something. It is an affirmation for something—for our determination to do whatever is necessary to succeed in Viet Nam.

This is the best kind of proof of our support for the brave people of South Viet Nam.

Poverty War Probe: What's Happened?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Remember that loudly-touted investigation of the strife-rent anti-poverty program launched by Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., stormy chairman of the Labor Committee?

Well—not a thing has happened on it, and apparently nothing is likely to until Congress reconvenes next month, if then!

Early last month the word went out that Powell and Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior Labor Committee member whom Powell handpicked to head the investigating subcommittee, were about to get together to designate eight or ten cities in which public hearings would be held on anti-poverty trials and tribulations.

POWELL IS luxuriously vacationing in the Bahamas. His top assistant, "Chuck" Stone, shrugs and says he has tried several times to get Powell and Gibbons together, but they "haven't been able to fit it into their busy schedules." Gibbons talks vaguely about "getting underway pretty soon," but is silent on when that might be.

The four Republicans on the investigating subcommittee are totally in the dark. They have been told nothing and know nothing.

One of them, Representative Charles Goodell, N. Y., on his own initiative has accompanied staff investigators gathering information in several cities in preparation for possible eventual public hearings. But beyond that he has gotten nowhere.

Another Republican committeeman is privately expressing doubt that hearings will ever be held.

"I'm beginning to feel more and more that there never will be public hearings, and that this investigation will just peter out with a little-noticed staff report. It certainly seems to be shaping up that way."

There can be no doubt as to who is responsible for this mysterious inactivity.

It's Powell, chairman of the Labor Committee and real boss of the investigating subcommittee. He has an iron grip on the latter, and the $230,000 he wangled in the closing days of Congress for this then-stentoriously fanfared probe.

REPUBLICAN committeemen are indignantly talking of making an issue of this extraordinary situation when Congress reconvenes. But that's some six weeks off, and when the legislators do reassemble there will be other and possibly more pressing matters to the fore.

Meanwhile, the anti-poverty investigation is at a standstill—for some unexplained reason.

The 12 staff investigators are straining at the bits to get going.

"A big scandal involving the Neighborhood Youth Corps erupted in Boston recently," said one investigator. "It's exactly the sort of thing we should be looking into. But not one word has been said about doing that. Apparently, that affair is off limits."

JOB CORPS authorities are uneasily apprehensive of what the Christmas holidays may do to the $489 million trouble-racked program. They are afraid a large number of the trainees won't come back from their holiday leaves. Some estimate that one out of six may drop out. At that rate, more than 2,000 won't return. . . . A State Department study on the prospects of East-West trade holds that the outlook is not promising, because there is insufficient economic growth in the Soviet bloc. Says this backstage analysis, "During the new five-year period, 1966-70, the factors that have dictated a slowdown in Soviet economic growth are likely to persist. Agricultural production will continue to fluctuate greatly year to year because of weather, and in individual years growth in Gross National Product will reflect this erratic movement."

Impending Winter Holds Few Terrors On A Sausalito Boat

Jimmie Hansen, 67, who lives on a Monterey fishing boat in Sausalito's Shelter Cove, says the only winterizing he does on his boat is "to put a tarpaulin over it."

Hansen will not spend Christmas aboard. "I'm going to Petaluma to be with relatives," said he.

He has lived in Sausalito on and off since 1906 but says if you really want to know about old Sausalito you have to see "Whistle" Terris.

Since the Seven Seas is Hansen's "dispatcher station" and he is a boardwalk pigeon feeder, we asked him about war and love. On Viet Nam, he said, "I don't know. The Commander-in-chief is running that, I'm not." On love, he had no comment.

At Bolinas, Jim Dougan and all the little Dougans and big Dougans, met on Thanksgiving for dinner and as usual, rented the community center. "We had 53 people," said Jim. "We had turkey, I don't know how many pounds."

Sausalito police Lt. Ted Zink and two colleagues took in the underground films at the Gate Theater last week but, according to Ted, he "missed the message."

There's a woman who pins messages on her shirt to remember things in Mill Valley. She is Mrs. Charles (Carl) Cole of the Locust District's Launder-It. The day we read her message, it said: "Carl's Ins." That means, she explained, it's time to pay her husband's insurance.

Mrs. Ann reads character and advises in Tamalpais Valley near the junction.

A GENTLE WOMAN with blue eyes and black hair reaching to her waist, she said she has been reading horoscopes since age 12 and that he mother and grandmother did the same thing but not for money. She is of French and East Indian parentage and, when speaking to her husband, Jim, a hydraulic equipment operator, talks in Urdu.

Asked what she advises on, she said on whether one should enter into a business transaction, on lucky days and lucky numbers and how to choose the right mate. "I give advice on any problem," she said. She said she also has psychic powers and that all this is really a gift.

Asked how character is holding up through the years of character reading, Mrs. Ann replied, "It is in lots of ways better and in lots of ways getting weaker." Asked if her type of business is remunerative, she answered, "Well, it is a living."

As we watched a workman putting finishing touches on a gold zodiac sign in the front window of Mrs. Ann's shop, we advised her that we are Aries, sign of the Ram.

"I am a Gemini," she replied, "the sign of the Twins."

If Che Guevara Reappears, Can Veep Humphrey Be Far Behind?

WASHINGTON — The two diplomatic mysteries that have Washington puzzled these days are: What happened to Che Guevara, Castro's right-hand man, and also what happened to Hubert Humphrey, vice president of the United States?

IT HAS BEEN rumored that Che Guevara has left the country and is now somewhere in Chile or Argentina. It has also been rumored that Hubert Humphrey has not been allowed to leave the country and is either hiding out in Washington or Minnesota.

Inquiries as to Mr. Humphrey's whereabouts have been made at the White House, but have run into a stone wall.

First, a spokesman denied he had ever heard of Humphrey. But when reporters showed him a photograph of the president and Mr. Humphrey taken together, he immediately recognized him. "Oh, that Mr. Humphrey. The last we heard of him he was on his way to the World Series in Minneapolis."

"Haven't there been any efforts on the part of the administration to find him?"

"NOT REALLY. Vice presidents of the United States have a tendency to disappear for months on end. But they always pop up somewhere.

"When Mr. Johnson first took office in 1965, he said he was going to make use of Mr. Humphrey's talents and send him abroad to discuss problems with heads of state. Is it possible that he could be abroad on a secret mission?"

The spokesman picked up a schedule. "Let's see now. Mike Mansfield is in Russia, Dean Rusk is in Rio, Bobby Kennedy is in Venezuela, Robert McNamara is in Viet Nam. Nope, his name isn't down here. He must still be in the United States somewhere."

"Wouldn't the FBI know where he was?"

"The FBI has enough to do without keeping track of every vice president of the United States."

"WE CAN'T KEEP tabs on everybody in the administration," the spokesman retorted. "As far as we know, Mr. Humphrey is safe and sound and, unless he gets in touch with us, there is no reason for us to get in touch with him."

"There has been some talk that Mr. Humphrey went into hiding after endorsing Abe Beame for mayor of New York. Is there any truth to this?"

"The president never holds grudges and I'm sure he has forgiven Mr. Humphrey by now. We have no reason to believe the vice president is hiding out because of his Beame endorsement. I think you're making a mystery out of something that will easily be explained as soon as Mr. Humphrey shows up."

"THEN YOU THINK he will eventually show up?"

"I'm quite sure of it. This isn't the first time that he's disappeared."

"Has the president expressed any concern over Mr. Humphrey's absence?"

"None that I know of. You must remember that Mr. Johnson was a vice president himself once and he knows how easily any vice president can get lost. I wouldn't be surprised if Mr. Humphrey turned up at the LBJ Ranch one of these days, just as if nothing had happened."

"Does the administration know where Che Guevara is?"

"Of course we do. You don't think we'd let him disappear on us, do you?"

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

New Thinking On Courthouse Square Bemuses One Onlooker

FUSSELMAN

"IT WONDERS ME." A few years ago a very delightful musical, "Plain and Fancy," played for some time in the City. It was woven around the Amish country and its young people. Many of you may remember it and the amusing song the girl sang to her dad, as they jogged along in their Amish type buggy . . . "It Wonders Me."

I HAVE just been reading some clippings, of Nov. 16 and 24, about the disposal of the Court House site.

The one on Nov. 24 had this:

"Marin County supervisors are prepared to make a 'substantial investment' in the future of down town San Rafael by settling for less than the highest possible price on the court house square . . . " They had learned the week before that the plan prepared for the plan for the City or San Rafael called for building on only 30 per cent of the land and that as a result "the county might realize only $800,000 from the site" instead of the $1.4 million which had been assured the voters during the bond election for the Hall of Justice.

The article quoted the supervisor from the first district as saying that the decision hinged on two questions . . . "How much open space is needed to preserve a park-like atmosphere in the square? . . . the key area in rejuvenation of the city's down town area . . . Then "how much of the needed $1.4 million are the supervisors willing to raise through other means?"

He was quoted further as saying he favored the county making "a substantial investment." My successor on the board "agreed" saying the amount of this investment would amount to the "price of public benefit involved."

NOW, THIS sort of "wonders me." It would seem that whatever private enterprise that would occupy the 30 per cent planned to be built upon would receive the primary and undoubtedly the greatest benefit from the park-like area planned for the remaining 70 per cent. So, this thought occurs: Is it contemplated that an individual or organization who will purchase the property for $800,000, instead of the $1.4 million promised, would in turn lease the buildings, to be constructed there, to other concerns as a profit?

I wonder if there is any idea who might be interested in the purchase. It is my understanding that surplus property must be offered for open bidding. Well, who owns the crystal ball which tells what the bid price will be?

There should be considerable more information furnished as to just what the procedure will be. What is evidentally being contemplated can become quite involved.

Is the thought that the city will be the purchaser? . . . with what funds? Can this be done without a vote of the people? If the city is not to be purchaser, (and I have never thought this was the plan) then what?

I commented last week on the suggestion, which had been made, that the retirement fund money be used. This would be costly to the taxpayers unless private enterprise would produce the amortization money through rentals paid.

Such an arrangement would put the fund in the position of being both purchaser and landlord. It follows then that at $800,000 there would be less borrowed from the fund. But, in any event, the taxpayers would have to reach into some pocket to raise the difference between $800,000 and $1.4 million required toward the construction of the Hall of Justice.

PERHAPS these things may "wonder" you, too.

Three Bay Area Law Firms Have Last Word On Bonds

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

Three Bay Area law firms have a life and death say over a huge portion of public construction in Marin County, ranging from the building of a school to the laying of a sewer pipe to construction of the Civic Center.

The firms are bond counsels, and all construction which is financed by bonds, either general obligation bonds such as for schools or the civic center, revenue bonds or assessment district bonds, must have approval of one of the firms.

If there is no such approval, there simply is no sale of the bonds. David Hartley of the investment firm of Stone and Youngberg, San Francisco, said today his firm, and others in the area, would not agree to try to sell the bonds in the national market without their certification by the bond counsel.

Wednesday the San Francisco Board of Supervisors raised questions about the functions of these firms, after learning that getting certification on $115 million worth of water bonds would cost $28,750 in fees.

Approval for the sale of the recent Marin County Civic Center annex bonds cost Marin County $5,800 to the same firm—Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe, of San Francisco.

This firm specializes in general obligation or revenue bonds, which must be approved by a vote of the people.

The other two firms, Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass and Anderson of Oakland, and Wilson, Harzfeld, Jones and Morton of San Mateo, specialize in assessment district bonds, although they also handle some general obligation bonds.

In the case of assessment districts, the fee charged is much higher, usually three per cent of the construction cost. But the work done is greater.

On assessment districts, the attorneys not only certify everything is legal, but also draw up all the documents and guide the district from before a petition is started until the construction is complete.

Business is steered to these firms mainly because of their reputation as experts in the field. The reputation is gained over decades, and it would be difficult for any new attorney to break in.

Work on assessment districts involves, generally, much less money than with bigger bond issues which go before the public for a vote.

The work involves checking each piece of property to be assessed, checking the plans for the work, checking the surety bonds of the contractor and subcontractors, following the work, and preparing all the documents.

In case of a legal flaw, the law firm might be liable for for several million dollars in misspent money, so each of the firms is heavily insured, although none has had to pay off in recent years.

Assessment districts are usually formed by property owners to install such things as streets or sewers, or by a developer to install all utilities in new subdivisions.

General obligation bonds require much less work by the private attorney, because the regular attorney for the city, county or district prepares most of the documents. In Marin the county counsel prepared documents for school bond issues.

What the bond counsel must do in these cases is certify there was nothing wrong, legally, with the bond election. Checks are made of resolutions calling the election, poll officials, documents, and the actual vote tally.

According to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, the purchasers of the bonds probably would not buy school bonds from Marin without the approval of Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe.

If someone did buy the bonds, he added, the interest rate would probably be much higher than usual, because, presumably, of a greater risk.

The fees on the large bond issues are not fixed, but are on a sliding scale depending on the amount. Work on a recent $210,000 sale of Kentfield School District bonds, was done for $210, while the same firm charged $250 for a $500,000 San Rafael High School District bond sale.

Generally it is not possible for the seller to determine what large banks and investors will bid on bonds, except by the size of the issue which must be bought.

But, according to Eugene K. Sturgis, senior partner in his firm and a man who has written books about bond law, interference by the persons hiring the attorney is an almost sure way of scaring away some investors, and jacking up the interest of the bonds.

Jobless Rate Low Last Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's jobless rate flel in November to an eight-year low of 4.2 per cent, the Labor Department said yesterday. Total employment was at a record November level of 72.8 million.

The actual number of unemployed at 2,966,000 was up about 200,000 from October, but it usually rises some 300,000 in November and the Bureau of Labor Statistics adjusts the jobless rate on a seasonal basis.

Without the seasonal adjustment, the unemployment rate was even lower—3.9 per cent of the total civilian labor force of 75,803,000.
